CONAN DOYLE'S FAMILY AWAITS SPIRIT MESSAGE

Arrangements Made Before Death.

BY ROBERT SAGE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, July 7.—Sir Arthur Conan Doyle, famous writer and spiritualist, who died this morning at his home in Crowborough, Sussex, is expected by his family to communicate with them from the spirit world. Adrian Conan Doyle, son of the creator of Sherlock Holmes, revealed today that his famous father had made arrangements with his wife and children to keep in touch with them after his death.

"My father fully believed that when he died he would continue to keep in touch with us," Adrian declared. "All the members of the family believe so, too. There is no question that he will often speak to us just as he did before he died."

Guard Against Impostors.

"We will always know when he is speaking, but we will have to be careful because there are practical jokers on the other side just as there are here and they may try to impersonate him. But there are tests which my mother knows, such as little mannerisms of speech which cannot be impersonated and which will tell us if it is father, himself, who is speaking."

Sir Arthur, who was 71 years of age, had been in ill health for many weeks before his death today. He was afflicted with heart trouble, which was the cause of his death. Lady Doyle, two sons and one daughter were at the bedside when he breathed his last. Lady Doyle collapsed when she heard his parting words, "You are wonderful," a touching tribute to her devotion.

Tired of "Sherlock Holmes."

Although never admitted to the select society of England's literary geniuses, Sir Arthur was probably more widely known than any English writer of recent times. The immortal Sherlock Holmes was a vivid, real personage for the schoolboys of all civilized countries, and the crafty fictional detective, accompanied by the faithful Dr. Watson, did more to spread the fame of his creator than dozens of volumes Sir Arthur wrote on other subjects.

Sir Arthur tired of Sherlock Holmes long before the public did, and he made half a dozen unsuccessful efforts to kill off the hero. But he was always compelled to revive the sleuth in order to satisfy the public demand. On his 71st birthday last May the author announced that he was forever finished with Sherlock Holmes and that he resented being called the "creator of Sherlock Holmes."

Was Once a Doctor.

Sir Arthur's career embraced a vast range of activity, of which writing detective stories was only a small part. Starting his writing career at the age of six, he completed a short story and thrilled his school companions with blood curdling yarns. He first broke into print with a translation of a German essay on gas meters.

In the meantime, however, he studied medicine and sailed to the west coast of Africa as a ship's doctor. He also accompanied a whaling expedition. He was an ardent sportsman and a student of public affairs and military tactics. He ran for parliament twice, but was defeated both times.

However, finding that medicine did not pay, while writing did, Sir Arthur followed up his success, "White Company," in 1891, with further novels. His works included "A Study in Scarlet," "The Sign of Four," "The Stark Munro Letters," "The Hound of the Baskervilles," and scores of others.

Knighted for "Boer War."

In 1900 he wrote "The Great Boer War," in which he laid before the public the facts of that conflict. For this work he was made a knight.

Sir Arthur discovered the mysteries of spiritualism in the late eighties and became more and more fascinated by his studies of the occult. Finally, after the death of his son Kingsley in the world war, he abandoned everything to spread the gospel of spiritualism. He wrote ten books on this subject and traveled 50,000 miles giving lectures.

Sir Arthur, who was born in Edinburgh, Scotland, had been married twice. In 1885 he married Louise Hawkins. She died in 1906, and in 1907 he married Jean Leckie.

Pardon Board Denies Mercy to Mooney

Los Angeles, Cal., July 7.—[Special.]—The advisory pardon board of California tonight reported to Gov. C. C. Young opposing the pardon of Thomas Mooney, convicted of murder in connection with the Preparedness day parade bombing in San Francisco in 1916.

Gov. Young then announced that his decision governing the pardon petition will be given out at 9 o'clock tomorrow morning. It seems almost a foregone conclusion that the governor will decide against Mooney as a result of the pardon board's decision.

Follows Billings Decision.

The governor, after the state Supreme court last week failed to recommend a pardon for Warren K. Billings, serving a life term in Folsom penitentiary for the bombing, called the pardon board to consider the case of Mooney, who is serving a life term in San Quentin prison.

The two men were convicted as the result of the killing of ten persons when a bomb was thrown into the parade.

Once Sentenced to Hang.

Mooney originally was sentenced to hang. This was changed to a life term.

Billings was sentenced to life. He went to Folsom prison because of a previous felony conviction. That first felony conviction defeated his campaign for freedom last week because the state criminal code throws the pardon requests of twice convicted felons before the state Supreme court. This part of the code prohibits the governor or legislature from liberating petitioners. The Supreme court decided against Billings.

SON OF MELLON GOES IN BANK TO LEARN FINANCE

New York, July 7.—(AP)—Paul W. Mellon, son of Andrew W. Mellon, secretary of the treasury, was en route to his home in Pittsburgh tonight to spend three months in his uncle's bank to learn the "rudiments of finance.

Young Mellon, who is heir to a fortune estimated at $500,000,000, said on his arrival here today that the training he receives in the bank will be used only in conducting his personal financial affairs.

He has no intention of succeeding his father as head of the vast Mellon interests, he said, but instead will seek a career in the book publishing field. He is a student at Clare college, Cambridge, England, and is home for his summer vacation.

GO FOR SWIM, BUT DON'T GET NEAR THE LAKE

Mr. and Mrs. Ross Hastings, newlyweds, of 3821 West Monroe street, decided to enjoy an afternoon's swim in Evanston yesterday. They drove to the Clark street beach, just south of Northwestern university campus, off Sheridan road.

Selecting a secluded spot, Mr. Hastings parked his coupé and carefully drew the curtains, sides and rear. Mrs. Hastings was wearing her bathing suit beneath her street clothes. Mr. Hastings was carrying his in a satchel. As they were changing, Mrs. Hastings screamed, "Help, there's a peeping Tom."

"No, it isn't, lady," replied a masculine voice.

It wasn't. It was Patrolman W. N. Blome, who conducted them to the police station, where Desk Sergeant William Johnson cited the law prohibiting the citizenry from changing clothes in a coupé with curtains drawn, any place in Evanston except in case of fire.

LEEDS SAVES WOMAN GUEST FROM DROWNING

Atlantic City, N. J., July 7.—[Special.]—William B. Leeds and members of his crew on the yacht Flying Fox leaped into the water here today and rescued Miss Olive Hamilton, former Atlantic City telephone operator, and one of Mr. Leeds' guests. The girl was in a dory near the Leeds yacht when the backwash of a passing motor boat overturned her craft.

Later in the day Miss Hamilton was seen on the water again, this time in a speed boat.

Mount Vesuvius Bursts Into Active Eruption

NAPLES, Italy, July 7.—(AP)—Mount Vesuvius today burst into active eruption, developing three fountains of burning lava that invaded the whole northwest section of the vast platform of its crater. The eruptive cone fell ninety-five feet down into the crater. Alessandro Malladra, director of the Vesuvius observatory, said the eruptive activity would continue for several weeks, but that the lava probably would solidify in the crater and in the valley of the inferno. He thought it would not pour out over the neighboring fertile slopes.

21 Reported Drowned as Floods Sweep Corea

Two hundred houses were reported destroyed, many bridges washed away, farms ruined and much livestock drowned.

His Car Stolen, Child Is Killed and He's Held

Edward Bromberg, 47 years old, a farmer of Coal City, Ill., came to Chicago last Saturday to transact business. An hour after he arrived his car was stolen from in front of the Clarendon hotel, 635 North Clark street. Bromberg was reporting the theft at the Chicago avenue police station when at Racine avenue and Taylor street in the Maxwell district the thieves ran down and killed 11 year old Lena Juliano, 1152 Taylor street. They abandoned the car.

At an inquest yesterday a coroner's jury exonerated the farmer but, "for the sake of the record," the Maxwell police booked him for reckless driving. After pleading vainly for several hours to be released, Bromberg last night stabbed himself three times in the chest with a penknife. The police took him to the Bridewell hospital, where his wounds were dressed, and returned him to his cell for arraignment in Speeders' court this morning.

CAR LINES READY FOR $10,000,000 IMPROVEMENTS

Receivers for S. Side Companies Named.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

The elevated roads and the surface lines are ready to spend $10,000,000 at once on transit improvements. They have arranged to get the money and an authoritative announcement of the plan hinges only upon the removal of certain legal difficulties. It is hoped to find a valid legal plan within a week, Chairman McDonough announced to his local transportation committee yesterday afternoon.

This expenditure is to start before reorganization and consolidation are effected, although a major move in the direction of reorganization was made yesterday. Receivers were appointed for the Chicago City Railway company and the Calumet and South Chicago Railway company, south side surface lines, by Federal Judge Wilkerson.

Busby Explains Action.

"The purpose of these suits," reads a statement from President Leonard A. Busby of those surface line companies, "is to conserve the properties, to keep them intact and operated as a part of the Chicago Surface Lines to prevent inconvenience to the traveling public, and at the same time protect the interests of the bondholders, creditors and stockholders.

"This receivership is practically necessary to effective and expeditious reorganization of the existing traction properties and their transfer to the Chicago Local Transportation company, the grantee named in the traction ordinance approved by the voters on July 1. Every effort will be made to bring about this reorganization and the acceptance of the new ordinance at the earliest possible date."

A third important act was reported yesterday, although official announcement of it was withheld. It was asserted that Harry L. Stuart, of Halsey, Stuart & Co., had been chosen as the consolidation manager. He was a member of the bankers' committee which evolved the plan of reorganization. The receivership of the south side lines is part of the general scheme of reorganization.

Company Asks Receivership.

The receivership was asked by the General Electric company on a claim against the City Railway company of $4,500 and one against the Calumet and South Chicago for $4,000. Judge Wilkerson appointed Mr. Busby, president, and Edward N. Hurley, a director, as the receivers. An answer admitting the debt was filed immediately after the petition was presented for the receivership. The mortgage trustee, the First Union Trust and Savings bank, is ordered to appear in court this morning at 10 o'clock.

The Chicago Railways company, comprising the west and north side surface lines, has been in a receivership since December, 1926. A foreclosure in that case has been entered and all that remains now is to order a sale. Since these lines have been in receivership the court has ordered a payment of 10 per cent of the first mortgage bonds.

Board Orders Payments.

The board of directors of the south side lines, before application was made for receivership yesterday, ordered $3,392,600 paid to the trustee of the first mortgage for the City Railway company and $553,200 to the trustee of the Calumet and South Chicago company. In each case the amount is 10 per cent of the outstanding first mortgage bonds, so that these south side lines will be on the same financial plane as the west and north side surface lines.

The financial structure of the south side lines is comparatively simple. The City Railway has $33,926,000 of first mortgage bonds outstanding and the Calumet and South Chicago $5,532,000. The City Railway has $18,000,000 in stock and the other company $10,000,000. The Southern Street Railway company, the other component part of the south side surface lines, has no bonds and its stock totals $2,400,000.

It is feasible and practicable, according to lawyers experienced in such matters, to have a decree on the receivership of the south side lines as soon as the reorganization plan is officially announced, which, it is rumored, will be in three weeks.

Offer Job to Fisher.

The council local transportation committee made two efforts yesterday to advance subway plans. In the morning the aldermen offered Attorney Walter L. Fisher the job of legal adviser to the committee. It was announced he took the matter under ad-

State Indicts Gene Oliver on Bribe Charge

While County Assessor Gene G. Oliver was on trial in federal court yesterday on an income tax evasion charge, he was indicted by the state grand jury on six counts of bribery. The bribery action against Oliver grew out of government testimony purporting to show that part of his income was money received for fixing taxes.

Indicted with Oliver was William Nichols, a salesman for the Wisconsin Lime and Cement company, who was on the witness stand throughout the day in the Oliver trial. Nichols is charged with aiding and abetting Oliver. He also is under indictment in federal court on income tax charges.

Based on Wieboldt Charge.

The state indictment, returned before Chief Justice Dennis J. Normoyle of the Criminal court, charges that seven checks totaling $41,868 were paid by Werner A. Wieboldt, president of the Wieboldt Stores, Inc., for the purpose of tax reductions, and that these checks were received by Oliver and Nichols.

The true bill does not specify in what manner the alleged bribe was shared, but there has been testimony in the federal trial that Raymond F. Stanton, superintendent of streets for the 39th ward, received about $10,000 of the Wieboldt checks. Stanton was a witness before the state grand jury. So was Paul Smith of the Sheridan Trust and Savings bank, who testified in the Oliver trial that Nichols obtained certificates of deposit for $18,731.55 and for $14,500 with Wieboldt checks made out to him. Further testimony purported to show that Oliver deposited the larger certificate in his bank account.

Assistant State's Attorney Homer Lodge presented the bribery case to the grand jury. When the indictment was returned, the first by the July jury, Justice Normoyle remarked that a start had been made and instructed the members to return to their labors. Whereupon the foreman, Bernard De Vry of 1049 North Sacramento avenue, said:

"And when we have finished this will be a cleaner city." Bond for Oliver and Nichols was set by the court at $5,000 each.

Nichols Is Cross-Examined.

Meanwhile in the federal court Nichols was submitted to a cross-examination all yesterday afternoon by First Assistant United States Attorney Cassius Foust after he had told a story attributing the Wieboldt checks to a dead man, one "Butch" Douglas, a gambler.

On direct examination by State Senator James J. Barbour, Nichols testified that Douglas brought the Wieboldt checks to him in the office of Charles Karleskind, a bookmaker, at 105 West Monroe sreet.

"Douglas said he was going out of town over the week-end and he wanted me to put the checks through my account," Nichols said. He said he did not know at the time that the checks were made out in his name, but that when he saw Douglas again, he suspected something was wrong with the transaction and "told him plenty."

For Tax Adjustments.

On cross-examination, Nichols said he asked Douglas at first why the checks were made out in his (Nichols') name.

"Douglas told me that the checks represented tax adjustment services for the Wieboldts," said Nichols. "He said some attorneys had participated in the work and my name was used because that was the only way he could get his end."

Nichols was asked why he didn't cash both of the certificates of deposit at the same time for Douglas or else indorse both of them over to the latter. He said he took them to the bank as an accommodation for Douglas, and cashed only one of them because he was afraid to carry $33,000 on his person.

Oliver will take the stand in his own defense when the trial is resumed tomorrow, according to Senator Barbour, who asked for an adjournment for one day to permit a business trip.

Evanston Alderman Would Charge Outsiders at Beach

Ald. Sidney F. Porter of Evanston, at the council meeting last night, introduced a resolution providing that the two principal beaches of the city, at Main and Lee streets, be fenced off and an admission charge of from fifty to seventy-five cents be charged outsiders. "The riff-raff from Chicago and other places is crowding Evanston citizens off their beaches," he said. The resolution was referred to the parks committee. No one spoke against it.

HOOVER WARNS: 'THIS TREATY OR NONE AT ALL'

Senate Hears Plea; Begins Battle.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 7.—[Special.]—The struggle over ratification of the London navy limitation treaty opened in the senate today with what bids fair to be a battle over the production of diplomatic correspondence and other documents withheld from the foreign relations committee by President Hoover.

Senator Kenneth McKellar [Dem., Tenn.], an opponent of the treaty, offered a resolution calling upon the executive in the name of the senate for the suppressed documents and under the rules consideration of the motion went over until tomorrow. Not, however, until Senator Hiram W. Johnson [Rep., Cal.], leader of the opposition to the treaty, had delivered himself of a fiery challenge of the administration's course in this matter.

The senate, convened in special session at the call of the President, got down to business on the treaty following the reading of a message from Mr. Hoover urging prompt ratification of the London agreement. The executive message was the first considered explanation and defense of the treaty that had been officially volunteered up to date by the administration.

"The question before us now," said the President, ". . . is whether we shall have this treaty or no treaty."

Answers Treaty Critics.

Mr. Hoover said that on Jan. 1 last the ratios of the three naval powers in ships actually built were: The United States, 100; Great Britain, 113, and Japan, 65, while under the treaty they will be: United States, 100; Great Britain, 102.4, and Japan, 63.6.

With regard to the criticism that the American delegation accepted an agreement providing three fewer eight inch gun cruisers than our navy general board had declared the irreducible minimum, the President said that this objection "revolves around less than three per cent of our whole fleet." And the question as to this three per cent of tonnage, he added, is whether "30,000 tons of ships armed with eight inch guns are better than 38,000 tons armed with 6 inch guns," a question upon which "our high naval authorities are divided."

"No critic has yet asserted," said the President, "that with the navies provided in this agreement, together with our army, our aerial defense, and our national resources, we cannot defend ourselves, and certainly we want no military establishment for the purpose of domination of other nations."

Ignores Admirals' Views.

This statement is at variance with the views of numerous admirals and other navy critics of the treaty, who told the foreign relations committee that with the Japanese ratio increased by this agreement the United States could not possibly defend the Philippine islands.

Mr. Hoover asserted that if this treaty is rejected "the world will be again plunged backward from its progress toward peace."

"The question before us now," said the President, "is not whether we shall have a treaty with either three more 8-inch gun cruisers or four less 6-inch cruisers, or whether we shall have a larger reduction in tonnage. It is whether we shall have this treaty or no treaty. It is a question as to whether we shall move strongly toward limitation and reduction in naval arms or whether we shall have no limitation or reduction and shall enter upon a disastrous period of competitive armament."

Fifty-eight Senators Present.

There were 58 senators, 9 more than a quorum, present when the senate met. Senators Charles S. Deneen [Rep., Ill.] and Otis F. Glenn [Rep., Ill.] were absent, but are expected to appear tomorrow. There was a light attendance in the galleries. Mrs. Henry L. Stimson, wife of the secretary of state, was the only occupant of the diplomatic gallery.

After the opening formalities Vice President Curtis appointed Senator James E. Watson [Rep., Ind.], majority leader, and Senator Thomas J. Walsh [Dem., Mont.], acting minority leader, to notify the President that the senate had convened and to inquire if he had any message to transmit. After a recess of 25 minutes the committee reappeared and reported that Mr. Hoover would transmit a message in writing. Almost instantly Maurice C. Latta, a White House executive clerk, stepped through the doorway and handed the message to a senate officer.

It was immediately after the reading of the message that Senator McKellar offered his resolution demanding the suppressed documents. Senator David A. Reed [Rep., Pa.], one of the negotiators of the treaty, leaped to his feet in opposition.

"Much has been made of the matter of disclosing the cables exchanged between the President or the state department and the American ambassador in London," said Reed. "Copies of all of those cables were submitted to the senator from Arkansas [Mr. Robinson] and myself in confidence in preparation for the work at London. I still have the copy which was submitted to me in confidence and as I said to the committee when the question arose there, I shall be very glad to show the correspondence to any senator who will accept it in the confidence in which I accepted it. The senator who accepts my suggestion will readily see the reason why the correspondence ought not to be made generally public."

Johnson Bursts Forth.

Before Reed ended Johnson was on his feet, his eyes blazing behind his spectacles and his silvering locks quickering on either side of their central parting.

'Here is a proposition that is made to the United States," snapped Johnson, waving a clenched fist from which a minatory forefinger protruded. "The senator from Pennsylvania [Mr. Reed] says, 'I have the documents upon which this treaty was negotiated. I have read them.' Of course, that is ample, I concede. 'The senator from Arkansas [Mr. Robinson] has read them and we have consulted concerning them. I,' the senator from Pennsylvania says, 'will permit any other member of the senate, forsooth, to see these documents in confidence. He must not talk to any of his fellow senators about them. He must not argue the treaty concerning them. He must do naught in relation to them.'

"But the senator from Pennsylvania will permit any member of the senate, he will permit him to see in confidence these documents, provided that he holds inviolate the confidence, as any man would that ever gave it, and provided he does not utilize them in relation to the treaty.

"When that proposition was made in the committee on foreign relations I scorned it, just as I do now. As an United States senator representing a sovereign state, and standing here representing the United States of America, I decline to accept in confidence from one of my colleagues what he and another of my colleagues have used in the past and will utilize in the future.

"I demand, sir, for the United States senate, the right to see these documents and the right to utilize them in debate."

MacDONALD UNDER FIRE

LONDON, July 7.—When closely questioned in the house of commons as to whether a secret agreement had been reached with President Hoover, during the Rapidan talks, to set the cruiser limit at 91,000 tons, Prime Minister MacDonald today denied that the figure was decided as a result of those conversations, but admitted that this figure had played an important part in the entire negotiations.

Suggested by Admiralty.

"At the time of the preliminary negotiations with the United States last August and September the question of cruiser replacement was considered by the admiralty and the figure of 91,000 tons was put forward for new tonnage to be completed by the end of 1936," the prime minister replied to a question by Commander A. J. R. Southby, Conservative.

"This figure was employed in the ensuing conversations, which had for their object the removal of the earlier difficulties in regard to cruiser limitation. These preliminary conversations were only for the purpose of clearing the ground prior to the London conference. The figure of 91,000 tons was finally fixed during the conference, when, after negotiations with the United States and Japan, it was found that it met with our replacement requirements within the terms of the treaty."

Proposes Discussion of Pact.

Mr. MacDonald informed Commander Southby that the forthcoming imperial conference might well afford a convenient opportunity for discussing the naval building program in the light of the London treaty.

Replying to a question by Rear Admiral T. Beamish, the prime minister said the restrictions prescribed by the London pact required statutory authority, which would take the form of an amendment to the 1922 Washington treaty. He intimated that it was not considered essential to pass the required legislation before ratification of the London pact, although this was usually the custom.

FINED FOR FIRING GUN ON FOURTH. Charles Berg, 30 years old, 922 West 20th street, was fined $100 yesterday by Judge James Fardy for firing a revolver on the Fourth of July.

TEXT OF PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE TO SENATE REQUESTING EARLY RATIFICATION

Washington, D. C., July 7.—(AP)—The text of President Hoover's special message to the senate calling for ratification of the London naval treaty follows:

"In requesting the senate to convene in session for the special purpose of dealing with the treaty for the limitation and reduction of naval armament signed at London April 22, 1930, it is desirable that I should present my views upon it.

"This is especially necessary because of misinformation and misrepresentation which has been widespread by those who in reality are opposed to all limitation and reduction in naval arms.

"We must naturally expect opposition from those groups who believe in unrestricted military strength as an objective of the American nation.

"Indeed, we find the same type of minds in Great Britain and Japan in parallel opposition to this treaty. Nevertheless, I am convinced that the overwhelming majority of the American people are opposed to the conception of these groups.

States Views on Defense.

"Our people believe that military strength should be held in conformity with the sole purpose of national defense; they earnestly desire real progress in limitation and reduction of naval arms of the world, and their aspiration is for abolition of competition in the building of arms as a step toward world peace. Such a result can be obtained in no other way than by international agreement.

"The present treaty is one which holds these safeguards and advances these ideals. Its ratification is in the interest of the United States. It is fair to the other participating nations. It promotes the cause of good relations.

"The only alternative to this treaty is the competitive building of navies, with all its flow of suspicion, hate, ill will, and ultimate disaster. History supports those who hold to agreement as the path to peace. Every naval limitation treaty with which we are familiar, from the Rush-Bagot agreement of 1817, limiting vessels of war on the great lakes, to the Washington arms treaty of 1921, has resulted in a marked growth of good will and confidence between the nations which were parties to it.

Naval Competition Folly.

"It is folly to think that because we are the richest nation in the world we can outbuild all other countries. Other nations will make any sacrifice to maintain their instruments of defense against us, and we shall eventually reap in their hostility and ill will the full measure of the additional burden which we may thus impose upon them. The very entry of the United States into such courses as this would invite the consolidation of the rest of the world against us and bring our peace and independence into jeopardy. We have only to look at the state of Europe in 1914 to find ample evidence of the futility and danger of competition in arms.

"It will be remembered that in response to recommendations from the senate a conference between the United States, Great Britain, and Japan for limitation of those categories of naval arms not covered by the Washington treaty of 1921 was held at Geneva in 1927. That conference failed because the United States could not agree to the large size of fleets demanded by other governments. The standards set up at that time would have required an ultimate fleet of about 1,400,000 tons for the United States. As against this the total United States fleet set out under this treaty will be about 1,123,000 tons.

Defense Is First Thought.

"Defense is the primary function of government, and therefore our first concern in examination of any act of this character is the test of its adequacy in defense. No critic has yet asserted that, with the navies provided in this agreement, together with our army, our aerial defense, and our national resources, we cannot defend ourselves, and certainly we want no military establishment for the purpose of domination of other nations.

"Our naval defense position under this treaty is the more clear if we examine our present naval strength in comparison to the present strength of the other nations, and then examine the improvements in this proportion which will result from this treaty. This improvement arises from the anticipation of parity in battleships to be reached ten years hence under the Washington arms treaty, and the fact that other nations have been building in the classes of ships not limited by that treaty which we, until lately, lagged behind.

Compares World's Fleets.

"On the first of January last the total naval tonnage, disregarding paper fleets, and taking only those ships actually built and building, was, for the United States, 1,170,000 tons; for the British empire, 1,332,000 tons; for Japan, 768,000 tons. That is, if the United States navy be taken as 100, then the British navy equals 113 and the Japanese navy, 65. Under this treaty the United States will have 1,123,000 tons; Great Britain, 1,151,000 tons, and Japan, 714,000 tons, or a ratio of 100 for the United States to 102.4 for Great Britain, and 63.6 for Japan. The slightly larger tonnage ratio mentioned for Great Britain is due to the fact that her cruiser fleet will be constituted more largely of smaller vessels, weaker in gunpower, but the United States has the option to duplicate the exact tonnage and gun caliber of the British cruiser fleet if we desire to exercise it.

"Relative improvement in the position of the United States under this treaty is even better than this statement would indicate.

Draws Another Comparison.

"In the more important categories, battleships, aircraft carriers, 8 inch and 6 inch cruisers—that is, omitting the secondary arms of destroyers and submarines—the fleet built and actually building on Jan. 1 of this year was 809,000 tons in the United States, 1,083,000 tons in Great Britain and 568,000 tons in Japan, or upon the basis of 100 for the United States, it was 134 for Great Britain and 70 for Japan.

"Under this treaty the United States will on Jan. 1, 1937, possess completed 911,000 tons of these major units, Great Britain 948,000 tons and Japan 556,000 tons. In addition, the United States will have one 10,000 ton 8 inch cruiser two-thirds completed. This will give a ratio in these categories of 100 for the United States to 102.9 for Great Britain and 60.5 for Japan. The reason for the excess British tonnage is again as mentioned above.

"In other words, the United States, in these categories, increases by 102,000 tons, Great Britain decreases by 140,000 tons, and Japan decreases by 12,000 tons. These readjustments of units are to take place during the next six years. The treaty then comes to an end except for such arrangements as may be made then for its continuance.

Set Forth Criticism.

"The major discussion has been directed almost wholly to the fact that the United States is to have 18 cruisers with 8 inch guns, with an aggregate tonnage of 180,000 tons, as against Great Britain's 15 such ships, with a tonnage of 146,800 tons, and Japan's 12 such ships of a tonnage of 108,400 tons; the United States supplementing this tonnage with cruisers armed with 6 inch guns up to a total of 323,500 tons; Great Britain up to 339,000 tons, and Japan to 208,800 tons, the larger gross tonnage to Great Britain, as stated, being compensation for the larger gun caliber of the American cruiser fleet, but as said, the United States has the option to duplicate the British fleet if it so desires.

"The criticism of this arrangement arises from the fact that the general board of the United States navy recommended that to reach parity with Great Britain the United States should have three more of the 10,000 ton cruisers (21 instead of 18), with 8 inch guns, and a total of 315,000 tons or 8,000 tons less total cruiser tonnage than this treaty provides.

What Treaty Provides.

"Thus this treaty provides that instead of this 30,000 tons more of 8 inch ships recommended by the general board, we will have 38,000 tons of ships armed with 6 inch guns, there being no limitation upon the size of cruisers up to 10,000 tons. Therefore, criticism revolves around less than 3 per cent of our whole fleet, and even within this 3 per cent comes the lesser question of whether 30,000 tons of ships armed with 8 inch guns are better than 38,000 tons armed with 6 inch guns. The opinion of our high naval authorities is divided on the relative merits of these alternatives. Many earnestly believe that the larger tonnage of 6 inch ships is more advantageous and others vice versa. However, those who seek to make this the outstanding feature of criticism fail to mention that under the London treaty the obligation of the Washington arms treaty of 1921 is so altered that Great Britain scraps 133,900 tons of battleships armed with 13½ inch guns, the United States scraps 70,000 tons of battleships armed with 12 inch guns, and Japan scraps 26,300 tons. These arrangements are made not only for reduction of arms, but to anticipate the ultimate parity between the United States and Great Britain in battleships, which would not otherwise be realized for several years.

"There is in this provision a relative gain in proportions compared with the British fleet of 63,900 tons of battleships with 13½ inch guns. This is of vastly more importance than the dispute as to the relative combatant strength of 38,000 tons of 6 inch cruisers against 30,000 tons of 8 inch cruisers. Indeed it would seem that such criticisms must be based upon an undisclosed desire to break down all limitation of arms.

"To those who seek earnestly and properly for reduction in warships I would point out that as compared with January first of this year the total aggregate navies of the three powers under this treaty would have been reduced by nearly 300,000 tons. Had a settlement been made at Geneva in 1927 upon the only proposal possible at that time, the fleets of the three powers would have been approximately 680,000 tons greater than under the treaty now in consideration.

From Economic Viewpoint.

"The economic burdens and the diversion of taxes from welfare purposes which would be imposed upon ourselves and other nations by failure of this treaty are worth consideration. Under its provisions the replacement of battleships required under the Washington arms treaty of 1921 is postponed for six years. The costs of replacing and maintaining the three scrapped battleships is saved. Likewise we make economies in construction and operation by the reduction in our submarine and destroyer fleets to 52,700 and 150,000 tons respectively. What hte possible saving over an otherwise inevitable era of competitive building would be no one can estimate.

"If we assume that our present naval program, except for this treaty, is to complete the ships authorized by congress and those authorized and necessary to be replaced under the Washington arms treaty, and to maintain a destroyer fleet of about 225,000 tons and a submarine fleet of 90,000 tons, such a fleet will not reach parity with Great Britain, yet would cost in construction over $500,000,000 more during the next six years than the fleet provided under this treaty. But in addition to this, as stated, there is a very large saving by this treaty in annual operation of the fleet over what would be the case if we even built no more than the present programs.

Rebukes "Selfish Minded."

"The more selfish minded will give little credence to the argument that savings by other parties to the agreement in the limitation of naval construction are of interest to the American people, yet the fundamental economic fact is that if the resources of these other nations are freed for devotion to the welfare of their people and to pacific purposes of reproductive commerce they will result in blessings to the world, including ourselves. If we were to accept the Geneva conference base as the end of naval strength under competitive building for the three governments, the saving in construction and operation by the treaty is literally billions of dollars.

"The question before us now is not whether we shall have a treaty with either three more 8 inch gun cruisers or 4 less 6 inch gun cruisers, or whether we shall have a larger reduction in tonnage. It is whether we shall have this treaty or no treaty. It is a question as to whether we shall move strongly toward limitation and reduction in naval arms or whether we shall have no limitation or reduction and shall enter upon a disastrous period of competitive armament.

"This treaty does mark an important step in disarmament and in world peace. It is important for so many reasons that it should be dealt with at once. The subject has been under discussion since the Geneva conference three years ago. The lines of this treaty have been known and under discussion since last summer. The actual document has been before the American people and before the senate for nearly three months. It has been favorably reported by the senate foreign relations committee. Every solitary fact which affects judgment upon the treaty is known, and the document itself comprises the sole obligation of the United States. If we fail now the world will be again plunged backward from its progress toward peace."

Senator Glenn Leaves for Special Session on Treaty

KILLS WOMAN HE SAYS BROKE UP HIS HOME

Detroit, Mich., July 7.—(AP)—Andrew Steffen, 48, member of a wealthy Michigan family, today shot and killed Mrs. Irene Harder, 33, a divorcee. He then held the muzzle of the pistol against his temple and pulled the trigger several times, but the gun was empty.

According to police, Mrs. Harder was partner in an apartment house in which the shooting occurred.

Police said Steffen confessed to killing the woman when questioned. He said she had impoverished him and broken up his home through blackmail.

$55,825 IN REWARDS.

Rewards totaling $55,825 are offered for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the slayer of Alfred Lingle, Tribune reporter. The information should be sent to the headquarters established by State's Attorney Swanson in Room 303 Temple building, 77 West Washington street. Telephone State 3729.

Startling new information growing out of the war of gangland against newspapers was disclosed yesterday when it was made known by Leland H. Reese, reporter for the Chicago Daily News, that not only had he been specifically threatened with death but that the injuries to himself and his guards in an automobile crash near De Kalb last Friday morning were apparently brought about by persons in a suspicious black sedan who trailed the Daily News men for miles and then forced them off the road into the ditch.

Mr. Reese, in a signed article appearing in yesterday's Daily News, also admitted that Julius Rosenheim had coöperated with him in collecting information of the activities of gangsters. Rosenheim was shot to death last Feb. 1, presumably because he had been gathering and publishing information of gangsters.

Threats and Two Murders.

Thus, it was pointed out, there may come before the state's attorney's office and the present grand jury not only the murder of Alfred Lingle, reporter for THE TRIBUNE, but also the slaying of Rosenheim and the admitted threats to kill Reese. Such an inquiry would encompass the assaults upon three newspapermen—two of them killed by gangsters and the third menaced at least twice.

State's Attorney Swanson yesterday made ready to launch the investigation into charges made by Harry T. Brundidge of St. Louis, staff reporter of the St. Louis Star, to the effect that other Chicago newspapermen are involved with gangsters and in racketeering activities.

Mr. Swanson announced that he would assume personal direction of this inquiry, and that First Assistant State's Attorney John E. Northup and Assistant State's Attorney William A. Rittenhouse would assist him.

Seek Facts from Brundidge.

The state's attorney said he would request Brundidge to reveal specific details, names, and dates in connection with the general charges he has published.

Brundidge will first be asked to submit all his information before the three state prosecutors, sitting as a board of inquiry, and State's Attorney Swanson said if it appeared that there is evidence of criminal activities in Mr. Brundidge's information, he will be requested to present it before the regular grand jury which was impaneled yesterday by Chief Justice Denis J. Normoyle of the Criminal court.

If the Brundidge charges are based solely on gossip and rumor, Mr. Swanson said he would not hesitate to say so.

Other Capone Visitors.

Particular significance was attached at the state's attorney's office to Brundidge's statement that he would reveal the names of newspapermen, other than Lingle, who had visited Al [Scarface] Capone on the gang chieftain's Palm Island retreat in Biscayne Bay, at Miami.

"Dig around and find out the truth," Brundidge wrote, "surrounding the arrest in Havana last spring of Capone and a newspaperman who gave an alias and said he was a real estate dealer."

Brundidge will be asked to be specific in revealing the name of this newspaperman and what he has learned concerning his arrest with Capone, it was stated.

Star Promises Appearance.

Any doubt that Brundidge would come back to Chicago to present his evidence were dispelled yesterday with the publication in his paper, the Star, of the following announcement, which was carried in dispatches to Chicago:

"Harry T. Brundidge of the news staff of the St. Louis Star will appear voluntarily in Chicago and go before the Cook county grand jury when State's Attorney Swanson wants him to do so. There is no legal process by which Brundidge can be compelled to go into another state and forced to testify before a grand jury, and his appearance in this instance will be entirely voluntarily in line with his published offer to appear.

"The state's attorney has not indicated when he will call Brundidge.

"The Star's reporter has appeared before numerous grand juries in various parts of the United States in connection with the Star's medical diploma mill investigations and other undertakings of a public character."

Assistant State's Attorney Rittenhouse said yesterday that he had sent a letter to the managing editor of the St. Louis Star, requesting that Brundidge be sent here for an official interview. It is expected the St. Louis reporter will arrive in Chicago tomorrow.

The De Kalb "Incident."

The Daily News reporter, Mr. Reese, in his signed article, referred to the automobile crash in which he figured in the early hours of July 4, near De Kalb, as "an incident," and as "not much of an accident."

In another part of his story he declared that the "good-sized black sedan" had followed his car ten miles, clinging close behind, and then "deliberately sideswiped us." The story said:

"We were crowded off the road into the ditch. Our car turned clear over and lit upright on its wheels. Finlay and Braun [described by Reese in the article as his bodyguards] each suffered broken ribs. I was badly bruised on the head, left arm and back. I must have been unconscious for a few minutes; when I came to the car that had hit us was gone."

Then Mr. Reese revealed that he had been told that a portion of one of Brundidge's articles, in which it was stated that reporter for the Daily News was soon to "get his," referred to himself, and that he had received previous warnings.

A Definite Warning.

"On Thursday, July 3," Reese's articles stated, "I received a really definite message that I was to be attacked and beaten, if not killed."

This message, Reese said, did not come from the usual "anonymous" or gangland sources, but from "quite another source." He repeated that he had been warned before, and that such messages "became frequent after the murder of Julius Rosenheim, professional informant, and again after the killing of Alfred Lingle of THE TRIBUNE."

This was why, Reese explained, he has been accompanied night and day by Allen Finlay, who was engaged by the Daily News and given a commission as a special policeman and licensed to carry a revolver.

Ready to Face Quiz.

After describing his relationship with Rosenheim as that of a reporter with an undercover "tipster" who quickly could ferret out the motive or guilty persons behind a gang attack, Reese declared that he denies "most emphatically that my 'relation' with Rosenheim was scandalous."

Mr. Reese mentions a theory as to why Rosenheim was slain. "I have been told by men who ought to know," Reese says, "that he was killed in an effort to frighten the Daily News away from its attack on the Capone beer racket in the loop. Of course that effort failed." The matter never was brought before the grand jury, it is understood, but it may be this month.

Reese said that although he has been accused more than once of dishonesty—by the men he had attacked and whose enmity he has won—he has "never received money from any illegitimate source at any time in my life."

"Let me add," he said, "that I am ready to confront, in any proper investigation, any person who cares to accuse me of acts either dishonest or unbecoming to a newspaper man. My finances, such as they are, can be examined by any one who has the right to do so."

Await Lingle Results.

State's Attorney Swanson said yesterday that his plans for presentation of evidence to the July grand jury did not include the calling of any witnesses in the Lingle murder inquiry, unless this branch of the investigation yields such definite results as may properly be presented to the grand jury.

He affirmed that he was in complete accord with Charles F. Rathbun, TRIBUNE attorney and assistant state's attorney appointed to direct the Lingle inquiry.

Mr. Rathbun and Chief Investigator Pat Roche yesterday questioned Patsi Tardi, a west side hoodlum arrested by the police as a suspect in the Lingle murder. It was understood that Tardi had been viewed by witnesses to the murder, but there was no announcement forthcoming as to the result of the showup. Tardi was held.

Mangano Is Picked Up.

Besides the arrest of Tardi yesterday the prosecutor's office was interested in the capture of another underworld character, Lawrence Mangano, one of the twenty-eight "public enemies." Mangano was seized at Harrison and Halsted streets by Lieut. Walter Storms. He protested he is an honest business man although known to be a gambling house operator and general undesirable. He had $1,000 in his pocket and within two hours of his arrest a writ of habeas corpus was asked in his behalf. Judge Normoyle allowed the police to hold him without other process until 10 o'clock today.

Pat Roche arranged to question him, together with Tardi, about stories that a west side gambling syndicate desired the murder of Lingle. Tardi, who two years ago killed Danny Hartnett in a row over vice privileges then allotted to Jack Zuta, had lately become affiliated with the gambling syndicate, police said.

Roche yesterday asked that $10,000 of the rewards offered in the Lingle murder be set aside for information on the identity of the murderer. He explained that certain persons might be induced to give secret information for $10,000, but they could not be induced to risk an appearance in court against the murderer, even if the reward were $100,000.

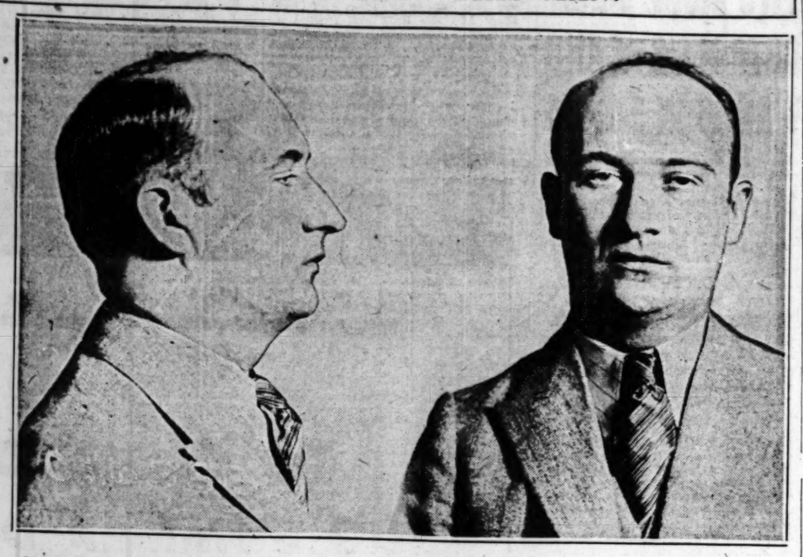
It was further explained that if the identity of the murderer were known eyewitnesses of the killing could complete the legal evidence necessary to conviction.

Zuta Still Sought.

Zuta, whose life was sought last week supposedly by persons who intended he should not tell what he knew about the Lingle murder, was still being hunted yesterday on orders of Roche. In the search for him Patsy Pasquale, 1519 West Adams street, and Samuel Ginsberg, 4520 Washington boulevard, were arrested.

Bernard O'Donnell, member of the O'Donnell gang of the far west side, went on trial yesterday before Judge E. I. Frankhouser in the Criminal court on charges of gun toting. A jury was selected and then Attorneys W. W. Smith and Everett Jennings, for O'Donnell, moved to suppress the evidence, a revolver, on the grounds of illegal search and seizure. Policeman Barney Sovea testified that he noticed a suspicious bulge in the pocket of O'Donnell and upon searching him found the gun. Judge Frankhauser is to rule today on the legality of the search.

HAVE YOU SEEN THIS MAN?



If you have, call Wabash 4747, the detective bureau, and notify the police he is at large and where he may be found. These are rogues' gallery pictures of William (Three Fingered Jack) White, one time safe blower, and now business agent of one of the branches of the teamsters' union. He is one of those named by the crime commission as a public enemy.

DELAY SENTENCE ON REPORTER IN EXTORTION CASE

Los Angeles, Cal., July 7.—[Special.]—Morris Lavine, former Los Angeles Examiner reporter, whom a jury last Saturday convicted of attempted extortion, today won a stay of sentence when he went before Superior Judge Rey Schauer.

Lavine and Miss Leontine Johnson, who was convicted with him, are liable to fines up to $5,000 or imprisonment from one to five years, or both.

Miss Johnson, like Lavine, today secured a stay when attorneys introduced motions for arrest of judgment. The motions will be argued before Judge Schauer Friday. If the judge decides adversely the pair will be sentenced. Their attorneys stated that the convictions would be fought to the state's highest court.

Lavine, at the time a Hearst reporter, was convicted, along with Miss Johnson, of attempting to extort $75,000 marked money from Charles H. Crawford, local politician, the money allegedly presenting payment made by Crawford on behalf of himself and three others to avoid mention in a series of articles appearing under Miss Johnson's name in the Los Angeles Examiner. Lavine helped to write the articles, which consisted of an expose of dealings in the $30,000,000 collapse of the Julian Petroleum company. Lavine had Crawford's $75,000 marked money in his possession when arrested coming out of Crawford's office last March 10.

ALD. ALBERT TO BE FIRST WITNESS IN CHURCH CRIME QUIZ

Ald. Arthur F. Albert [43d] announced yesterday that he had been invited to be the first witness in the crime investigation conducted by the special committee of the Chicago Church federation. The first hearing will be held this afternoon at the Hotel La Salle. The special investigation committee was planned shortly after the Lingle killing and has been in process of organization under the leadership of the Rev. Philip Yarrow, chairman of the political action commission of the federation.

According to Dr. Yarrow the special committee expects to invite a number of politicians, police officials, newspaper men, and others to discuss police and crime conditions in the city. After this is done the committee will make a pronouncement on the situation which will represent the 500,000 members of the various churches cooperating in the federation. Dr. Yarrow stated that the inquiry probably will be secret. Last week the committee sent an open letter to the city council asking that the police department be made the subject of an official investigation.

Ralph Capone in Court to Ask Cut in Sentence

QUIZ MONTREAL EDITOR AFTER GANG MURDER

MONTREAL, Que., July 7.—[Special.]—Gangland secrets are being uncovered here in the investigation of the murder of Henri Bouclier, 60 years old, a wealthy Belgian, who came here two years ago from California via Chicago and who was taken for a ride by rival racketeers.

L. G. Rousseau, an editor on the Goglu, a local French weekly newspaper, was questioned in provincial detective headquarters today.

Rousseau, according to information given by the police today, called at the office of Chief Langevin the day before the murder of Bouclier was discovered. He wanted a permit to carry a revolver giving as his reasons that he required protection. The permit was refused.

Police have evidence that $1,200 was paid to some one with the understanding that the money was for protection for 10 disorderly houses.

RUSH OF AUTOS AFTER HOLIDAY LASTS TILL DAWN

Pavements Bear Heavy Load All Night.

BY HAL FOUST.

Dawn yesterday saw the last of a million holiday motorists straggling into Chicago. The heavy traffic that started on the eve of the Fourth of July lasted throughout Sunday night.

At 10 o'clock on Sunday night at Antioch, a few miles south of the Wisconsin state line, a stream of cars was flowing through the town on route 21, pouring south from the Wisconsin resorts. Three parties of Chicageans were watching the parade from a restaurant window.

"I'd like to be getting home," said a sunburned young woman in a summer frock that exposed red shoulders.

Wait Till Worst Is Over.

"We'll be going soon," replied her equally sunburned companion, "but I want to wait until the worst of the traffic jam is over."

It was this fear of accidents in the rushes on narrow pavements and this desire to avoid the unpleasant blockades at highway intersections that kept thousands of Chicagoans from arriving home at a reasonable hour. The fears were well founded, because pavements were blocked from overcrowding from early afternoon until well after midnight.

Shortly after midnight, on the narrow Waukegan road in Lake county, strings of automobiles, with a slow driver at the head of each group, eased over pavement that was slick with motor drippings and tar or oil road dressing, sweated by the heat of many tires.

On the Milwaukee road sections that are being widened, there was "travel at your own risk," and the risk was agumented by piles of dirt on the old pavement, but automobiles were feeling their way through.

Sheridan road at 2:30 a. m. was still carrying a heavy load.

Northwest Highway Jammed.

On the Northwest highway, from the crest of every hill could be seen a long curving string of red tail lights ahead. This was at 1 a. m. yesterday.

Traveling in the dark hours of early morning did not involve the tranquility usually associated with this time of day. There were reckless drivers, virtually mad to get home, swinging out of line in the face of oncoming traffic and swinging back into line, almost brushing other cars off the pavement. There were slow drivers, with a girl snuggled under the right arm, watching the moonlight as they idled along, interfering with reasonable speed on the highways.

SUSPECTED INFORMER MAY BE KIDNAP VICTIM —NOTE REACHES WIFE

Rockford, Ill., July 7.—(AP)—Oscar Bimm, 39, has disappeared, his wife told police today. On the basis of a note found near Silvis, Ill., today, she believes he is a captive of bootleggers who suspect him of informing prohibition agents of stills in northern Illinois.

The note, found wrapped in Bimm's cap, was picked up by a state highway policeman. It read:

"Please send word to Mrs. Ida Bimm, 523 16th street, Rockford. They got me again. Said they would make me talk. They beat me last night. Left me tied in car with a gag in mouth on the floor when they stopped here. Dropped this note after we started. Did not tell police of gang as I told you I was."

Mrs. Bimm told detectives that Bimm was kidnaped July 1 and taken to Cicero, Ill., where gangsters failed to identify him as the suspected informer. He was beaten and drugged, she said, and dropped on the road near Geneva, Ill. He had intended to report his experience to police she said.

Police said they believed Bimm was en route to St. Louis this time.

BOY HIT BY AUTO AND KILLED AS HE FALLS OFF TRUCK

Falling off the rear of a truck on which he had hitched a ride, 9 year old George Muszynski, 3233 North Central Park avenue, was run over by another car and almost instantly killed at School street and Monticello avenue last night. He died en route to the Belmont hospital.

Irving Park police detained the driver, F. D. Quinn, 51 year old salesman of 3316 North Ridgeway avenue. The boy's death and two others yesterday increased the county motor toll this year to 488. The other victims:

Walter Sullivan, 43 years old, 4459 Washington boulevard. Died in the Westlake hospital, Melrose Park, of injuries suffered last Thursday when the car in which he was riding struck a telephone pole on River road near Touhy avenue.

Unidentified man, about 50 years old. Struck by an automobile Sunday night at Le Claire and Chicago avenues. He died in St. Ann's hospital. The motorist, Joseph Seifert, 1308 Harvey avenue, Cicero, is held.

STOP RHINELAND OUTRAGES! PARIS TELLS GERMANY

French Envoy Calls on Berlin's Foreign Chief.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, July 7.—The French ambassador to Berlin, Pierre de Margerie, called on Germany's foreign minister, Dr. Julius Curtius, this evening to discuss measures necessary to be taken for the protection of separatists against the fury of revenge of radical German Nationalists in the evacuated Rhineland. The conference lasted nearly an hour, after which the German cabinet was called into special session.

A semi-official statement of the negotiations tonight said that France had cited The Hague amnesty agreement, by which Germany was pledged not to persecute former separatists. Foreign Minister Curtius, it was stated, condemned the acts of violence, but attributed the renewed outbreak of anger to the treasonable aims of the separatists.

Pledges Riots Will Cease.

Dr. Curtius, in his talk with the French ambassador, expressed the belief that quiet would be restored in the Rhineland and the Palatinate within a few days. The strength of the German police force on the Rhine is restricted by the Versailles treaty and the Nationalists are said to be trying to exploit the riots as a demand for an increase in police protection.

The Saar question was also discussed by the German foreign chief and the French ambassador. A prominent Berlin official today said the Germans are ready to pay $200,000,000 for an early return of the Saar mines, but are unwilling to agree to the Paris demand of joint ownership. He said Berlin believes that by next winter the French will realise that "careless treatment during the occupation" has decreased the value of the mines and that it will be better to let Germans manage their own property alone.

Meanwhile Riots Continue.

Meanwhile further disturbances are reported in the Rhineland and the Palatinate. Radical national terrorists responded to French protests by attacking separatists with renewed vigor. At Trier a mob attacked the home of Paul Herwig just before dawn. The police drove the crowd off three times, but this afternoon rioters succeeded in storming the residence and wrecking the interior.

The same mob then proceeded to wreck the inn of Peter Marxen. The proprietor fled from Trier two days ago, after an attack. At Mainz terrorists flogged a suspected separatist, who was seriously injured.

Several victims of outrages disclaim separatist connections and have offered rewards as high as $250 for information leading to the identity of the instigators of the disturbances. Some say the riots are purely domestic manifestations and accuse business rivals.

TWO MORE DIE IN DETROIT'S GANG WAR; 6 IN 5 DAYS

Shot While Repairing an Auto in Busy Street.

Detroit, Mich., July 7.—[Special.]—Two brothers were shot to death at noon today while they were working on the rear axle of their automobile at a gasoline station at Mount Elliott and Mack avenues, one of the busiest corners in the city. The two gunmen escaped in an automobile in which two other men had waited for them.

The victims of the shooting—the third double slaying in Detroit since last Thursday—were Joseph and Samuel Gaglio, who have been operating a chair factory at 3520 Mount Elliott avenue.

Witnesses of the slaying pursued the gunmen but lost the trail after a few blocks. The men were in a car bearing license plates issued to a man living in River Rouge.

Joseph Gaglio, who was 32 years old, was arrested in 1918 on suspicion in connection with the shooting to death of Dominic Crupi. He was discharged for lack of evidence.

Detectives of the black hand squad said neither was known in the city's underworld. The only indication that they might be connected with a racket lay in the fact, the detectives said, that bank books found in their clothes showed daily deposits ranging from $10 to $150 over a considerable period of time.

William Mass, attendant at the gasoline station, saw the shooting.

"The brothers had been working on their car for some time," he said. "They had the back end jacked up and were working with the axle.

"Then another car drove up. Two men got out, leaving one man in the car. These men walked over to Joe, one pulled a short shotgun from under his coat. The other man pulled out a pistol. Then both started to shoot.

"I rolled under the car and waited until I saw the men drive away. When I looked out, both Sam and Joe were humped over on the pavement."

The first of the three double slayings was Thursday night when William Cannon and George Collins, Chicago gangsters, were shot and killed at the Adelaid street entrance of the La Salle hotel. Saturday morning Barney J. Roth, special investigator for the Hamtranck police, and Johnny Mietz, a bootlegger, were shot and killed in Roth's home. All the gunmen escaped.

Dry Agents Seize Liquor in Raid on Club; Arrest 2

The Varsity club, 4749 Broadway, was raided yesterday by prohibition agents. Ten gallons of wine and a barrel of beer were found in a room off the dance floor. Mike Corsi and Mike Bracco, waiters, were arrested and will be arraigned today before United States Commissioner Edwin K. Walker.

TWO INDICTED FOR BANK THEFT IN STOCK CRASH

Stole $85,000 for Market Speculation, Charge

CRIMINAL COURT.

Eddie Bluert, burglary, sentenced to one to ten years in the penitentiary by Judge John J. Sullivan.

Horace J. Cubberly, confidence game, sentenced to one to ten years in the penitentiary; Victor Noel, robbery, sentenced to one to twenty years in Pontiac reformatory; Edward Harris, larceny, sentenced to eighteen months in Pontiac reformatory; Travis Williams and Roy Weatherby, robbery, sentenced to one to twenty years each in Pontiac reformatory by Judge Otto Kerner.

Thomas Nihill, former cashier of the Baker State bank, 5823 West Roosevelt road, Cicero, and J. Riley Hayes, a former bond salesman for Frazier, Jelke & Co., were indicted it was learned yesterday, by the last grand jury on charges of embezzling $85,000 of the bank's funds. The indictment was made public with the arrest and return to Chicago from Kansas City of Hayes, who fled when an investigation was started.

Nihill confessed his part in the alleged scheme to use the bank's funds for stock market speculations. He was one of the witnesses under an immunity waiver before the grand jury. He lives at 4124 West Harrison street. Charles J. Baker, president of the bank, was the other witness before the jury.

Charge Use of Bank Credit.

Assistant State's Attorney George Lavin, who handled the investigation, said that Hayes approached Nihill a year ago in June with a proposition of using the bank's credit for the purchase of stock.

In the first few transactions a small profit was made and the money was split between Hayes and Nihill, it is charged. The latter told the prosecuter that he gradually increased his stock purchases using bank funds. He was guided in all his transactions he said by Hayes. The bank's books were juggled to cover up the transactions. When the market fell last fall Nihill found himself short and ultimately confessed to his employers.

Institutions Not Affected.

Prosecutor Lavin said that the investment company, which employed Hayes, knew nothing of his scheme with Nihill. He also said that the bank is amply protected, through insurance, from any loss by the transaction. The state bank examiner's office also said that an examination of the bank's books disclosed the bank would not suffer from Nihill's peculations.

In view of the fact that Nihill has confessed and was a grand jury witness against Hayes, the prosecutor said he expects him to be a state witness at the trial. He is now at liberty under $10,000 bond.

ANNUAL FURNITURE EXPOSITION OPENS

Miss Esther Goran of 2733 Potomac avenue and L. M. Warren of Denver, Colo., in glazed chintz love seat of maple wood in old American style with copies of old pictures on the chintz, which is one of the exhibit at the Furniture Mart.

Expect Boom

With an opening day registration of 1,780 buyers from retail furniture stores, a mark exceeded only once before in its history, the American Furniture mart yesterday opened its semi-annual furniture style show.

Sales during the day were described by Dr. A. P. Haake, managing director of the National Association of Furniture Manufacturers, as "gratifying." Many of the retailers, however, spent the day inspecting the new offerings of the 700 manufacturing concerns in the mart and will not get down to actual buying until later in the week.

Last night representatives of the manufacturing division of the furniture industry, attending a banquet in the Furniture Club of America, on the top floor of the mart, were told by Dr. Haake that the two week market at Chicago is the crucial point that will determine the future of the industry. During the next twelve days, he declared, price levels must be stabilized.

"The worst of the current business depression is over," the furniture executive said. "We're turning the corner. Building construction is picking up—the average for both April and May was higher than the average for the same months over a period of the last five years. But prices must be stabilized before we're ready for real progress."

REPORT U. S. LINE TO SELL BOOZE ON TRIP TO EUROPE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, July 7.—An agreement is reported to have been reached between the United States Lines and the Canadian Pacific Lines by which eastbound passengers on ships of the former will be supplied with liquor by Canadian tenders putting out from Halifax and meeting the American vessels outside the twelve mile limit. The agreement also is said to enable a traveler to book passage on any route covered by either line with a 24 per cent rebate on the price of a round trip ticket.

Hitherto United States Line boats were wet only on the westbound trip. It is believed that a sufficient load of liquor to satisfy the needs of the passengers en route to Europe can be put aboard without delaying the ship. It is pointed out that during the war ammunition often was loaded in this way without the vessel coming to a stop.

It is believed that the large rebate will be made up by the increased profits from selling liquor both ways and from increased business. From the standpoint of the American it is reported that the agreement would be a great coup, as it would put the United States line boats on an equality with the British and German boats, which have hitherto been drawing most of the wet trade.

A. HECKSCHER, 80, PHILANTHROPIST, WEDS WIDOW, 56

New York, July 7.—[Special.]—August Heckscher, 80 year old philanthropist, and Mrs. Virginia Henry Curtiss, 56, widow of Edwin Burr Curtiss, were married last week, friends learned today.

The marriage was the outcome of a romance that began in Mountain Lake, Fla., where the two were neighbors. The present Mrs. Heckscher was an intimate friend of Heckscher's first wife, and the three for many years were all interested in similar charity work.

The license was obtained last Wednesday and the wedding took place the same day in the Methodist Episcopal church at Croton-on-Hudson by the pastor, the Rev. Dr. McKierman.

Mr. Heckscher is president of the Child Welfare Society of America and his bride is one of the vice presidents of the organization.

The first Mrs. Heckscher died at sea Aug. 13, 1924, while returning from Europe.

Curtiss, first husband of the bride, a director of A. G. Spalding & Bro. and a brother of Julian W. Curtiss, present president of that firm, died March 31, 1928.

Heckscher was born in Hamburg in 1848 when his father was prime minister of Germany, but came to America at the age of 19.

In 1928 rumors emanating from Berlin to the effect that Mr. Heckscher and Frieda Hempel, the opera singer, were planning to marry were published here, but they were promptly denied. The year before Miss Hempel had sued the philanthropist for approximately $1,000,000, alleging that he had failed to keep a promise to pay her $48,000 a year for the rest of her life. The suit was settled finally out of court, but the amount of the settlement never was officially disclosed.

Son Bares Arrangements Made Before Death.

the same time somewhat tragic figure. For the last few years he had devoted virtually all his time to the propagation of spiritualism, and was recognized as one of the great leaders of the world in this belief.

Because of his association with this crusade which he, himself, characterized as an unpopular one, he gradually lost some of his old time literary friends, who saw no virtue in spiritualism and who were inclined to look upon him as eccentric.

Sir Arthur was grieved because his friends could not see eye to eye with him, but he never wavered in his pursuit of the cause in which he believed. He even opened a "psychic bookshop" and spiritualistic museum. Here he created a center for spiritualistic literature and distributed much of it throughout the world.

Cost Him Thousands.

Almost daily his huge bulk could be seen looming over his desk in his shop. This shop was Sir Arthur's own idea and it proved a costly venture for him. He once remarked that he spent thousands of dollars of his own money to keep the shop and the museum open. Still this adventure did not worry him.

"I am in a position to do it," he said with a smile. "I might play with a steam yacht or own race horses. I prefer to do this."

There was no doubt in Sir Arthur's mind about the existence of spirits, both good and bad. One of his "proofs" was a huge photograph of himself, which depicted the face of his dead son looking over his shoulder. He showed this picture and remarked, simply:

"I handled the plate for that picture myself. Nobody else touched it. How can people doubt when they have such proof as that?"

Not long ago Sir Arthur said, "I pledge my honor that spiritualism is true, and I know that spiritualism is infinitely more important than literature, art, politics, or, in fact, anything in the world."

He had many experiences, claiming he had conversed with the spirits of Cecil Rhodes, Field Marshal Sir Douglas Haig, and Joseph Conrad.

Expected to Meet Houdini.

New York, July 7.—(AP)—Perhaps Sir Arthur Conan Doyle and Harry Houdini renewed today, somewhere beyond the stars, that animated friendship between them which was interrputed four years ago with Houdini's death.

In his last letter to an American friend, written less than a month ago, Sir Arthur wrote of that friendship and of his hope of resuming it in the spirit world.

"I expect to talk it all over with Houdini in person before very long," he wrote. "I view the prospect with perfect equanimity. That is what psychic research does for one."

He referred to the debate which he, believer in spiritualism, and Houdini, denouncer of that belief, had waged for many years, and which even at its fiercest had not ruptured the close comradeship between the two—one an author and psychic thinker of eminence, the other a magician who regarded as tricks the evidences of spiritualism which Conan Doyle and others set before him.

The letter was written to Bernard M. L. Ernst, who represented both men as a legal advisor, and it contained Conan Doyle's permission for publication of the letters he had exchanged with Houdini, over a dozen years or more, in discussion of the spirit world and its tangibilities.

CONAN DOYLE ROUSED CONTROVERSY ON TWO VISITS TO CHICAGO

In two visits to Chicago, in May, 1922, and in April, 1923, Sir Arthur Conan Doyle delivered public lectures and aroused widespread interest and controversy over his definitions of heaven and hell. Chicago clergymen preached sermons on Sir Arthur's conception of immortality, taking exception to it.

Hell he pictured as a cheerless spot, rather than one of fire and brimstone. He said it resembled a hospital, or a dreary waiting room in which the sinner was prepared for his entrance into heaven, which he described as a lively place, an improvement over the earth without differing from it markedly.

"This is the worst; everything after this world is better," he said. "The normal man is born through no will of his own; he grows up and marries; he gets a job and raises a family. Then he dies. Does that man need punishment? Great Scott, no! What that man needs is compensation."

CONSTRUCTION WORK BEGUN ON BOULDER DAM

Washington, D. C., July 7.—(AP)—Construction work on the 165 million dollar Boulder canyon dam project was begun today. Elwood Mead, commissioner of reclamation, received a telegram from R. F. Walter, chief engineer of the bureau of reclamation, at Denver, stating that Walter R. Young, resident engineer, said: "In accordance with the instructions of your wire I am proceeding immediately to begin work on the Boulder dam project, as directed."

Body in River May Be That of Missing Banker

Omaha, Neb., July 7.—(AP)—A body believed to be that of Edward L. Droste, missing Omaha bank officer, was found today in the Missouri river near Dakota City, Neb. Droste disappeared July 2. His accounts at the First National bank, where he was a vice president, are said to be short $18,750.

COP SLUGGED TO FREE PRISONER; QUINLAN SOUGHT

Michael [Bubs] Quinlan, gangster, gunman and bootlegger, was being sought last night for hijacking a truckload of cigarettes and candy and slugging County Highway Policeman Russell Dworck of the Willow Springs station. Dworck was riding on the truck with $5,000 worth of stolen goods whose driver he had just arrested. He was taking the truck to the station.

Quinlan and three other hoodlums, the police say, were in a car that crowded the truck to the curb at Western avenue and 95th street. They jumped out, overpowering Dworck before he could offer resistance. Then they beat him unconscious. They left him the truck but took his prisoner away.

The supplies, mostly cigarettes, en route from New Albany, Ind., to a Chicago warehouse, had been hijacked earlier in the day at Greenwood avenue and 79th street by Quinlan and his gang, according to the police.

MASSÉ of Paris

Now! 23,720 Beauty Experts ...the world over recommend Palmolive

—a professional endorsement the like of which has never been known in the entire history of beauty culture

NEVER, in all the history of beauty culture, has there been such universal approval of any product as is given to Palmolive Soap today. When trained, skilful professionals unite in recommending one particular soap, that recommendation is significant. And there are 23,720 such specialists, in 16 different countries, who consider Palmolive Soap the ideal means of keeping skin clear, lovely, wholesome!

The need of soap and water

Experts, in studying the skin, find that the pores secrete oil, dust, dirt and powder. These accumulations gather into hard little masses. Unless these masses are removed thoroughly and regularly, the pores become coarse, blackheads appear ... and along come all those blemishes one wishes so to avoid.

Now, the one best way to remove impurities from the pores, is the bland, safe lather of Palmolive Soap. It gets down beneath the surface. It routs out dirt and dust without irritation, leaving the skin refreshed and glowing with natural color.

The specialist studies skin care, experiments with methods and products until the one best way is found. And 23,720 such specialists advise Palmolive.

Here is the 2-minute treatment

To get the best results, use your Palmolive Soap this way: make a rich lather. Work this up with both hands, then massage it gently into the skin of face and throat. Allow it to penetrate the pores. Then rinse it off, first with warm water, gradually with colder and colder. That's all there is to it! Use ice as an astringent occasionally if you have an oily skin. You'll love the refreshing, delicate afterglow that Palmolive leaves.

And, of course, you'll use it for the bath. It costs so little that ordinary soaps are extravagant in comparison. Millions let it do for the entire body what it does so well for the face. Why don't you begin this very day?

STATE PREPARES TO PROSECUTE GASBOOTLEGGERS

Tax Dodgers Cheat Road Fund of $40,000.

Director Kinney of the state department of finance, which has charge of the collection of the gasoline tax, announced yesterday that his investigators had uncovered a group of fly by night distributors who cut prices by dodging the fuel tax.

"The highway fund was cheated of between $40,000 and $50,000," said Mr. Kinney. "However, we believe we have halted the gasoline bootlegging and are now preparing to prosecute the tax dodgers. The loss is appreciable and we will seek heavy penalties for the culprits, but in justice to the diligence of my deputies it must be mentioned that $40,000 or $50,000 is only a fraction of a per cent of the $33,000,000 we will collect in the first year of the 3 cent tax.

Calls Report "Ridiculous."

"The estimate, published in a Chicago afternoon newspaper, that the state has lost $250,000 a month from gasoline tax dodgers, is ridiculous. Incidentally, our investigation has been going on for several weeks and the publication of the story may interfere with the prosecution. Furthermore, the interview with me was published in violation of a confidence."

The same newspaper report said the Standard Oil company was threatening to bring suit to annul the gasoline tax unless the levy was collected against fuel bootleggers. Edward G. Seubert, president of the Standard Oil Company of Indiana, last night issued the following statement:

"We have heard reports that selling of gasoline without payment of the state tax has been going on, but the Standard Oil Company of Indiana has not at any time considered bringing suit to compel the state authorities to collect the tax, nor do we at present contemplate such a suit. We regard the enforcement of the state tax laws as a matter to be left entirely to the state authorities."

Mr. Kinney is sponsoring a bill, to be pressed in the next session of the legislature, which would provide a heavier penalty for failure to pay the gasoline excise. At present the penalty is limited to a fine.

"In the present investigation," said Mr. Kinney, "we may be able to get a heavier penalty for the evaders with evidence of a conspiracy to defraud the state."

PILOT RELATES HOW GIRL JUMPED OUT OF AIRPLANE TO DEATH

Lincoln, Neb., July 7.—(AP)—Miss Alberta Brinkerhoff, University of Nebraska senior, late today fell or jumped to her death from an airplane. Coroner C. A. Hughart said he believed the Mount Clare, Neb., girl committed suicide.

The young woman was in the plane of Pete Orr, a pilot for a Lincoln flying school. While flying near the airport, Orr said he saw Miss Brinkerhoff climb on the wing of the ship. He manipulated the controls and was able to throw her back into the cockpit of the plane.

Orr immediately prepared to land the ship and when he reached an altitude of approximately 1,200 feet he said the young woman jumped. Her body was found on the flying field.

2 More Die in Los Angeles of Infantile Paralysis

Los Angeles, Cal., July 7.—[Special.]—Two more deaths from infantile paralysis last night brought the month's total to six in this area, one death each day. Forty-seven cases of the disease have been reported in the city since July 1. The figures for the territory outside the city are slightly lower.

INDICT ANOTHER N. Y. MAGISTRATE FOR MAIL FRAUD

Troubles Piling Up for Gotham Officials.

BY TOM PETTEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, July 7.—[Special.]—Another New York City magistrate is in trouble. George F. Ewald, the "jailing" judge, and five of his friends were indicted today by the federal grand jury on charges of mail fraud and conspiracy in connection with the affairs of the Cotter Butte Mines, Inc., of which Magistrate Ewald was a director.

While Magistrate Ewald was hurriedly closing Jefferson Market court, another magistrate was coming under fire. He was Magistrate Benjamin Marvin, whose brother, Charles, is in the real estate business in Jamaica.

The corporation counsel's office advised that the city was planning to protest the award by the state Supreme court of $293,300 for property condemned for an approach to the new Jamaica high school. The bulk of the condemned property is said to be owned by the Marvin family, including the magistrate and his wife. Affected taxpayers have complained that the assessed valuation of all the property condemned is only $94,000.

The indictment contained 24 counts of mail fraud and one of conspiracy.

Letters, papers and documents once possessed by Ewald have been obtained by the government. The papers disclose an amazing series of special favors sought from Magistrate Ewald in Traffic court by city officials, politicians and personal friends.

Ewald is the third city official to be indicted recently.

U.S. DRYS SEIZE CAR OF LIQUOR WORTH $30,000

Special prohibition agents under Alexander Jamie yesterday seized a freight carload of fine liquors valued at $30,000 in the Pennsylvania railway yards at 59th and Leavitt streets.

According to Jamie, the liquor was shipped here from Boston, where it was smuggled in from Canada. The shipment was consigned to the Billings-Lee company, a fictitious concern. It included 300 cases of imported gin and bourbon.

Prohibition authorities in the east informed Jamie of the shipment. Last week Pat Roche, chief investigator of the state's attorney's office, seized a similar car of liquor, also from Boston, believed to have been intended for the north side gang headed by "Bugs" Moran.

MARSHALL FIELD WINS AND LOSES TAX APPEAL SUIT

New York, July 7.—(AP)—The United States Circuit Court of Appeals today ruled that Marshall Field III., grandson of the late Chicago merchant prince, must pay income tax upon a $200,000 fee he paid a Chicago attorney in 1922 to expedite payment of an inheritance from his grandfather's estate.

The suit was brought against Field by the collector of internal revenue, who appealed from a decision of the board of tax appeals that the fee should be deducted from his taxable income for the year.

The court upheld a second contention of Field in which he said he was entitled to reimbursement for tax paid on a $460,797 gift he made to his wife, Evelyn, in 1922.

RECOUNT GIVES MORELAND LEAD ON MICHAELSON

"Leaky Trunk" Loses 73 in 36 Precincts.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

James C. Moreland took the lead over Congressman M. A. Michaelson, who made the nation's headlines in the famous "leaky trunk" episode, in yesterday's recount of the vote for the Republican nomination for congress in the Seventh district. When the first thirty-six precincts had been counted the check by the Moreland tabulators gave Moreland a net gain of 73 votes, establishing a lead of 17 votes.

In the thirty-six precincts Michaelson gained 20 and lost 63, or a net loss of 43, while Moreland gained 41 and lost 11, a net gain of 30. It gave Moreland an advantage of 73 votes. The figures on the April primaries in the district gave Michaelson 28,790 and Moreland 28,734, a slender lead of 56 for Michaelson, which was wiped out yesterday.

Gains 50 in One Precinct.

Moreland made his largest gain in the Twenty-first precinct of the Twenty-eighth ward, where he gained 26 and Michaelson lost 24, or 50 votes to the good for Moreland.

There are 776 precincts in the Seventh district, which is one of the four largest in the United States, and two years ago cast 316,000 votes on governor. The court instruction under which the recount started was that 200 precincts should be canvassed tentatively, and if they showed a gain the entire district should be recounted.

John S. Rusch, chief clerk of the election board, had seven crews on the job, and this morning the canvass will be resumed with eight teams at work. The precincts counted yesterday were in the Twenty-eighth, Thirtieth, and Thirty-second wards. The Moreland camp declared last night that it expects to make greatest gains in the Thirty-sixth and Thirty-seventh wards.

Continue Kirk Hearing.

In the contest of Wallace F. Kirk against State Senator John T. Joyce, who got the Republican nomination in April by a margin of 271 votes, more than 70 witnesses were called yesterday by Mr. Kirk before Judge Thomas Taylor in the Circuit court. Charges of fraud were aimed at the Eighteenth precinct of the Forty-second ward, where Joyce was given 253 and Kirk 23 votes. Orban A. Lavery, attorney for Kirk, introduced affidavits by voters that they had been instructed how to vote. The hearing will be continued today.

A charter was granted at Springfield yesterday to the James Hamilton Lewis Liberal league, which sets forth that it is organized to support candidates who stand for repeal of the Eighteenth amendment.

HIGHEST MICHIGAN COURT REFUSES STAY OF BOWLES' RECALL

Detroit, Mich., July 7.—[Special.]—The Supreme court of Michigan today denied the appeal of Mayor Charles Bowles, who sought to restrain the calling of a special election at which the question of his recall was to be submitted. Bowles, losing in the lower courts, carried the fight to the higher body. The court rejected all pleas for delay, holding that the law does not countenance the holding up of an election of this kind.

Attorneys for the recall movement will go before Judge Toms of the Circuit court tomorrow and ask dissolution of a new restraining order obtained by the Bowles' attorneys today. All that stands in the way of a recall election now is an injunction issued in the Wayne County court this morning at the behest of the Bowles group, and returnable Friday. Until that day the city clerk stands enjoined from calling an election.

ROVER SEEKS TO REOPEN DENISON LIQUOR CHARGE

Washington, D. C., July 7.—[Special.]—United States Attorney Leo Rover today announced he would ask Solicitor General Thacher for authority to appeal from the recent decision of District Supreme Court Justice Peyton Gordon sustaining a demurrer of Representative E. E. Denison to the indictment charging the Illinois house member with illegal possession of liquor.

Justice Gordon held that the eight line indictment failed to particularize the charge against Denison sufficiently. It was generally thought the ruling ended the possibility of bringing Denison to trial.

Today, however, Rover asserted that the Denison indictment was identical with that used in hundreds of indictments since enactment of the Volstead act and that if the necessary authority is secured Justice Gordon's decision will be appealed on the ground it is impossible in most of the illegal possession cases to secure the name of the vendor.

Denison and his former secretary, John Layne, were indicted on Nov. 19, 1929, ten months after federal dry agents had seized a trunk loaded with liquor in the congressman's house office building office.

Executor of Valentino's Estate Quits Under Fire

Los Angeles, Cal., June 7.—(AP)—George Ullman, accused by Alberto Guglielmi and Maria Strada, brother and sister of the late Rudolph Valentino, film actor, of mismanagement of his estate, resigned as executor today. Ullman said the resignation would aid court investigation of the charges. The heirs alleged Ullman made insecure loans and appropriated money. Ullman denied the accusations.

"For a good many years I suffered from severe pains in my back and neck, and every morning I had to limber up with exercises before I could go to work. No one seemed to know what these pains were, and medicines I tried failed. A fellow worker on the street car lines, where I have worked for 37 years, recommended Konjola. SUBURBS RAKE IN $3,000,000 EXCESS TAXES

Neglect to Adjust Levy Rate Is Blamed.

Taxes under the 1928 reassessment in five of the county's principal suburbs have been increased from 19 to 46 per cent as compared with the revenues collected in 1927, according to the figures released yesterday by County Clerk Sweitzer. The total tax revenue in 1928 for the towns of Evanston, Cicero, Berwyn, Oak Park, and River Forest, as shown by the county clerk's books, will be $13,537,242, an increase of $3,056,882 over the 1927 total of $10,480,360.

According to county officials, the local governments are now confronted with the problem of what to do with their excess revenues. They have already adopted their budgets on the 1927 revenues, and are prohibited by law from spending any amount not appropriated.

Swanson Offers Plan.

State's Attorney Swanson, who has warned the local officials that they cannot spend the surplus, has suggested that the excesses should be carried over into this year and should be deducted from the 1929 levies.

The collection of excess revenue is due, according to the county clerk, to the failure of the local governing bodies to lower their tax rates to conform to increased valuations under the reassessment. When it appeared that the retention of the old rates would result in excess revenue, the local governments were warned to establish new rates, Mr. Sweitzer recalled, but only 42 out of the county's 400 governments made the needed adjustments.

Comparison Is Made.

The following comparison of 1927 and 1928 tax revenue for the five suburban townships was released by the county clerk:

	1928.	1927.	Increase, pct.
Berwyn	$1,571,769	$1,073,688	46.3
Cicero	2,789,412	2,109,525	32.4
Evanston	4,486,716	3,730,929	19.0
Oak Park	3,887,061	2,954,514	31.2
River Forest	812,284	602,704	34.7

These figures include personal property, real estate, and railroad taxes.

The penalty date for the payment of taxes is Thursday. A penalty of 1 per cent a month will be levied after that date.

Bellefonte, Pa., July 7.—(AP)—James Flori, Philadelphia gangster, was executed in the electric chair at Rockview penitentiary today for the murder of Pasquale Livoy, whom he shot to death on April 24, 1929. He was 25 and known as "Dapper Jimmy."

City Figures Surplus Over Budget, but Demands Pour in

The city council will have $3,715,752 to distribute in a supplementary budget this year after the aldermen at their meeting July 16 pass the necessary ordinances to take advantage of the financial relief offered in the bills enacted at the special session of the legislature. This information was given yesterday to Ald. John S. Clark (30th), chairman of the council finance committee, by City Controller Schmidt.

The controller indicated that against this amount the aldermen will have to pass additional appropriations totaling $855,843 for items which he considers as "fixed" charges. This will leave the council a balance of $2,859,909 which can be turned over to the various city departments which have requests before the finance committee for more money.

Special Orders Passed.

Special council orders have been passed during the first six months of this year authorizing some of the departments to spend in excess of their 1930 appropriations. These departments are expected to be the first concern of the aldermen in the division of the $2,859,909.

According to estimates in the city hall, the police department is overexpending at an annual rate of $1,900,000; the fire department, $600,000; gas and electricity department, $285,000; and the Municipal courts, $265,000. These overexpenditures, if continued for the balance of the year, will total $3,050,000, which is $190,091 more than the amount available for appropriation to them.

In addition the health department is asking for $300,000 and the bureau of streets has requested a minimum of $400,000 for the cleaning of streets and alleys. Aldermen who glanced at the figures saw a deficit for this year which, under the new legislation, will have to be absorbed in the 1931 budget.

Fix Revenue for Year.

The city's revenue for 1930, as figured by the controller, is $60,798,029 from which a deficit of $1,191,380 as of Jan. 1, 1930, is deducted, leaving net resources of $59,606,649. The council's budget for this year now totals $55,890,897. One item in the Schmidt figures is a sum of $7,162,773 which represents the total interest to be paid on tax warrants for the years 1928, 1929 and 1930.

With the passage of ordinances July 16 by the council authorizing the increases in the tax rates for 1929 and 1930 and the sale of special bond issues provided in the financial relief bills the employés of the city and the school board are expected to be paid regularly.

Three bulletins sent out by the health division of the Chicago Council of Social Agencies urge the city council to add to the appropriations of Health Commissioner Kegel. Supplementary appropriations are needed, the bulletins state, to safeguard Chicago's milk and food supplies and to reopen the municipal contagious hospital which Dr. Kegel closed recently to conserve the hospital funds.

THREE CHICAGO TRIUMPHS WILL BE CELEBRATED

A luncheon will be held by the Chicago Association of Commerce at the Hotel La Salle, Wednesday, July 16, to celebrate what its sponsors describe as "the elimination of three of the deterrents that have handicapped Chicago for a generation."

These are listed as the transit ordinance, the financial relief bills, and the $7,500,000 appropriation for the Illinois waterway.

"In one month," said Col. Robert Isham Randolph, president of the association, "Chicago has realized three outstanding achievements and is now in splendid shape for progress."

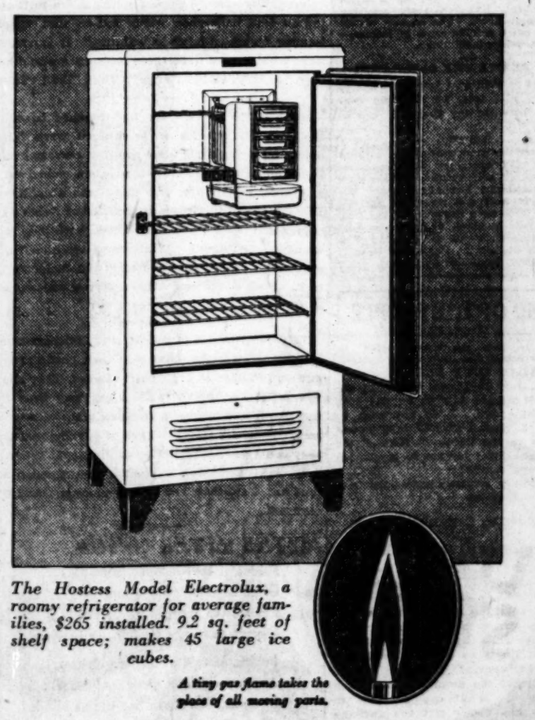
The cold in Electrolux is constant

It doesn't stop and start

ONE of the advantages of Electrolux is that the cold varies scarcely at all from the ideal point. The simple operation of this refrigerator goes on endlessly, and without attention. No starting and stopping is necessary. Ice cubes freeze quickly.



The Hostess Model Electrolux, a roomy refrigerator for average families, $265 installed. 9.2 sq. feet of shelf space; makes 45 large ice cubes.

A tiny gas flame takes the place of all moving parts.

This is possible because Electrolux has no machinery, no moving parts at all. A tiny gas flame, a little flow of water, do all the work. They circulate the liquid refrigerant with never a sound to disturb you.

The gas flame changes the refrigerating liquid to vapor. The circulation of water condenses it back to liquid form again. That's all there is to the operation. It's as simple as boiling water in a tea kettle.

The refrigerating unit never needs attention. The refrigerant is welded shut for life inside a rigid, one-piece steel shell. It never needs renewal. Even the tiny gas flame is guarded every minute of the day and night by an automatic shut-off. No gas can flow unless the flame is lighted.

Electrolux is not only silent when you get it, but silent as long as you have it—and it is built to last a lifetime. There being nothing in it to wear, no noises can develop as time goes on.

And it is the most economical refrigerator you can use. It costs even less than ice. A few pennies a day covers everything. Imagine having all the benefits of automatic refrigeration—the perfect, even cold inside your refrigerator at all times, the tempting variety of frozen desserts that you make as you really like them—all these advantages at a cost that is only a fraction of your ice bill.

Don't imagine, either, that the purchase prices of Electrolux are any higher than other automatic refrigerators. They're not, size for size. $195 to $430, f. o. b. Evansville. A complete range of models to choose from. See them at the display rooms listed below. And mail the coupon, or phone for complete, illustrated information.

SUPPLYING CRIMINALS WITH DEADLY WEAPONS.

We think action should be taken to establish the criminal liability of individuals who sell lethal weapons in circumstances which indicate that the buyer intends to do violence. An individual who sells a machine gun or any of several kinds of deadly weapon to persons known to be of suspicious or criminal character is morally guilty of complicity in their lawlessness, and we believe the law would and should take cognizance of and furnish such complicity. Law abiding citizens do not need machine guns, and while any citizen of respectable reputation should be permitted to acquire a gun or revolver to be kept at home for the protection of himself and family, or even to carry it in certain circumstances, he can prove his responsibility to the seller of such weapons. But there is nothing more scandalous and inexcusable in our crime situation than the sale of deadly weapons, not only to buyers who may be unknown to the seller but also to buyers whom the seller must be assumed to know to be suspicious or even notorious individuals.

When, for example, a seller of firearms sells a deadly weapon to be delivered to some one on an "L" platform, the seller knows he is arming some one for some criminal purpose. When he sells machine guns by the wholesale to parties not known to him to be law abiding he is morally guilty, and we think any honest jury would find him legally guilty and would be sustained by a court of review. If this kind of merchandising is not criminal under the law as it is, the law should be amended. There is a clear distinction which can be established in court between merchants of sporting goods who have a reputable clientele and merchants who purvey deadly weapons in circumstances that are suspicious or plainly incompatible with lawful intent. The evil of irresponsible distribution of deadly weapons needs prompt and drastic correction.

AN INDUSTRY TO BE PROTECTED.

One of Wisconsin's greatest industries is that popularly known as the "summer resort business." It consists primarily of attracting and pleasing thousands of visitors. Revenue from it flows into almost every line of retail trade in the state. It has brought millions of dollars to Wisconsin from other parts of the country.

This industry is worth preserving. It is not a monopoly; there are many other points in America which offer rival attractions. Wisconsin has had the advantage of being within a short distance of a large center of population and possessing a vast area of lake and forest region which is not particularly valuable for farming or manufacturing purposes.

Tourists travel to northern Wisconsin for rest and recreation. They want surcease from crowds and noise and artificial horizons. The pure air stimulates them; the varied foliage of the woodlands soothes the eye. In fishing and hiking and hunting they find a healthful, natural pleasure which makes them forget city streets and factories and offices.

Unless they can have such recreations and such restful surroundings it is fair to assume that the tourists will not come to the state. It is of importance, therefore, that the state and each county and community take a hand in preserving the forests (second growth though they are) and in keeping the streams and lakes uncontaminated. Billboards should be zoned and other nuisances confined to restricted areas. A more elaborate and liberal policy should be adopted regarding the restocking of Wisconsin's waters with game fish and protecting those which still survive, as present distribution of fry is left largely to individual citizens. Here is a task requiring judgment, tact, knowledge, and courage. It should be a big job. It may involve new hatcheries and more state employés; it certainly will require scientific research, a considerable expenditure of funds, and earnest coöperation of the state legislature in the effort to save a summer resort business which will vanish with the passing of the game fish of the state.

Such excuses as toothache among muskellunge and high water in bass lakes and the prevalence of weeds in pike ponds may serve for a season or two. But those who are annual visitors to Wisconsin resorts know that it is a shortage of fish and not a shortage of dentists or lawn mowers that is sending many ardent sportsmen back home with a record of no strikes, no bites, no fish. And this shortage is due to the fact that more fish have been caught than have been allowed to grow to maturity.

The problem can be solved with proper coöperation of governmental authorities. It may involve closing some lakes to fishermen for a year or two, shortening the open season, keeping the fingerlings in the hatcheries for a greater length of time, and planting more of them each year. Further limits can be put on shipments. Whatever the remedy, it should be applied promptly and vigorously.

Wisconsin must look at its resort business through the eyes of the tourist. He does not come to buy bigger and better hot dogs, or to see larger and brighter roadside signs. The things he wants are fairly well known, and unless he finds them he will go elsewhere with his patronage.

Too many visitors are remarking, "This was a wonderful place to rest and fish ten years ago." No industry can ignore such a criticism.

PASSENGERS IN MAIL PLANES.

At first glance the desirability of using the mail planes to carry passengers seems obvious. The planes, it would seem, could be loaded more nearly to their capacities with consequent economies for the operating companies. The railroad passenger trains include mail cars with resultant savings for the passengers, the postoffice department and the railroads. Why not achieve the same economies in air transport?

The answer is that the mail planes go up in weather in which it is risky to fly. The pay of the pilot is higher for this reason. The requirements of business and the tradition of the postoffice department demand that the mails go through on schedule if it is at all possible to get them through. Risks are accepted to which no common carrier is justified in exposing a passenger, and until great advances are made in the safety of aviation the mail planes will not be suitable for passenger service.

The mail pilot wears a parachute and is prepared to jump when occasion demands it. Many of the mail pilots in this region of unstable weather have had to jump. Lindbergh was one of them; he had to abandon his plane in a fog. The ordinary passenger cannot be expected to step out into a mile of air and ought not to be encouraged to ride in a plane which is likely to run into weather which will force him to do just that if he wishes to save his life.

Passenger planes should be designed and used only for the passenger service. They should fly only when the weather conditions promise the largest measure of security. The mails must be dispatched every day that the weather offers even a slim chance of getting through. That formula includes a great deal of weather when passenger flying is unsafe.

NOISE ABATEMENT.

A commission in New York has reported on the effects of city noises upon the body and the mind. Noise, the commission has found, tends to promote deafness, interferes with digestion, renders concentration difficult and retards the learning processes of children and adults. It prevents refreshing sleep and places a strain upon the nervous system which can unbalance the mind and often does.

This indictment is a grave one and it seems to be supported by the evidence gained through careful research. We have been far too indifferent in the past to unnecessary noises, and we are paying for our neglect with impaired health, both mental and physical. Despite the accumulation of evidence, vast numbers of city dwellers seem to think that noise, like smoke, is an inevitable accompaniment of modern industrialism and that prevention is a blow at economic progress.

The facts will not support this view. Noise is costly to the individual, for it impairs his health. It is costly to society because it diminishes production, both of commodities and ideas. The expense of noise abatement, on the other hand, is frequently not great. Building materials are available to absorb sounds of machine operation. Many of the noises heard on our streets and in our factories could be prevented by proper designing of equipment. The trouble does not lie as much in lack of knowledge as in indifference.

During the discussions of the traction ordinance little attention was paid to one paragraph which specifically charges the transit commission to abate unnecessary noises. This may prove to be as important as any clause in the contract, and we are thinking not only of its effect upon the amenities of life in the city but more particularly of its effect upon the business of the transportation company. Certainly one consideration that leads many thousands of Chicagoans to ride in automobiles in the face of the fact that automobile travel is frequently slower is the ear strain of riding in street cars and elevated trains. Remove that strain or a considerable part of it and the public carriers will reclaim a good deal of lost business. The company can make a considerable investment in noise abatement and count upon getting its money back with interest.

Editorial of the Day

PROHIBITING CIGARETS IN OREGON.

[Hartford (Conn.) Courant.]

The voters of Oregon will be called upon to decide a momentous question at the November election. It is whether or not they shall adopt an amendment to the state constitution forbidding the manufacture and sale of cigarets and make it unlawful to import, possess, purchase or give them away. The proposed amendment also contains like inhibitions against the materials of which cigarets are made, in order that it may be equally unconstitutional and unlawful for the individual to roll his own. This matter comes up for referendum on a petition bearing 15,733 names and initiated by the Anti-Cigaret league.

It seems unlikely that the amendment will be adopted, first, because the people of Oregon probably have had their fill of prohibition in other matters, and second, because they are not unmindful of the futile attempt that Kansas made to outlaw cigarets. That state, which has a penchant for regulating personal morals and conduct, placed a ban on cigarets a number of years ago and made a diligent effort to enforce it, but all to no avail. Although cigarets were not at the time particularly popular there, the edict against them quickly brought them into high favor. They were to be had everywhere and they were smoked with malicious satisfaction. The price went up, but it was willingly paid. The state found it utterly impossible to stop the surreptitious sale, to say nothing of the open use. Finally it rescinded the law.

Utah had a similar experience, but it tried to go even further by prohibiting any kind of smoking in a public place. A Hartford man actually found himself in the toils of the law because he was caught smoking a cigar in a hotel lobby.

It is of interest to note that those who are opposing this further perversion of the state's constitution are being characterized as lawless in their outlook and their morals. Even their Christianity and Americanism are being questioned. We are also told that the manufacturers of cigarets have brought this threatened evil upon themselves by trying to increase the popularity of their product through overstatements in their advertising.

FANNING TO AVOID HEAT.

It is known that fans promote comfort in hot weather by forcing hot air away from the body and replacing it with some that is cooler. It is also known that when the atmosphere is hotter than body temperature fanning causes discomfort. On the theory that the skin temperature hangs around 95 the advice is given to cease fanning when the atmospheric temperature goes a little above 90.

Studies made by Dr. J. J. Bloomfield and others of the public health service show that the skin can be heated to a level considerably above 95. Under such circumstances fanning will promote comfort even though the atmospheric temperature is around 100. Bloomfield used very delicate instruments to record the temperature of different parts of the skin under different circumstances. He and his associates found that when a man stands in front of a furnace, and the radiant light and heat strikes squarely against the skin of the forehead, that integument may register a temperature above 110. The radiant heat that strikes the skin with full power is variously disposed of. Much of it is reflected. Some of it is absorbed. Some is carried away by the blood in the underlying blood vessels. Some is conducted to adjacent skin; and some piles up as heat in the local skin.

Bloomfield and his associates made many experiments to discover what parts of the skin heat most readily; how hot the skin can get; what are the effects of covering the skin with different kinds of cloth; what effect has hard work on the part of the exposed person; what is the influence of hot and cold atmospheres, dry and wet airs, good and bad ventilation.

The report now in hand shows that standing in front of a hot fire causes the exposed skin to become very hot. Presumably, exposure to hot sunlight has the same effect. The exposed skin may be very hot even though nearby skin is fairly cool. The blood in the exposed skin is not equal to the job of cooling it to the general level of skin temperature. Even though the atmosphere is cool or cold the exposed skin may become very hot.

The studies are being continued. It is hoped to learn something about the relation of uneven skin heat to pneumonia and some other infections. Incidentally, they may learn something about the good effects of radiant heat in rheumatism, neuralgia, and neuritis.

NOT A SPECIFIC CAUSE.

M. K. writes: Was told by a physician I should go to the seashore this summer for my health. A certain party told me the air at the seashore makes one lazy, though some one else contradicted this. Kindly settle this for me, as I cannot afford to get lazy at this time.

REPLY.

A good excuse is the most potent cause of laziness. Some people use the seashore for an excuse. However, there are possibilities nearer home. The ecology of the seashore is not a specific cause of laziness—speaking in professional lingo.

DON'T BLAME THE OLD GAME.

H. W. H.: Will you tell me what to do for my golf feet, or the skin that comes off between my toes and cracks open?

REPLY.

Golf is carrying enough of a load without the offense with which you wrongly accuse it. We read of golf widows, Godless golfers, and 19th hole alcoholic neuritis, but bad as it is, golf and ringworm are not synonyms. You have ringworm of the feet. It can be held in check by proper care of the feet, plus an occasional greasing with Danish itch ointment. Physicians treat it with Whitfield's paste and Castellani's paint.

BURNED GARBAGE IN ALLEY.

Chicago, July 2.—[Friend of the People.]—An attempt is made to burn garbage in the alley of the 5400 block of Quincy street. As a result the neighbors have greasy smoke blowing into their homes while the garbage smolders. When the fire goes out an insanitary pile of half-burned garbage is left which attracts the animal pests of the neighborhood. What can be done to have this one owner put the garbage in his can, the same as the rest of us do? W. M.

Report is made that notice has been served on owner of building to see that practice of burning offensive waste in alley is discontinued, and location will be kept under observation to see that there is no further cause for complaint. Building is supplied with ample receptacles for accommodation of refuse output. JOSEPH J. BUTLER, Superintendent of Streets.

FARM OVERMORTGAGED.

Polo, Ill., July 1.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—A man owning a farm has a mortgage on it for more than it possibly will sell. One year's interest is two months past due and taxes are unpaid. He then mortgages his growing crop. Immediately after that there are foreclosure proceedings and a receiver is appointed. Who will hold the crop, the party who holds the mortgage or the receiver? I. W.

Presumably attorneys have been employed on both sides. They are in a better position to advise their clients than we are.

Or Will It Take a Special Session of the Legislature?

To Gov. Emmerson, Springfield, Ill.

Dear Gov.: Would you mind slipping over to the office of the boys who send out the state license tags for automobiles and telling them to get a little action on our application? About nine days ago we kissed a ten dollar bill good-by and put it in a letter addressed to the auto license boys down in Springfield. Every day since then we've been looking for two big tin things with our car number in white and black painted on 'em. But do you know, Gov., nothing has happened. We've got an automobile, but we don't dare take it out of the garage until we have those white and black numbers hanging fore and aft. The nice man at the garage says for us to go ahead and take out our boat with some sort of writing on it about patent applied for, or rather license applied for, or something like that, but we don't want to get in trouble. So, while we own a perfectly good automobile, all we can do is to go over to the garage now and then and give it a dirty look. There the darned thing sits, and we can't do anything but look at it. Some of the people over at the garage are beginning to think we're afraid to take the car out on the street—somebody might step up and say, "Where are you going with my automobile?" or something like that. Maybe some of them think we've got some sort of a racket and we don't want to take the car out until the rest of our mob find out what time the pay roll is brought from the bank or just when the night watchman is in the habit of going across the street to get his ham sandwich and cup of Java. You know in these days, Gov., when so many people are in on rackets, a fellow is apt to think people are suspecting him of this or that when they're not. Anyhow, we're not going riding around in our nice new auto until the state of Illinois says it's all right, so if you could just drop around to the license tag office and tell those boys to snap into it a little bit it would help a lot.

THERE WERE SO MANY picnickers and other forms of pleasure seekers in Lincoln park last Sunday that the superintendent said he couldn't even guess at the number, but some idea of what a big crowd it was could be gathered from the fact that the visitors left 30 tons of newspapers, hot dogs, pickles, napkins, paper cups, chicken bones, and miscellaneous bric-à-brac scattered over the flowers and grass. Thirty tons! And smeared over everything! Ah, how we Americans love nature!

JOURNALISM in this country is slipping! Or is it the schools of journalism that are at fault? We were much pained to read in the newspapers yesterday where the correspondent down in Bloomington said hailstones which fell in that vicinity Sunday "were as large as walnuts." If journalism were what it used to be those hailstones would have been "as large as hens' eggs." Tck! Tck! Tck!

BUT JUST AFTER we had finished bewailing the way the schools of journalism were falling down, as revealed by the country correspondents comparing hailstones to walnuts, we picked up an afternoon newspaper, and there was a cablegram about a storm in Greece in which the Athens correspondent said, "The hailstones were as big as oranges." Attaboy! "Hailstones were as big as oranges!" That's got the good old fashioned zip to it. Pour it on 'em, Athens correspondent, pour it on 'em!

IT'S GOING TO BE WONDERFUL FISHIN', BUT—

65 YEARS AGO TODAY

JULY 8, 1865.

WASHINGTON.—The President Lincoln assassination tragedy has come to a close. The curtain has fallen upon the lifeless forms of four of its actors. Mrs. Mary E. Surratt, Lewis E. Payne, alias Powell, David E. Harrold, and George A. Atzerodt were hanged by the neck until they were dead for the crime of aiding John Wilkes Booth in the assassination. At 15 minutes after 1 o'clock p. m. [July 7], Gen. Hartraupt, provost marshal, came out of the prison, followed by the mournful procession to the gallows. Mrs. Surratt came first, supported by two officers and attended by her spiritual friends, Fathers Wigel and Walters. Atzerodt followed with the Rev. Butler of the Lutheran church. Next came Harrold with the Rev. Dr. Olds of Christ church [Episcopal], and last was Payne with the Rev. Dr. Gillette of the First Baptist church, Washington, and the Rev. Dr. Striker of Baltimore.

Owing to her physical state and the weight of her chains, Mrs. Surratt was almost carried to the gallows. She was placed on the north end on the same drop as Payne. Atzerodt was on the same drop with Harrold. After the four were seated Gen. Hartraupt read the death sentence. The last rites of the Catholic church were administered to Mrs. Surratt. Each of the ministers with the other three said short prayers. Then the arms and ankles of the prisoners were bound, white caps were placed on their heads and the nooses adjusted.

Then at a given signal the uprights were knocked from the drops and the bodies were suspended. Atzerodt died almost without any appearance of pain. A slight movement in the limbs of Mrs. Surratt was all that was seen of her death struggle. Harrold and Payne struggled considerably. After about 18 minutes all were pronounced dead, and the bodies were placed in strong white pine coffins and buried in the graves prepared for them a few feet south of the scaffold.

Before the executions counsel for Mrs. Surratt obtained from Judge Wylie a writ of habeas corpus directing that she be produced in a civil court, which was served on Gen. Hancock. The latter went to the President, who indorsed upon the papers that the writ of habeas corpus had been suspended.

30 YEARS AGO TODAY

JULY 8, 1900.

LONDON.—A dispatch from Taku says that the last message from Edwin H. Conger, the United States minister at Peking, brought there by runners, reads as follows: "We are besieged. The provisions are becoming exhausted and the situation is desperate. The relief force should advance and give us notice by signal." The foreign office issued the text of a telegram from Acting Consul General Warren at Shanghai stating that a courier brought news from Peking that on July 3 two foreign legations were holding out against the Chinese and Boxers and that the troops had lost 2,000 men and the Boxers many leaders.

CHICAGO.—Mrs. Margaret O'Leary, 90 years old, the first woman resident of Evanston, died at her home, 1209 Chicago avenue. She came to Evanston in 1840 when it was a town of seven or eight inhabitants, and had lived there continuously ever since.

CHICAGO.—Seven persons died from heat prostration and several others were overcome. The highest temperature was 86.

10 YEARS AGO TODAY

JULY 8, 1920.

CHICAGO.—One of the most spectacular parades ever staged by Elkdom was cheered by more people than have gathered together in the city at any one time since the famous Chicago day of the World's Fair, according to Chief of Police John J. Garrity. It was estimated that 500,000 fought for glimpses of the gigantic procession.

CHICAGO.—Dr. Lynn Harold Hough resigned from the presidency of Northwestern university in a letter written from Chautauqua, N. Y., on the eve of his departure for England. He gave ill health as the reason.

WOMAN'S PLACE.

Chicago, July 1.—Women taking the places of men has put many thousands of men out of work. I wish to give an argument that I recently had with a school teacher [female]. In reply to my statement she said there is no such thing now as women taking the men's places. "The places belong just as much to the women as they do to the men. That is the law."

I asked her if a man could be changed into a woman by law. "Of course not," was the snappy retort.

"Very well, then; neither can a woman be changed into a man by legislation."

We may take a lesson from nature. I called her attention to a robin in the dooryard I said, when that robin and its mate came here this spring they both got busy and gathered dry grass and other material for a nest. The female laid some eggs. Then she sat on them to hatch their young. The male bird flew here and there to get food for his mate, who was waiting patiently at home. By the same token it is a wife's place to care for her husband's home and the children, if there are any, while the husband hustles around to make a living for himself and wife. It is her place to cook his meals instead of buying them at the delicatessen, to darn his socks and sew the buttons on his clothes, and keep the house clean and orderly.

I would exempt from this female school teachers for girls, because if we are going to have womanly girls and manly boys they must each be taught by their own sex. Widows and orphans dependent on themselves for support should also be exempt. J. B. B.

THE HERO.

Chicago, July 3.—An item appeared in the Voice of the People July 3, 1930, extolling Mr. Groshon, a visiting Rotarian, for his bravery in flagging a train, thereby averting the death of a young lady who had been pushed from the platform. The hero of the hour, however, was a young lad, Francis Long of 211 West 72d street, who had the presence of mind to jump and tried to pull her from the track. She collapsed in his arms and he was assisted by another young man who helped him lay her on the platform. Because of their modesty they disappeared in the crowd.

WEST PARK TENNIS.

Chicago, July 3.—If President James of the west park board is trying to do the right thing he will take steps at once to remedy an unjust situation at the tennis courts in Garfield park. Of about twenty courts there only four are kept in first class condition and these, it seems, can be used only by a chosen few, who belong to some club, on Sundays. The rest of us taxpayers have to play on the decrepit courts, covered with from three to four inches of dust, and this makes the game anything but a pleasure.

THE SOLUTION.

Statesville, N. C., June 30.—Will you please allow me space in your fine paper to offer the good citizens of the great Windy City a solution for the great crime wave which is sweeping your city. What Chicago needs is a southern Democrat to head the police department. I have had years of experience as detective and if the good people of Chicago would pitch me the reins of authority for six months I would make Chicago look like South Carolina's Sunday blue law had struck it.

I do not mean to criticize the present head of the police department. I wish him plenty of good luck. But I do think that a southern Democrat at this time can do more to solve the crime problem than any one else. The difference in politics would have a wonderful bearing in Chicago at this time.

WALKING ON A LAWN.

Chicago, July 2.—This morning I was walking with my daughter on North Winthrop avenue when I had a good chance to see a supposedly prosperous man show how small he could be. My daughter, who is two years old, doesn't weigh quite twenty-six pounds, ran from the sidewalk onto the lawn of this man's home. She had run but a few feet when he tore out on the porch yelling like an escaped maniac, "Get that kid off my lawn—get her off—get off. This ain't no public playground." Of course, she got off and I didn't have to take her off. His words fell on deaf ears as far as she was concerned, but she was frightened. I was so angry that I couldn't talk. My idea of a man like that is too low and as we walked away my idea became lower.

And yet, after I calmed down a little, I began to feel a little sorry for him. What sort of a view on life must a person like that have? The fact that she just got on the lawn when he sprang out shows that he must have been on constant guard.

To trespass, in terms of law, is to violate willfully and forcibly the personal or property rights of another. Very well. In the exact sense of the word she was trespassing, and that gave him the right to bellow at her as one would at a dog who is uprooting the flower beds. She was too frightened to hear him, and too young to understand his words. What did he gain? Nothing, unless his blood pressure went up a few points.

Experiments in social reform have proved that we can do a lot with kindness toward the incorrigible and the convict. Then doesn't a tiny child deserve the same consideration? I'm sincerely sorry for that man and more so for those around him. MRS. J. F.

WHY NOT!

HUSTON TO QUIT ONLY IF HOOVER ASKS PUBLICLY

Then He'll Have Something to Publish, Too.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 7.—[Special.]—Claudius H. Huston will refuse to resign as chairman of the Republican national committee unless President Hoover publicly requests him to do so.

This was asserted today by some of his friends who continued to deny constantly reiterated reports that Mr. Huston is prepared to step out of the chairmanship. Mr. Huston declined to discuss the situation beyond admitting that he had held a conference with President Hoover at the White House last night. According to persons in close touch with Mr. Huston and with the White House the President has not yet asked him to resign or made it evident that he would like him to do so.

Hears No Requests.

It is said to be Mr. Huston's position that he has no reason to believe that the President would like him to resign and that the constant discussion of his connection with the Muscle Shoals lobby and other incidents tending to reflect upon him is being inspired by persons seeking to gain control of the national committee.

In case the President should publicly request Mr. Huston to resign it is the understanding that he would do so in a public statement in which he would make known his notions as to what is at the bottom of the controversy.

Leaders Persuading Hoover.

Meanwhile, various senators and other Republican leaders are continuing to tell the President that the retention of Mr. Huston as national chairman would be injurious to the welfare of the party.

Mr. Huston went ahead with plans for Thursday's meeting of officers of the national committee and chairmen of the senatorial and congressional committees. He insisted that the program for the congressional campaign would be the only matter taken up.

BAR SIX CARGOES OF CONVICT HEWN LUMBER UNDER TARIFF RULES

Washington, D. C., July 7.—[Special.]—Diplomatic representatives of Great Britain, Germany, and Denmark today attended a private hearing held in the office of Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Seymour Lowman, to determine whether six cargoes of Russian spruce lumber should be banned from the United States as the product of convict labor. The lumber, totaling many millions of square feet, is on board two vessels, now at American ports, and four vessels on the high seas bound for this country. It is being imported by A. C. Dutton of Poughkeepsie.

The British diplomat appeared in behalf of the British ship Carmer, now at Providence, R. I., with 4,000,000 feet of the Russian lumber.

If the lumber is forbidden entry, it was explained, this action will be taken on the basis of the order in section 307 of both the old and the new tariff acts, which forbids the importation of products of convict labor.

U. S. SEEKS LOAN FROM ILLINOIS TO BEGIN WATERWAY

Would Use State Bridge Fund for Work.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 7.—[Special.]—Secretary of War Patrick J. Hurley today announced that he has requested Gov. Louis L. Emmerson of Illinois to advance $2,000,000 from the Illinois waterway bridge fund to the federal government so that construction work on the waterway can be started at once. Mr. Hurley stated that the government would use the funds this summer and fall and reimburse the "bridge fund" as soon as the next war department appropriation bill is passed.

War department officials said that unless a way can be found to use state waterway funds until a new war department appropriation bill is passed there will be no government funds for operations on the state link of the lakes to the gulf waterway, which is to be taken over by the federal government under the rivers and harbors bill approved by President Hoover last Friday.

No government funds for work on this project, for which $7,500,000 was authorized, will be available, it was said, for several months, as the war department takes the view that the $55,000,000 rivers and harbors fund voted for the present fiscal year can be expended only on projects already authorized when the fund was voted last spring.

BLACK EYE FOR VIVIAN DUNCAN; JAIL FOR ACTOR

Los Angeles Court to Hear Details.

Los Angeles, Cal., July 7.—[Special.]—There is a new black eye in the Duncan family. Vivian is wearing this one. Friends say it is as stormy looking as the one her sister Rosetta wore after the battle of Cicero a few years ago.

But Little Eva got this one all by herself. It was not a family affair such as when Rosetta, better known as Topsy, had the support of Vivian, their brother, Herold, their cousin and their secretary, in carrying the wage of battle to the gendarmes of the Illinois town.

It came about this way: Vivian was guest at a party in the home of a film writer at the summer seashore colony of Malibu Beach, 35 miles north of Los Angeles.

Discord Is Heard.

Along toward daybreak Vivian and Rex Lease, film hero, were in an automobile parked on the beach. Suddenly discord erupted from the auto and sounds of strife rent the stilly Pacific night.

Vivian, a mouse of noble proportions already forming beneath her eye, went in search of the law. She found Joseph Webster, rural justice of the police, who called a constable and sent Lease to the Los Angeles county jail. He was released in $500 bail.

The Principals' Story.

He will be tried Thursday on an assault and battery charge. Meanwhile, the principals will say this for publication:

MR. LEASE.—"No lady would kick a gentleman on the shins."

MISS DUNCAN.—"No gentleman would ask such things of a lady. If a man did he should be kicked on the shins. Anyhow, he swung a left to my eye before I kicked. And after it was all over the big loogan said he did it 'because he loved me so much.'"

Miss Duncan was removed to Hollywood hospital tonight. Dr. Edward Kellogg says her right knee is injured as if it had been kicked and that a heavy blow had landed over her left eye and another blow upon her nose. She will remain in the hospital a week.

WEYGAND GIVEN HIGHEST HONOR OF FRENCH ARMY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, July 7.—Gen. Maxime Weygand, chief of the general staff of the French army and former chief of Marshal Foch's staff, today was decorated with the highest honor the French army can bestow on an officer—the simple, inexpensive little medaille militaire.

The medaille militaire is prized more highly by an officer than the huge, golden shields and giant glittering stars of the highest ranks of the Legion of Honor. Although thousands of simple poilus and hundreds of American soldiers have received the medaille militaire only a few officers, Foch, Joffre, Mangin, Gouraud, Mangoury, Martyred, and Galliena, have obtained it.

MEXICAN VOTERS SWEEP RUBIO'S PARTY TO VICTORY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MEXICO CITY, July 7.—Already more than 600 "successful" candidates for seats in the chamber of deputies have registered here with the committee of congress, all maintaining their right to sit in the next session of congress for 150 congressional districts. This is four times as many congressmen as the law allows.

Apparently, however, the national revolutionary party, which elected Ortis Rubio as president, has won in 90 per cent of the congressional districts. The government, therefore, will be supported by an overwhelming majority in congress.

Notwithstanding predictions of trouble in various states over yesterday's congressional elections, the voting was carried out with rather light casualties. Two were killed and 14 injured in clashes.

visement. It is understood, however, that he will accept if the committee employs engineers with a nation-wide reputation on subway design and construction, and that otherwise he will refuse.

In the city hall in the afternoon the local transportation committee passed an order directing President Faherty of the board of local improvements to widen North State street between the Chicago river and Chicago avenue to 100 feet. It is now 66 feet wide, which, the engineers say, is insufficient for a four track subway. The aldermen discussed at length the obtaining of easements under private property for the subways, and also of building two tracks now and two added tracks later.

"The ordinance provides for four tracks, and we must proceed with that plan," said Ald. James B. Bowler.

"In all of my talks only two tracks were spoken of," said Mr. Faherty. "When were four tracks decided upon?"

"Last April," replied Maj. R. F. Kelker, engineer for the committee.

Say Bridge Must Go.

The engineers also said that the State street bridge must be removed, because it is impracticable to build subways under the present structure. No one had any information on what was to be done on that matter. Neither the commissioner of public works nor the city engineer was present.

Asked how long it will take to condemn the property necessary to widen North State street, Mr. Faherty replied: "I should say about a year and a half."

How many men do you estimate it will take to prepare the plans, and how much time?" Mr. Faherty asked Maj. Kelker.

"When two or three points are settled, which I think will be within 10 days or two weeks, I should estimate that 75 or 80 men should be able to turn out the plans in four months," replied Maj. Kelker.

"The last estimate I had," said Mr. Faherty, "was 240 men for five months. Now I ask that this committee select some engineers to pass upon the qualifications of engineers, draftsmen and other expert employés and fix their rate of pay. Let me also suggest that the way you start subways is the way they will be built in the future."

Opposes Special Levies.

"If you are intimating that there must be special assessments in my ward, you are wrong," said Ald. Bowler. "The property cannot possibly stand it. If you think you will get away with a special assessment on Franklin street for a subway in State street, you have another guess."

"There will be no trouble on the special assessment," Mr. Faherty said. "We have already sounded out the property owners on that. Also let me say that all property will be benefited by the subway and will be subject to special assessment."

"Let me tell you, Mike," said Ald. McDonough, "that while we want to move cautiously, we want all reasonable speed. The people by a vote of 5 to 1 said they wanted better transportation. The companies should realize that they now have the confidence of the public too. They are willing to go ahead, according to what some of the officials have told me today, when they can get some difficulties out of the way. But they will probably ask that the 1907 ordinances be amended. I believe they are ready to build. The city must get ready to dig. That is what the aldermen want. It is what the people want. There must be no dragging along."

"I have been waiting for a chance to dig for many a year," retorted Mr. Faherty.

Wants Only Chicagoans Hired.

Ald. Oscar Nelson urged that the council prevail upon the companies to employ only residents of Chicago in their construction work.

"I am heartily in favor of that and that all materials be made in the Chicago area," replied Ald. McDonough. "I have written the companies to that effect and expect to get a reply within three or four days. The unions can insist upon having all of the jobs which will be available."

"Where there is a union," said Ald. Nelson, "you can be assured that only residents of Chicago will be employed. The unions have not given out working cards to outsiders for 11 months, and they are still needing work urgently."

ITALY DEMANDS 'U. S. OF EUROPE' SHORN OF GUNS

Bares Rome's Stand in Reply to France.

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROME, July 7.—As long as Europe remains an armed camp, it is useless to think about organizing any united states of Europe, the Mussolini government replied to French Foreign Minister Briand's Pan-European proposal in a note made public today.

The note places the responsibility of keeping Europe an armed camp at France's door and it baldly suggests that the real reasons behind the French proposal are to preserve the status quo of nations, which benefited mostly by the war, while keeping the minor nations in an inferior position.

"If the goal of this federated Europe consists really in stricter cooperations of the nations of Europe we must first solve the question of reduced armaments," is reads. "Disarmament, not touched upon in the French memorandum, is, in the opinion of the Fascist government, the fundamental point of departure for any effective moral cohesion among nations to solve the general problem of security and to give the elementary reason for the existence of any project for a federal union of European nations."

In its reply, the Fascist government assumes the position of mouthpiece of defeated nations and minor states. It points out that the proposed union must not be used to crystallize the present European situation. It says all states belonging to the union should be equal and the union should not infringe on the sovereignty of individual members. The note says there should be no more distinction between victor states and conquered states, and, in every aspect, any European federation should strictly harmonize with the league of nations.

The note points out that any federation of Europe would be an absurdity if Russia and Turkey were left out, as they are by the French invitation.

FRANCE BATTLES TO CRUSH FOREIGN MONOPOLY IN OIL

Seeks to Establish Own Refining Industry.

BY HENRY WALES.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, July 7.—Foreign control of the oil trade in France, of which the United States enjoys the major part, comes up before the chamber of deputies tomorrow, when the government will demand adoption of a bill establishing a national industry for the refining of petroleum.

Premier Tardieu's cabinet seeks to protect and foster national production by requiring all private refineries to purchase 25 per cent of their production from a state subsidized company.

The sole existing private concern whose refinery is nearing completion, is protesting vigorously with the support of all foreign oil companies distributing in France.

The government's eventual aim is to insure a market for Mosul oil, when the Iraq fields are exploited and also to prepare to handle Russian oil at such a time when an agreement may be made with the soviets over the czarist debts to France. It is expected that the bolsheviks will only be able to liquidate these obligations through deliveries of oil and other commodities.

At the San Remo conference in 1920 France received 40,000 shares, formerly owned by Germany, in a Turkish petroleum company, which once controlled the Mosul fields. The British and Americans received equal amounts. The French government ceded the stock to a private French company for 80 per cent of the receipts. In view of the overproduction of oil in the world, the British and Americans thus far have refused to develop the Mosul fields and the region continues unproductive.

The French company has formed a subsidiary for refining petroleum in France and is ready to construct an enormous plant if the government guarantees the sale of the company's output by forcing all refineries to market an amount equal to 25 per cent of their output through the state subsidized refinery.

LOSSES IN CHINA CIVIL WAR HUGE; BATTLES RAGE ON

Tribune Man Witnesses Desperate Fighting.

BY JOHN POWELL.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SHANGHAI, July 7.—Gen. Chiang Kai-shek, president of China, with 22 divisions under his command, is confident of his ability to defeat the two major opponents of the government, Gens. Feng Yu-hsiang and Yen Hsi-shan, commanders of rebel armies in the present fighting in Honan province, despite the fact that both the government and the rebel losses during the last six weeks are the largest in Chinese civil wars since the first revolution in 1911.

THE TRIBUNE correspondent, accompanied by other American and Japanese correspondents and an American marine intelligence officer, Lieut. William Scheyer, returned to Shanghai tonight following an arduous trip to the Honan battlefront where desperate fighting was observed along the 50 mile front. Gen. Chiang was interviewed at his headquarters near the village of Liuho.

20,000 Nationalists Wounded.

Since May 19, when Gen. Chiang launched an attack on the town of Lanfeng, more than 20,000 Nationalist troops have been wounded, and I saw about 9,000 troops suffering from leg, arm and head wounds sustained from rifles, shrapnel and knives. Col. J. L. Huang, who was educated in the United States and who is in charge of the hospitalization of the Nationalist forces, is certain that Gen. Feng's losses for the same period are more than 16,000 killed with an unknown number of wounded.

For the first time during a Chinese civil war proper attention has been given to hospitalization. Numerous improvised clinics have been established at railway junctions giving first aid, while the more serious casualties are sent to hospitals.

Rebels Hide in Grain Fields.

The fighting area in eastern Honan embraces a broad, sandy plain covered with crops and dotted with numerous peach orchards laden with fruit. Progress of the fighting is slow, because Gen. Feng is taking advantage of the natural defenses provided by a network of river dikes as well as grain fields, which help to conceal his troops against the government's airplanes.

Gen. Feng's troops, most of whom have just emerged from the famine areas of Shensi and Kansu, sing the war slogan, "if we go forward, we get bread and rice, but if we retreat, we get only grass and tree roots."

File Petitions for Repeal of North Dakota Dry Law

Bismarck, N. D., July 7.—(AP)—Petitions bearing sufficient signatures—more than 20,000—to initiate a measure for the repeal of the state's prohibition laws were filed with Secretary of State Robert Byrne today, but legal technicalities make it doubtful whether the proposal will be placed on the November election ballot. This was because all the petitions are not accompanied by affidavits.

AKRON BALLOON WINS BIG RACE; GOES 850 MILES

Houston, Tex., July 7.—(AP)—R. J. Blair, a former navy yard worker, who used to handle a rivet gun, and Frank Trotter, a 29 year old student aeronaut, today were declared the unofficial victors in the national elimination balloon races which got under way here Friday.

In the Akron, Ohio, entrant, Goodyear-Zeppelin, they traveled the greatest distance—some 850 miles. Blair brought the Goodyear-Zeppelin down late yesterday at Greensburg, Ky.

Capt. Fred S. Wilbur of the race committee said his calculations showed the Detroit Times, E. J. Hill, pilot, and A. C. Schlosser, aid, as having been in second place with some 700 miles to its credit.

The United Van balloon of Cleveland, piloted by George Hineman, with Milford Vanik as aid, ran a close race with the Detroit Times, both landing in Kentucky. Capt. Wilbur estimated that the Cleveland entry finished in third place with an estimated 685 miles.

For ten of the fifteen balloons which started a vicious thunder cloud which hung low over the Texarkana area Saturday was the end of the voyage. They fought to the last, dumping clothing, food, and in one case even a part of the basket in trying to stay aloft.

Blair and Trotter encountered this trouble themselves, but managed to stick it out by throwing away their food and some of their clothing.

JONES, DIEGEL SHOOT 70S AT SCENE OF OPEN

Amateur and Pro Set Course Record.

Bobby Spares Words

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., July 7.—(AP)—Bobby Jones has another title—The World's Most Silent Golfer.

Donovan Dale, Jones' caddy for the National Open play at Interlachen, proclaimed the new title today.

"He's a swell guy!" Donovan said. "He only spoke to me twice."

In five hours of play, so Donovan reported, Jones' only conversation was:

"Where's the water?" and "What's your name?"

Minneapolis, Minn., July 7.—(AP)—The key to Interlachen was taken from the shelf late today and before it had been hidden away Bobby Jones and Leo Diegel jointly set a new record for the course where play in the national open will begin Thursday with rounds of 70, two below par.

Practicing for the meet together, the defending champion from Atlanta and the ranking professional smashed par on hole after hole to come in with the day's outstanding performance. While a few putts were conceded instead of holing out each ball, as the open will require, their records were set despite a condition which will be improved Thursday—for the greens, hard and dry from a week of intensely warm weather, were extremely lively, while before the championship rounds begin they are to be thoroughly moistened.

Hagen Shoots Nine in 32.

Walter Hagen, twice open champion, also contributed a sensation in his last practice round today when he set a record for the first nine holes with a score of 32, four below par for the distance. Coming home he was unable to keep up the pace and shot four over par for a 40, giving him par 72 for the 18 holes. Four birdies and five pars brought him his record for the outgoing nine. Diegel, playing with Jones, just before had netted a 33 for the same distance.

Johnny Goodman, the Omaha youth, who tumbled the national amateur crown from Jones' brow at Pebble Beach last fall in an early match, indicated the state of his golf on his introductory round with a 71, one below par. He was one below par on the first nine and equaled it coming in.

Lighthorse Harry Cooper, who lost the play-off for the open title in 1927, played par on his first trip around the course. Tommy Armour, who won that play-off and the 1927 crown, and George Von Elm, former amateur champion, netted 73's. Johnny Farrell, 1928 open champion; Cyril Tolley, former British amateur champion; Jim Barnes, 1921 champion; Sonny Rouse, and Joe Ezar, both of Chicago, were credited with 74's. Joe Turnesa and Denny Shute, young pros, recorded a 75 each.

Hutchison Has 78.

Jock Hutchison, Chicago pro, had a 78, tying with Gibson Dunlop, former intercollegiate champion. Dick Martin, University of Illinois, Big Ten champion, took 77 on his initial round. Willie Kidd, Interlachen professional, played around in par.

Jones played with a bandage around his neck, protecting sunburn which was the fruit of his two par rounds Sunday under a blazing sun. On his par-breaking round with Diegel he played the first nine in par 36 and came home in 34.

Rosenberg, Coast Fielder, Leaves to Join Giants

San Francisco, Cal., July 7.—(AP)—Harry Rosenberg, young outfield star, left here tonight to join the New York Giants, changing his previously announced plan of not reporting to the big league club until he was given a share of his purchase price of $40,000.

Van Ryn and Allison Take Doubles Final

BY EUGENE SPECK.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WIMBLEDON, England, July 7.—Wilmer Allison and John Van Ryn, the American holders of the British doubles championship, retained their crown today by defeating George Lott and Johnny Doeg, American challengers, 6-3, 6-3, 6-2.

It is the first time that any team has repeated as doubles champion at Wimbledon in 17 years. Allison and Van Ryn annexed the fourth championship America has won at Wimbledon this year. Tilden beat Allison for the singles title Saturday, Helen Wills Moody and Elizabeth Ryan beat Sarah Palfrey and Edith Cross in the women's doubles final, and Mrs. Moody overthrew Miss Ryan for the women's singles crown. Miss Ryan also shared the mixed doubles title with Jack Crawford of Australia.

Tilden Not on Cup Team.

The four doubles finalists will be included in the American Davis cup lineup in Paris this month. Shortly after the match, F. E. Dixon, chairman of the American committee, settled another selection by announcing definitely that Tilden would not compete despite his victory in the singles finals here.

"Tilden will not play," Mr. Dixon declared. "I will not say the others who will be chosen, but Tilden will not be included."

Besides the four finalists today, other probable United States Davis cup selections are Berkeley Bell from Texas and Gregory Mangin of Washington.

Break Up Doeg's Service.

Allison and Van Ryn won their match by breaking through Doeg's famous service. He won only one of his games in the first set, two in the second, and one in the third. Lott lost one in the final set when it was apparent that it was impossible to win three sets straight and take the match. Lott played a brilliant ground game, while Doeg made the mistake of playing in the air. His shallow lobs were an easy mark for the killing smashes of Allison and Van Ryn.

The 1930 invasion was the most successful the United States has ever had. It has only been equaled by the French record in 1925.

TILDEN REFUSES TO PLAY

New York, July 7.—(AP)—Big Bill Tilden, in a cable to the North American Newspaper alliance tonight, announced he would not play for the United States in the Davis cup tennis challenge round.

Tilden said that he had turned down an invitation to join the team, extended by Fitz Eugene Dixon of Philadelphia, because the "request that I reconsider my retirement and play on the team has come too late."

At the same time, the North American Newspaper alliance, through its general manager, John N. Wheeler, announced that it had offered to release Tilden from his contract to report the international series for that organization.

MINNIE PHILLIPS WILL WIN SWIM: SISTERS SAY SO

One Family Enters 3 in Tribune Races.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Ask Minnie Phillips' sisters, Annie and Stephanie, who will win THE TRIBUNE'S 100 yard swim for 14 and 15 year old girls. They'll tell you Minnie will be the champion when the finals are finished Sunday afternoon July 27, in the Lincoln park lagoon.

The three sisters have entered the races. Minnie is 14 and competes in the senior division. Annie, 12, and Stephanie, 13, will swim in the junior class. Their home, at 1638 North Clark street, is at the edge of Lincoln park, and every afternoon you'll find the girls training at the Oak street beach.

Annie's First Race.

Annie is the novice of the family. It will be her first race, but there's no doubt Annie can swim 100 yards and earn a Tribune merit badge. These medals will be given to all Chicago youngsters between the ages of 12 and 15, inclusive, who can cover this distance. Stephanie has won two medals in races at the Larrabee Y. M. C. A. pool. The younger girls are students at the La Salle grammar school.

Minnie not only wants to add a merit badge to her collection of five medals, but she's sure she'll give her opponents a battle for the first prize. She was graduated from the La Salle school this spring and in the fall will enter Lucy Flower High school, where she will study dress designing.

Minnie won the 40 yard dash at the Larrabee Y last winter. She also has medals for the back stroke and as a member of the relay team. She has competed in two lake races, one of which was from Navy pier to Oak street.

Send in Your Entries!

Championship prizes will be given the four best swimmers and there will be three other awards in each race. However, don't fail to enter even if you think you can't win first prize. If you can swim 100 yards you are entitled to a merit badge. Fill out the blank and mail it today. Entries close July 21.

Wolgast Beats Parra in 10 Rounds at Jersey City

Jersey City, N. J., July 7.—(AP)—Midget Wolgast of Philadelphia decisively outpointed Routier Parra of Chile in a ten round bout at the Oakland A. A. tonight. Wolgast was too speedy for the South American. Wolgast weighted 110; Parra, 114.

NICKNAME, WHAT IS IT? ASK MUG--ER-MR. McGRAW

Boo Boo, Singletooth and Doc Don't Mind Theirs.

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, July 7.—Some of the old school members of this community still make the rather pardonable error of addressing or referring to John J. McGraw as Muggsy. This is a dangerous faux pas if committed within the hearing of the aforesaid McGraw. He is very sensitive on the subject and, although his most devoted friends have apologized for his record as a fist fighter, there is always the possibility that he will lay in that right fist of his and leave one prostrate. After all these years of trying, Mr. McGraw might score with that right any day now.

Mr. McGraw was nicknamed Muggsy by his boyhood comrades around Olean, N. Y., and for the first forty years of his life he thought this was an all right name for him. He gloried in it and derived royalties from it because the name characterized him and he characterized the Giants and people went to see them play because they were rought and tough and daring and quarrelsome.

Begins to Dislike Name.

But as Mr. McGraw grew older and progressed in the social, political, and business set of New York, it occurred to him that Muggsy was a discreditable name for one who was expected to sit at board meetings and banquet boards and serve on committees. The McGraws went to live in Pelham, a suburb where some of the people own yachts. The neighbors were known as Roy W. This and William W. That, and it just seemed to him that he ought to be allowed to outgrow his nickname as the others had. Fun was fun, but it was no joke to be introduced as Mr. and Mrs. Muggsy McGraw.

So Mr. McGraw is not Muggsy any more, but John or Mac or Mr. McGraw.

This indicates how strong his character is. There was a time when only Teddy Roosevelt's nickname was better known than his, but now that name is only a reminiscence.

These nicknames stick unless strong corrective measures are taken. There is a fellow around this town, engaged in the gambling business and very well off at the present moment, who is known as Sleep-Out Louie. Years ago Louie was not so very well fixed and in those days he slept in the chairs on the broad, cool verandas of the big hotels at Saratoga

Lassman's Death on Canoe Trip Is Termed Accident

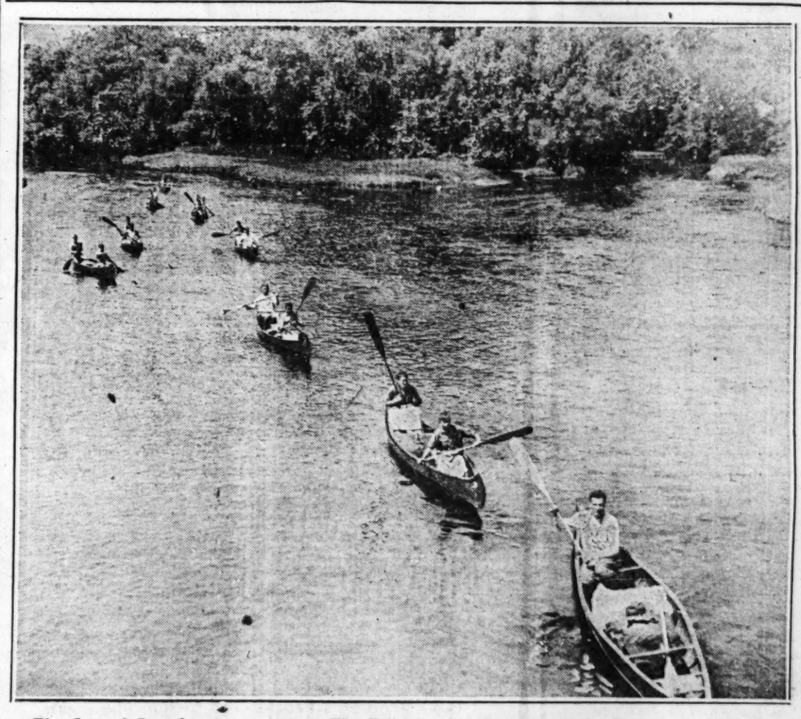
Harrison, Me., July 7.—(AP)—The death of Alfred E. Lassman, 24, former New York university football captain and intercollegiate boxing champion, whose body was recovered early today from Long lake, was due to accidental drowning, according to Medical Examiner Dr. Irving Mabry of Bridgeton.

Lassman, whose home was at Brighton, Mass., was spending two weeks with "Izzy" Zarakov, former Harvard baseball captain, at the latter's cottage. He went out on the lake alone in a canoe Sunday afternoon. An hour and a half later the frail craft was found floating, upside down, in the rough water. Dragging operations were started and twelve hours later the body was recovered.

The noted athlete's team mates, Leonard Grant, former New York university captain, and John Nemick, who will captain the team next fall, said Lassman was an expert swimmer and boatman.

Dr. Mabry said it was possible Lassman suffered a shock brought on by an old football injury.

PADDLIN' ALONG THE OLD TIPPECANOE



The fleet of Boy Scout canoeists on The Tribune cruise heads down the Tippecanoe. The Scouts traveled about 19 miles yesterday. Last night they pitched their tents in a grove near Buffalo, Ind., where a big meal, story telling and a good night's sleep made up the program.

IT WILL BE HARD GOING TODAY, MATES!

Quiet Water Ahead to Make Plenty of Work.

BY BOB BECKER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Buffalo, Ind., July 7.—Although a scorching sun beat down upon the speedy young paddlers in THE TRIBUNE Boy Scout expedition, the fleet of canoes carrying the youngsters down the Tippecanoe river swung down this waterway at a merry clip today. Tonight the sunburned young cruisers are encamped in a big grove of elms and sycamores just outside of Buffalo and not far from another group of Scouts from East Chicago.

As promising as the tent sites are tonight, there is a little cloud on the boys' outlook for tomorrow. They are wondering how long the portage around the first big dam is going to be. The swift water and easy sailing of the upper river is past. Ahead is quiet water backed up by the power dam and some hard paddling to a camp site above Monticello.

There is a strong odor of sunburn lotions and ointments in the air because old Sol took his toll in burned skin during the day's jaunt.

Today's journey was about 19 miles. The boys checked out of camp below Winamac shortly before 9 o'clock, and led by canoe No. 1, the fleet of green ships soon was out of sight around the first bend. The boys ate lunch five miles below Pulaski.

Sometimes the river shot them along on a strong current and made them rock in the rapids. In other places wide sweeping curves in the channel slowed the pace and brought the boys close to the age old sycamores, maple willows and elm trees which arch over the clear water to make cool, shady retreats for the small mouth black bass. Just before lunch the pilot boat called all hands to the water. Quick as a flash the perspiring paddlers put on bathing suits for a swim.

Pepped up by this short water carnival the boys burned up the water with their paddles to reach a high bank overlooking the river where lunch was served. There the Scouts had cold beef, cold ham, bread and butter, jam, assorted cookies and a tall bucket of lemonade.

Tonight's camp site promises somewhat softer beds for the boys because the grass is long and thick here on the river bank where the pup tents will rise.

Sox Jump on Tigers, 9 to 5, After Taking 3 to 2 Beating

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

After being reduced to a state of near helplessness in the first part of a double header yesterday, the White Sox showed their resentment by bouncing back to earn a fifty-fifty break in their labors against the Tigers. The opener concluded with a 3 to 2 score in ten innings, but the south siders were more robust with their bats in the nightcap. They accomplished their victory by 9 to 5 in regulation time.

The first engagement was a matter of too much Earl Whitehill. He southpawed so effectively that the pale hosed athletes confined themselves to four hits. One of these was delivered by Dutch Henry, who pitched for the home troops, and it shoved home the only two runs the Chicagoans were able to gather. Henry's pitching, however, was not in keeping with his timely hitting.

Caraway Hurls Nightcap.

Altogether he was thumped for a dozen blows and on this basis had no license to win, let alone carry the battle into extra rounds. After seeing Henry hammered into submission, Boss Bush still had enough faith in southpaws to delegate Pat Caraway for duty in the second game. Pat was handed a lead in the first inning when the Sox began scheming the eventual smoking out of Red Herring.

Given that advantage, the slatlike left hander unwound himself in most impressive fashion and never was in danger.

Lyons and Sorrell will handle the ladies day battle this afternoon.

Passes Help Sox Score.

Passes made it possible for the Sox to put themselves in a two run lead in the second inning of the first battle. To start the inning Whitehill walked both Barnes and Kamm. An infield out moved them up and both scored on Henry's single.

Henry was not frisked for any runs until the fifth, but enough happened to him in the preceding innings to indicate that eventually he would encounter trouble. Akers opened the fifth with a double to left, and Desautels scored him with a triple in the same direction. Henry climbed part way out of the jam by fanning Whitehill. Fothergill, who swings righthanded, then was permitted to bat for Johnson. He singled to left to send Desautels home with the tying run.

Detroit's winning run in the tenth began to take form when the ponderous Alexander led off with a two base drive to the scoreboard in left. Rogell

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Cincinnati, O., July 7.—Pat Malone, one of the veteran members of Joe McCarthy's collapsible pitching staff, this afternoon specialized in pitching triples, great disaster attending same. The long suffering Cincinnati Reds as a result made it three victories in two days over the 1929 National league champs by a score of 4 to 2.

So here we are, supposedly in training for the crucial eastern invasion, with a record of two games won and four lost. And, to make things worse, Brooklyn isn't duplicating any of the Cubs' flopful mannerisms.

Tomorrow is a day off, and a jolly day off it will be, thinking about three plasterings in a row at the hands of the seventh place Redlegs. Business will be resumed Wednesday with Root in charge for the staggering champs, and Kolp for Cincinnati.

Triples Jar Malone.

All four of the Cincinnati runs today were made after two were out, and triples were the essential factors in all enemy production.

Malone had no one to blame but himself, although the panic in one instance was aided by Cuyler, who lost the ball in the sun after it had hit the ground—a high bouncer, you know. Pat threw the first triple, which was bonafide, and he permitted Heilmann, propeller of that first triple, to score on a wild pitch. The triple that Cuyler aided was a legitimate single, and, with a triple by Swanson following, as it did, the result would have been the same anyhow—two runs any way you figure it.

The Reds made seven hits off Malone and five were for extra bases. Both of the batters who singled scored and two of the three men who tripled scored. Neither of the two doubles proved negotiable, or even helpful.

Stephenson Scores First Run.

For five innings the game was a routine affair. During that span the Reds had only one hit, a fly which Cuyler misjudged with two out in the second, which gave Durocher credit for a double. And in the five innings the Cubs had acquired only three singles, one by English in the first, one by Hartnett in the second, and another by English in the third.

The Cubs made one run in the second. Stephenson and Grimm walked with one out, and Stevie scored on Hartnett's single. Beck fouled to Styles and Malone grounded to Kelly.

Malone's serenity continued until Swanson and Stripp were disposed of in the sixth. Then Kelly registered the second hit off Pat, a single to left. Heilmann stepped up and smacked a triple to left center which scored Kelly. Malone's first pitch to Ford went to the screen, Heilmann trotting in with the run that gave the Reds a 2 to 1 advantage. Ford then flied to Wilson.

Two Out; Then Reds Start.

The Cubs effected a 2 to 2 tie in short order. Beck opened the seventh with a single to center and was sacrificed to second by Malone. Clyde scored on Blair's single to center, English lined to Walker, and Ford threw out Cuyler.

In the Cincinnati end of the seventh things seemed agreeable enough when Blair threw out Durocher and Beck tossed out Styles, but Campbell crossed up the program by singling to center. Walker then shot what normally would have been a single to right. Cuyler lost the bounce in the sun and the ball bounded away for a triple, Campbell scoring what proved to be the winning run. Swanson also tripled to right and Walker scored. Beck threw out Stripp.

The Cubs made six of their nine hits in the last four innings and only one run, no other threats resulting therefrom.

Firemen Drill at Wrigley Field for Intercity Series

Chicago Firemen's baseball team will turn out at Wrigley Field this afternoon in preparation for the intercity series, Thursday and Friday, with the Detroit Fire Department club at Comiskey park and Wrigley Field. The series is arranged to raise funds for the Chicago firemen's benefit funds.

LATIVICH BEATS WIRT G. BOWMAN BY TWO LENGTHS

Other Favorites Fail to Reward Backers.

BY FRENCH LANE.

Lativich, an outlander from England, but racing in the silks of Herbert Bayard Swope of New York, galloped to a brilliant victory in the Consolidation purse, a dash at a mile at Arlington Park yesterday.

The race held top place on a program which provided numerous thrilling finishes. Lativich, after running head and head with Edward R. Bradley's Buddy Bauer and the Greentree stable's Justinian for seven furlongs, pulled out into a longer lead in the stretch and beat Wirt G. Bowman by two lengths. Justinian was faltering under the fast pace, but staggered home third, a half length ahead of Susie Jane.

Has Famous Sire.

Lativich was making his second start at Arlington and had come here with quite a reputation. He is a son of Blandford-Osmunda and was bred and foaled in England. His sire, Blandford, was also the sire of Trigo, last year's English Derby winner, and of Blemish, this year's English Derby winner. Blandford sired nearly all the great stake horses which raced in England last year.

So with all this background, plus the showing he made in New York last fall, Lativich went into the Consolidation with many supporters. Those in the big crowd who backed him hardly expected such a stiff race. Lativich had to be game and fleet of foot to keep his nose in front of Buddy Bauer and Justinian in that desperate dash over the first seven furlongs.

Final Spurt Wins Race.

Lativich arose to the occasion and began shaking off Buddy Bauer and Justinian at the head of the stretch. But as they dropped back Wirt G. Bowman, which has been performing brilliantly here, moved up with another determined challenge. He just got his nose up even with Lativich's saddle girth when Lativich put on another burst of speed. He went on to win by two wide lengths.

Lativich was ridden by Jockey E. Steffan and he ran the mile in 1:37 4-5.

J. A. Weil Pays $42.12.

Other favorites did not fare so well on this Arlington program. The long shot of the day turned up in J. A. Weil, which captured the sixth race, J. A. Weil met up with an ordinary band of platers, but he ran like a stake horse and got up in the final strides to show his hoofs to Port Gar, with Miss Maryland third. J. A. Weil's mutuel price was $42.12 for each $2 invested.

Sun Dot, owned by Norman E. Church, Elgin sportsman, beat the heavily backed Kamalii in the 2 year old race which opened the program, and did it handily after he started running midway in the stretch. Roy Gibson was the favorite, overthrown in the second race, Sublevado coming along to conquer him in the last strides. Sublevado is an easterner and is owned by Mrs. K. Hitt of New York.

Then along came Sir Argo to trim Edward R. Bradley's Big Star in a close finish. Volt Meter was an outsider when he defeated the heavily backed Supryse in the Freeport purse, and Sweet Mandy was the choice to fall in the last number, Stick Around, an eastern plater, trimming her handily.

Gallant Knight in a Fast Drill at Arlington

Gallant Knight, winner of the Fairmount Derby and Latonia Derby, opened the eyes of the railbirds at Arlington Park yesterday morning when he reeled off three-quarters of a mile in 1:14 3-5. The colt was hard held all the way. Petee Wrack, older brother of Gallant Fox, was also a fast worker during the morning. He stepped a half mile in 49 seconds. The Arlington handicap and Arlington cup are his objective.

Joseph E. Widener's flat racers, including Curate, Mr. Sponge and several others, are due at Arlington Park tomorrow morning in charge of Trainer Pete Coyne. Curate is an Arlington handicap prospect while Mr. Sponge, a son of Luke McLuke-Black Brocade and a brother of Shuffle Along, is a 3 year old but is not eligible to the Classic.

Charles H. Hughes resigned as timer at Arlington yesterday to become assistant trainer for Harry F. Sinclair's Rancocas stable.

Among the arrivals at Arlington from New York yesterday were Edward F. Simms, H. Teller Archibald and Tal Pendelton, the old Princeton football star.

Bayard Tuckerman, well known as a gentleman rider and campaigner of steeplechasers in the east and part owner of the Essex stable, was another arrival from the east.

Jockey Earl Sande expects to ride several horses in races at Arlington this week in order to be in the best of condition when he climbs into the saddle on Gallant Fox in Saturday's classic. Most of his engagements will be in 2 year old races.

"GIVE US THE TWIN TENS"

SAY THE FIRE-FIGHTERS IN ENGINE CO. No. 40 AND HOOK AND LADDER CO. No. 62

(Right) 45 FEET ASTERN he can steer the big truck at breakneck speed! But he pauses just a moment to let Dagmar Ogren get his vote for the winning Twin Tens pack! His pals in Company 62 were all Twin Tenners.

IF THERE'S anybody who knows his smoke—it's a fireman. So we asked the boys in Engine Co. No. 40 and Hook and Ladder Co. No. 62 how they liked their Wings—in the flat Wallet pack or the slim little Twin Tens. After a fiery argument the Twin Tens won—27 to 16.

Captain C. P. Minahan, 119 North Franklin, who bosses the Engine Company, said, "I like my fires hot but my smokes cool and whole—with no tobacco leaking out. So give me the Wallet pack every time!"

But Captain Hensel of Hook and Ladder No. 62 disagreed. "The Twin Tens are easier to handle. They slip in and out of your pocket in a jiffy. I'm for those little fellers!" Other comments: "The Twin Tens lie flat as a dime!" "I can split a pack with my girl friend! It's a nifty idea!"

Everyone has his own pet reason for liking one pack or the other; but after all the best reason is the cigarette itself. Notice—they ALL liked their smokes Air-Cooled!

Herman's twentieth home run in the sixth inning scored what proved to be the winning run. His double in the fourth was converted into a run when Wright singled.

Moss let the Braves down with six hits and held them scoreless for seven innings. The Robins touched Smith for seven safeties, three of which were made by Herman. Score:

TIGERS SIGN PITCHER.

Call Him Mr. McGraw, But Not Muggsy

during the racing and faro season. I was asking some of the old horse track G. A. R.s today if they could tell me Sleep-Out Louie's square name.

All Called Him Sleep-Out.

"Come to think of it," one of them said, "I don't believe I ever heard of any other name for him. Everybody calls him Sleep Out."

Among my acquaintances is a middle aged party with a round, ruddy countenance and eyes that peer through thick spectacle panes, known as Doc Hall. It is my understanding that the doc is a banker. He frequents the pleasure resorts around and about the country, traveling with the seasons, and engages in the banking business as he goes. The name of his bank is the faro bank.

I was asking Dr. Hall how he came to be known as Doc Hall and he a banker.

"They called me doc when I was a boy down in Gallatin, Tenn.," said he, "because when the boys used to get their ears frostbitten in winter I used to breathe on them and thaw them out. They would pay a nickel or buy me a licorice ship or something of the kind, and they called me Doc."

Mr. McGraw Only Objector.

There are hundreds of these distinctive names in the sport business. But Mr. McGraw is the only one who has objected. Like his name of Muggsy, most of them were fixed to the subjects in their youth, but others were attained after the boys matured. All refer to some peculiarity, some exploit, some calling, some stamping ground.

At the moment I think of One-Eyed Connelly, the wandering gate crasher; Singletooth Yeager, the prizefighters' press agent; John the Barber, Joe the Goneff; Dumb Daniel Morgan, the man of a few million words; Muggsy Taylor, the Philadelphia prize fight promoter; Boo Boo Hoff, so-called because the plural of boo is booze; Fat Meade; Feet Edson; Nick the Greek; Windshield Bagley, one of Gene Tunney's early managers, who wears huge, amber panes in his specs; Dutch Freddie Eschner, also known as Old Paddlefoot; Tammany Young, a very good free hand actor who used to be a newspaper office boy and later devoted himself to a career in gate-crashing at world series games and heavyweight fights, finally taking to the drama; Tex Rickard; Good Time Charlie Freedman, whose name is Walter; Spittin' Jack McDonald; and a party by the name of A. J. Patnoade, known almost everwhere as Blues, on account of his dark, overhanging brows, which give his countenance a melancholy cast.

Mr. McGraw Resents.

Some years ago, when George Washington Grant owned the Boston Braves, Mr. McGraw invited him to step down to a beer saloon for a crock of pilsner and a snack of pigs knuckles. Mr. Grant said no, that he was just going to pop into a dairy lunch and have one 10 cent, hard boiled egg for himself, there was a light of apprehension in his eye as he said this, and as Mr. McGraw growled over his $2.50 worth of knuckles and kraut he came to certain conclusions about Mr. Grant. I am told that this was how the term, hard boiled egg, originated, meaning a person of thrifty character and that Mr. Grant was the charter egg in the mother nest, by Mr. McGraw's nomination.

There have been ever so many Honest Johns about the country, but the one best known here was the late Honest John Kelly, who ran a gambling house in the days before the Rosenthal assassination.

Authorities on the lore of the town differ as to the reason why people called him Honest John.

One patriarch says it was because Mr. Kelly saw a patron, somewhat the worse for his wine, wobbling about his halls with his watch hanging out and didn't take it. But another old codger broke in there to correct him. Said he: "No, he took the watch but saw it was no good and gave it back, and that was how come they to call him Honest John."

He Hated to take off his Hat!

A Message Every Man Should Read

Until . . .
He went to Thomas'

TOM THOMPSON* was not vain, nor was he conceited about his personal appearance. He found that his lack of hair actually hindered his business progress. Not infrequently would he be fully prepared to make a masterful sales presentation to a prospective customer only to be balked when he removed his hat and exposed his bald head. Friends "wise-cracked" about it and although new acquaintances and business prospects did not boldly mention it, Tom knew they were thinking, "Too bad he had to take off his hat—he looked so much younger with it on."

In Tom's case baldness actually cost him money. No matter how forceful were his sales arguments, he could not keep his customer's eyes off his bald head. Finally he came to The Thomas'—was accepted for treatment after a scientific scalp examination, and now a growth of new hair covers his scalp in a natural manner. The Thomas' have relieved him of the embarrassment of baldness.

You too should call at a Thomas' office for a free scalp examination. If your hair is falling—let Thomas' stop it. If you have dandruff or itching scalp—let Thomas' overcome these troubles. If your hair is thin or even if you are bald—let Thomas' help you regrow your hair. Thomas' treatment is proved by 16 years of success and now is administered to more than 1,600 men each day. You will not be accepted for treatment unless The Thomas' specialist is reasonably sure you will receive the results which you expect. Remember—no charge is made for the scalp examination at any time.

130 PLAY TODAY IN MEDAL ROUND OF DISTRICT GOLF

Blossom Begins Defense of 1929 Crown.

BY HOWARD BARRY.

The first of 130 golfers will step to the tee at 7:15 o'clock this morning for the qualifying round of the Chicago district amateur tournament at Calumet Country club. By evening the field will have negotiated 36 holes and 32 will have earned the right to carry on in quest of the title.

After battling through five rounds of match play the new champion will receive his crown on Friday unless the present title holder, Frank Blossom of Shore Acres, is able to defend his laurels against the most skillful amateurs of the territory.

To do so he will be forced to turn back the challenge of Jack Westland, who won the championship in the 1927 tournament at Olympia Fields, and who failed by a single stroke to qualify for the national open in the trial round last month at Briergate. He will be forced to prove himself superior to John McKinlay of Beverly and Johnny Lehman of Olympia Fields, to say nothing of Russell Martin and Alden B. Swift.

Sam Binder of Big Oaks, Alfred Birett of Calumet, and Oscar Keller of Oak Hills will have the honor of teeing off first. They will be followed at five minute intervals by the remainder of the field, with Albert R. Cohen of Mid-City bringing up the rear at 10:25 a. m.

This year's system of playing a 36 hole preliminary round and permitting 32 to qualify will give a better break to those who contend that match play is a truer test of golf than medal play.

In the WAKE of the NEWS

TURF CHATTER.

SISKIN, winner of the Hyde Park stakes at Arlington Saturday, attracts interest of horsemen because he is a son of Epinard-Ruddy Light. Epinard is the great French horse which invaded this country several years ago to attempt the impossible task of meeting three American horses in match races at varying distances with the added proviso that he make no other starts except in those races. Although Epinard failed, his performances were so sparkling; despite the odds, that American breeders secured his services for one year's stud duty in Kentucky. He has since returned to France, but negotiations are said to have been concluded for his return here next year. Siskin is a product of Epinard's American harem. Several other of the French stallion's get brought fancy prices at the yearling sales last fall. Siskin was a winter speedster on the Pacific coast, but lost to Vanderpool, Up and Equipoise in his only eastern start at Havre de Grace. Saturday's race was his first under silks since.

Steeplechasing is new in the Chicago district. Therefore few spectators at Arlington Saturday realized they were seeing a closer race than they are likely to see again this season. At one time five horses were taking an obstacle at the same time. After the last barrier four contenders had a chance for first money.

Gallant Fox, at this writing, appears to outclass his field for the Classic, most valuable stake of the present meeting. Second, third, and fourth moneys, however, are attractive enough to insure a field. Also there always is the added chance that a colt which has been in training for nearly three months may have trained off. This seems unlikely, however, with the capable Fox, which has accomplished all his victories so convincingly.

Razzing Our Golf Game.

Now The Wake never has contended that we were a golfer, but there are limits. After a bad afternoon in the traps we found an extra niblick in our bag, as we told you, and returned it to the razzer. Our last time out, after 24 putts on the first nine, we found an extra putter in our bag when we returned from luncheon to play the final nine. Taking the club, we handed it to our caddy, saying, "Here, my boy, this club is yours." As we finished a chap, whom we believe to be the culprit, approached and said, "Did you find an extra putter in your bag?" "Yes," we replied, "it looked like a putter I discarded last season, so I gave it to the caddy." The last we saw of the chap he was dashing madly toward the caddy house. What we also need in our bag is a driver that will drive and an approaching iron that will approach.

Do You Remember Way Back When:

Sox Jump on Tigers, 9 to 5, After 3-2 Loss

ran for him and moved over to third on McManus' sacrifice bunt. Uhle, a pitcher, but nevertheless handy with the bat, was selected to perform in Stone's place. The pinch man delivered a sacrifice fly of average length to Barnes in center and Rogell scored.

The Tigers began the nightcap with a run on Johnson's double and a couple of infield outs, but the Sox came back and hooked Herring for three runs in their half. Mulleavy started this revolt by tripling to right with one gone. He scooted home on Reynolds' sacrifice fly. Jolley singled and continued to second when Akers threw the ball into the dugout. Barnes hit safely, and Jolley scored. Herring then filled the bases on passes to Clancy and Kamm. Tate scratched a hit past the pitcher to register Barnes with the last run of the inning.

Both parties to the argument were able to pick up one run in the second inning. The Tigers drew theirs on a single by Stone, who went to second on Barnes' fumble. A fly ball put him on third, and he hiked home while Mulleavy was tossing out Hayworth. The Sox drew their run on an error after two were out. Reynolds made two sacks when Akers heaved the ball into the dugout and scored on a hit by Jolley. Then the Sox grabbed one more off Herring in the fourth on hits by Mulleavy and Reynolds and an infield out. This put them in front, 5 to 2.

Detroit's delegates crept up a bit by scoring once in the seventh. Hayworth led off with a peculiar twister that squirmed away from Cissell for a single. He was forced by Sullivan. After he had escaped on a pop foul, which Clancy almost captured close to the visitors' coop. Johnson aimed a two bagger down the left field line, putting Sullivan on third. Sullivan scored on Funk's infield out.

The Sox promptly made things more secure for themselves by putting a "4" on the score board in their half of the seventh. Barnes started it with a pass off Sullivan. He reached home on singles by Clancy and Kamm. A pass to Tate filled the bags, and Clancy tallied on Caraway's sacrifice fly. Cissell then grounded to short, and Akers heaved the ball wild, letting both Kamm and Tate register.

Scoring was concluded with two Tiger runs in the ninth. These were cooked up on a single by Johnson, a triple by Funk and a double by Gehringer.

All the Benefits of Cod Liver Oil in Sugar Coated Tablets

The scientific accomplishments of this era well prove that "truth is stranger than fiction." Soon you'll be able to see, as well as hear, world famous musicians and entertainers broadcast over your radio.

In the health-field equally amazing developments are taking place—such as extracting the weight, strength and energy increasing elements (vitamins) from Norwegian cod liver oil and putting them into sugar-coated tablets.

Though McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Extract Tablets haven't a trace of fishy taste or odor, they do give a weak, run-down underweight body all the benefits of the pure, vitamin-tested cod liver oil from which they are made. As millions of men, women and children are in great need of these flesh and strength building elements, the value of this new, pleasant form of taking them cannot be overlooked. All druggists sell McCoy's.

A 10-year-old New Jersey boy was very thin and peaked and badly run-down. But he gained 10 pounds in 21 days on McCoy's, and now is the picture of health. McCoy's have been tested and approved by the Good Housekeeping Bureau of Foods, Sanitation and Health. And —A— guarantees them—60 tablets 60 cents.

CHICAGO STOCKS START POORLY; CLOSE LOWER

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

Stocks got away to a poor start on the Chicago exchange yesterday, and though recovering somewhat later in the session, closing prices were moderately lower than last week's final quotations.

Opening sales were executed at prices well below the previous close. While trading at no time during the day was particularly heavy, the week-end accumulation of selling orders was enough to depress the list at the outset. With a few notable exceptions the final prices represented fair recovery from the day's lows.

Grigsby Grunow and Majestic Household were conspicuous weak spots. Each was subject to a good deal of selling and Grigsby, which opened the day slightly higher, slipped off below 14, closing near its low for the day and within a point of its 1930 bottom price of 12¾. It was the most active stock on the board, with sales of approximately 18,000 shares. Majestic was also actively traded in and finished the session down 4 points net at 35.

Delay Production.

Production by the Majestic corporation, which was scheduled to begin about July 1, has been delayed, and it is stated that the company hopes to get into actual production in two or three weeks.

It most other instances net losses were confined within a point margin. U. S. Radio's 2 point drop was an exception, as was a gain of a point made by Noblitt Sparks. The bulk of the day's sales, which amounted to 131,600 shares, were made in half dozen or so of the active issues.

An extra cash dividend of 25 cents was voted yesterday by directors of the A. M. Castle company in addition to the declaration of the regular payment. A similar special payment was made by the firm in the previous quarter. W. B. Simpson, chairman of the board, stated that the company expects considerable improvement during the last half of the fiscal year. Earnings figures for the first six months will be made public as soon as they are available, he said.

Initial Quarterly.

An initial quarterly dividend of 30 cents has been declared on the participating class A shares of the Midland Natural Gas company, which were listed by the exchange several weeks ago. The issue is currently selling around 16.

Directors of the Super Maid corporation will meet July 17 to consider action on the common stock dividend, it was reported yesterday. The meeting scheduled for yesterday was canceled. The previous dividend on the stock, paid in the first quarter, was 75 cents in cash and an extra of 1 per cent in stock.

PRAIRIE OIL TO CUT OUTPUT TO ACTUAL USAGE

Would Reduce Piled Up Stocks.

BY O. A. MATHER.

The problem of gearing production to demand and avoiding large inventories is occupying the major industries these days. And yesterday the big oil companies proceeded with plans to reduce gasoline output to actual consumption, or even below, and thus eliminate stocks that have piled up.

The Prairie Oil and Gas company announced that it will require 40,000 fewer barrels of crude oil a day this month than it took in May and June. The explanation was that refining operations are being curtailed because of current industrial conditions. It was reported that the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey also will reduce its refined output by 15 per cent. Other big companies now are expected to hold down production this month, with their operations scaled to meet conditions in their individual territories.

The large quantities of gasoline in storage were reflected recently in weakness in the refined oil quarket, but indications that the refiners would take definite measures to bring down their output have brought a rallying tendency in the market. It was feared that continued piling up of gasoline supplies eventually would affect the price structure of the crude oil market.

Agricultural Income.

Current evidence, although rather scant, indicates that agricultural income for the present year will fall considerably under that of last season, according to a survey by the Standard Statistics company.

"The values of leading crops have receded to new low levels," the survey says. "In fact, the decline in prices of agricultural products has been sharper than for other commodities, indicating that the farmer is paying relatively more for the goods he purchases. On the basis of present quotations and crop estimates, the return from the total wheat crop will be about 20.1 per cent below that of last year, although prospects are that firmer prices will increase the value of the crop to some extent before marketing is completed.

"Briefly, little stimulus to a recovery in general business activity is provided by the present agricultural outlook. On the other hand, until more complete data are available, we are not prepared to forecast that developments in the agricultural situation will prove an insurmountable obstacle to trade revival."

Expect 10 Per Cent Lower.

The volume of trade in the middle west in the next three months is likely to fall nearly 10 per cent below the third quarter of 1929. The mid-west shippers' advisory board, which advised the railroads as to prospective freight requirements, estimates loadings of 29 commodities in its territory will approximate 1,365,000 cars during July, August and September. This would mark a decline of 9½ per cent from the third quarter of last year, when loadings were still unusually heavy. Lumber and forest products are expected to show the largest decline, or about 22½ per cent.

Loadings of revenue freight on seven western railroads during the first half of this year were the smallest in a number of years.

Indications are that many banks throughout the country are finding the present an advantageous time to purchase securities and invest funds not required for loans. Reporting member banks of the federal reserve system took on an additional $65,000,000 of securities during the week ended July 2, although their investments in government obligations declined $25,000,000. At the same time their loans on securities and other loans declined $45,000,000 and $36,000,000 respectively. Their borrowings at the reserve banks increased $30,000,000.

Hearst Gets Proceeds of Stock Sale

Formal offering to the public of stock in several of his newspaper enterprises by William Randolph Hearst occasioned considerable interest in the Chicago financial district yesterday. Much of the interest lay in details of the financing, as it previously had been made known that Mr. Hearst was combining several of his newspapers under a holding company to be known as Hearst Consolidated Publications, Inc.

The offering of stock to the public and employés consisted of $50,000,000 7 per cent class A stock of $25 par value. It has been previously reported that this stock offering was in the nature of a refinancing plan by which Mr. Hearst would retire bonds and debentures of newspapers and other allied enterprises making up Hearst Consolidated Publications. However, the details of the offering revealed such reports to be erroneous, as proceeds from the sale of the stock will go to Mr. Hearst.

Retains Common Stock.

In addition to some $48,000,000 realized from the sale of the class A stock, if all of it is sold, Mr. Hearst also will retain all of the 2,000,000 shares of no par common stock of Hearst Consolidated Publications. The sale of the class A stock is being handled by the Hearst organization and a banking syndicate, which is acting as sales agents but did not underwrite the issue.

In addition to the $50,000,000 stock now being offered, Hearst Consolidated Publications also has another $50,000,000 authorized. It is planned to use this additional stock later for refinancing the bonds, debentures and mortgages now outstanding, either by selling the stock and redeeming the bonds or by exchanging stock for bonds. These senior obligations totaled $41,462,500 at the end of 1929.

The circular issued by the banking syndicate offering the $50,000,000 of stock of Hearst Consolidated Publications described the payment to Mr. Hearst as follows:

"The proceeds of this issue will be disbursed as part of the purchase price of the properties now owned by this corporation. These properties were purchased from Star Holding corporation [wholly owned by William Randolph Hearst], the consideration being the common stock of this corporation, plus the proceeds of this issue and the present assumption of certain intercompany accounts after terms of existing bond indentures have been complied with."

Assets Placed at $124,488,998.

Plans for the disposal of additional stock and refinancing the senior obligations are described thus:

"Additional $50,000,000 class A stock authorized or the proceeds thereof is reserved for the sole and exclusive purposes of making offers to bond or debenture holders of subsidiaries to exchange class A stock for such bonds or debentures or of redeeming said bonds or debentures at the call price."

Until additional stock is sold and the bonds retired, the present issue of class A stock will rank second. A financial statement issued in connection with the present stock offering gives details of capitalization as of Dec. 31, 1929. Total assets of Hearst Consolidated Publications are given at $124,488,998, which includes $75,186,509 for "press franchises, reference libraries and circulation." This term is similar to what are classed as "intangible assets" in financial statements of industrial corporations. Allowing for outstanding bonds, debentures and mortgages of $41,462,500, the remaining total assets would total $83,026,498. This would be the assets back of the present issue of class A stock, although all but $7,839,989 of these assets are represented by the item of press franchises, reference libraries and circulation.

Included in the total assets are the real estate, leaseholds, plants and machinery and equipment of the various properties, which are valued at $27,646,491.

Dividend Requirements.

The circular states that net earnings last year were $10,054,626 after sinking fund requirements on the bonds, etc. Dividend requirements on the present issue of class A stock would be $3,500,000. After dividends are paid on the class A stock, the common stock is entitled to $1.75 a year, or $3,500,000 on the 2,000,000 shares, all of which are owned by Mr. Hearst. Thereafter, the class A stock is entitled to additional dividends if larger dividends shall be paid on the common stock.

The properties to be combined under Hearst Consolidated Publications are the New York Evening Journal, Chicago Evening American, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, Pitt Building company, Detroit Times, San Francisco Examiner, Oakland Post-Enquirer, San Francisco Call-Bulletin, Los Angeles Examiner, Los Angeles Evening Herald, Seattle Post-Intelligencer, American Weekly, and American Newsprint company.

VALUE OF ILLINOIS EXPORTS FOR 1929 PUT AT $238,762,882

Washington, D. C., July 7.—[Special.]—Although some states showed a decrease in exports to foreign countries during the calendar year 1929 Illinois showed an increase. Indiana and Iowa also increased their exports but Michigan and Wisconsin showed a decrease.

Exports of merchandise from Illinois were valued at $238,762,882 during the calendar year 1929 compared with $206,355,671 in 1928, an increase of $32,407,211. Illinois ranked sixth among the states in value of exports, being preceded only by New York, Texas, California, Michigan and Pennsylvania.

Tractors and parts formed the largest item of Illinois exports followed by lard, corn, electrical machinery, industrial machinery, corn starch and pork products.

Michigan exports were valued at $355,300,020 in 1929 compared with $367,253,146 in 1928.

Wisconsin, which ranked eleventh among the states, exported products valued at $124,977,467 in 1929, compared with $137,861,141 in 1928.

Exports from Indiana were valued at $73,740,468 in 1929, as against $60,961,202 in 1928, an increase of $12,779,266.

Iowa exports were valued at $37,401,376 in 1929, compared with $32,305,837 in 1928, a gain of $5,096,139.

Total exports from the United States were valued at $5,157,083,027 in 1929, compared with $5,043,973,142 in 1928.

WHEAT PRICES TOUCH LOWEST MARK IN 17 YRS.

All Grains Suffer from Liquidation.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Grain prices yesterday were on the down grade and closed around the inside figures and the lowest relative finish of the season. Wheat, under pressure of the new crop, declined to pre-war levels, being the lowest in around seventeen years. Corn and oats for December dropped to the lowest in nine years.

Liquidation and stop order selling were the dominating features. A little support developed at the last, creating a small rally in wheat, but not materially helping other grains. There were net losses on wheat of 2½@2¾c, after a decline of around 3c at the extreme, as compared with Thursday's finish. Kansas City was weak, due to heavy receipts in the southwest and losses were 3@3½c. Liverpool opened higher, but closed ⅛ @⅜d lower.

July wheat declined to 87⅝c; September closed 91⅜@91½c. December at 97@97½c. Corn finished with losses of ⅞@1⅛c, December leading, selling down to 66⅞c. Oats were off ⅞@1⅛c, and rye, 1@1½c.

Foreign Crop News.

What little news developed came largely from abroad. France, Italy, Spain and Portogual reported crop deterioration, but did not materially affect foreign markets or bring increased export buying of North American wheat. Higher temperatures in the American northwest had a strengthening influence on Minneapolis at times, while scattered rains and more favorable reports from Winnipeg acted as a stimulant to local professional selling.

Reports from the southwest of heavy receipts and of the mills and elevators being filled up, combined with disappointing export demand, had a depressing influence. The nine southwestern markets had 5,300 cars, or around 7,500,000 bu of wheat, for the two days, on top of nearly as heavy receipts on Saturday, making close to 10,000 cars in two days, or 550 cars less than last year.

Expectations of an increase in the visible supply was responsible for a good deal of selling but the report was not given out until shortly before the close, showing an increase of 3,478,000 bu, somewhat less than expected, compared with 3,459,000 bu last year, when the total was 14,000,000 bu less than at present.

Pressure on Corn.

Pressure was put on corn by local professionals which carried July down to 74¼c, with the close at 74½c. Sentiment regarding crop prospects is mixed. The visible decrease of 990,000 bu brought the total to 5,916,000 bu, compared with 13,355,000 bu a year ago, which the trade considers bullish.

Renewed liquidation and stop loss selling depressed oat values to new low levels for recept years, with July down to 33¼c; September, 34⅞c, and December, 38¼c, closing at ⅛@¼c above the inside.

July rye touched 48¾c, with the close at 47c, while December, after breaking almost 2c, closed at 50½c.

Public Construction Bill Seen Important to Labor

BY SCRUTATOR.

When the house of representatives on July 1 passed in amended form the bill of Senator Wagner of New York, designed to regulate the construction of public works to the needs of the unemployed in times of business depression, it was a gesture that may be of importance to laboring men in the future.

The bill as originally drawn and passed by the senate in April carried an ambitious program. It authorized the appropriation of necessary sums on public improvements to "prevent unemployment," not to exceed 150 million dollars in any one year. It made provisions for the President to direct the secretaries of war, the treasury and agriculture to accelerate building of public works in times of depression.

Theory Long Existant.

While the house left in the authority to appropriate the sum mentioned, it killed the sections giving the several departments specific recommendations on procedure to stabilize industry and employment by quick starts on work and by having plans already drawn and waiting to be executed. Friends of the original bill claimed that it had been denatured by the amendments and that what the house passed is not of much use. Their hope was that in conference the first draft would be accepted.

The theory of the fund for use in quiet times has existed for centuries. Joseph built up a public reserve in Egypt, in grain, to be dispensed in the lean years. In 1525 an English essayist suggested that governmental agencies find work for the destitute—that able beggars be employed on public business. Some fifty years later there was an act in England providing that work should be made for the poor and wool, flax and iron stores were kept in cities for the unemployed to work on.

In those days it was not quite clear what was charitable relief and what was good business in getting public construction accomplished. To many it is not quite clear yet. As the English towns found it impossible to get their money's worth from workers hired as a matter of charity, so certain cities in the United States and Canada found the same thing in this century. They discovered that a man cutting wood for the city was costly even at low rates of pay.

Not Based on Charity.

Senator Wagner's bill is not based on charity. It establishes a board whose duty it shall be to inform the President when a period of depression or unemployment exists, or is expected to exist, within the next six months and the President is requested to let congress know what supplemental emergency appropriations should be made to relieve or to aid in preventing general unemployment.

Many difficulties in administration can be forseen for the project. It will be hard for the board to define a depression for this purpose and it will be a matter of guesswork if it tries to forecast one. Leaving this aside, it would seem there could be no objection to government departments having plans all drawn and ready, so that public improvements can be started at once, additional to the usual ones, when the need for them is apparent.

MIAMI COPPER CUTS DIVIDENDS TO $1.50 YEARLY

New York, July 7.—Dividend news was a mixture of good and bad yesterday. The recent reduction in copper prices caused still another concern to reduce its payments. The Miami Copper company cut its annual rate from $4 to $1.50 by declaring a quarterly dividend of 37½ cents. But the Corn Products Refining company declared an extra dividend of 50 cents.

A payment of 25½ cents will be made on July 31 to holders of record July 16 of the Tobacco Product corporation dividend certificates series C, it was announced today.

An extra dividend of 5 per cent in addition to the regular semi-annual disbursement of the same amount was announced on the capital stock of the Harriman National Bank and Trust company. Besides this bank stockholders will receive a dividend equal to 25 per cent on the no par value stock of the Harriman Securities corporation, stock of which is entirely held by them.

Lake Superior Shipments of Iron Decline for June

New York, July 7.—(AP)—Shipments of iron ore from mines in the Lake Superior districts during June amounted to 8,650,442 tons, a decrease of more than 1,500,000 tons from the like month last year. Shipments for the first half of the year amounted to 15,737,574 tons, compared with 22,239,938 tons for the corresponding period of 1929.

OFFERINGS FOR SIX MO. PLACED AT $3,492,177,000

New York, July 7.—Public offerings of bonds and stocks in the first six months of the year reached $3,492,177,000, exclusive of domestic and Canadian municipals, according to a compilation completed by Otto P. Schwarzchild, editor of American Underwriting Houses and their issues. This total compares with $3,696,324,000 in the same period in 1929.

J. P. Morgan & Co. headed the list of investment houses appearing as syndicate managers of new issues in the six months just completed. The firm headed syndicates offering issues aggregating $628,144,000, with Harris, Forbes & Co. second with $285,259,000, and Kuhn, Loeb & Co. third with $244,324,000.

From the standpoint of total business participated in, either as syndicate head or participant, the National City company accounted for the largest volume, with $991,254,000. Harris, Forbes & Co. ranked second with $963,034,000 and the Guaranty Company of New York, third, with $870,863,000.

BY FRED HARVEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, July 7.—Most of the activity of today's stock market was on the selling side. The boys got back from their three day vacation with a lot of pessimism aboard and proceeded to knock down their holdings all around the board. The devastation showed up in the final tabulation in the form of a long string of price declines of 2 to 10 points with virtually all the recognized market leaders numbered among the losers. Stocks suffering the most included Air Reduction, Allied Chemical, American Machine, Case Threshing, American Can, Electric Power and Light, Eastman Kodak, Gillette, North American, Penick & Ford, Vanadium, Westinghouse, Worthington Pump, Consolidated Gas, and United States Steel.

Numerous new lows for the year were established.

Blame "Psychology."

There was little in the way of news to justify the selling fever, outside of the June sales reports of a number of chain store systems showing moderate declines. Call money was firmer, the rate which had been renewed at 2 per cent and boosted at noon to 2½, and later to 3 per cent, but whether this had any effect on trading is doubtful. Brokers were rather inclined to attribute the liquidation to "mass psychology."

As they reasoned it out the market probably afforded the chief topic of conversation in the various nearby resorts over the recess period with predictions of a prolonged business depression finding easy circulation with the result that many came back determined to get rid of their "doubtful" stocks and await a more reassuring trend of events. Renewed weakness in the wheat and cotton markets also probably had some effect.

Bear forces were alive to the situation, evidently, and launched a series of attacks at pivotal shares and vulnerable specialties at intervals during the course of the day with telling effect. Some of the "targets" of the drive were able to make slight recoveries from time to time, but there was

"Some men are like magpies—they pay more attention to saving than to the things saved."

IN ALL the multiplicity of available securities, the man with money to invest is faced with a real problem in the selection of those bonds or stocks which best meet his individual needs.

To such a man, ardent sponsorship of a favorite security is less helpful than dispassionate analysis of any and all securities. Nichols, Terry & Dickinson believe that their greatest service to investors lies in their ability to assemble, collate, and explain all pertinent facts regarding the securities which they offer to the investing public. With such facts, intelligent investors can concentrate on selecting the things to be saved rather than on the precarious business of merely saving.

SHEEP—Western range lambs yesterday	$ 8.00@11.25
One month ago	11.00@12.50

Top yesterday, $11.25; average, $10.35.
Estimated receipts at Chicago today, 6,000 cattle, 26,000 hogs, and 8,000 sheep.

Top hogs soared to $10.00 on yesterday's bulge of the market, the highest point in nearly three weeks. Light and underweights showed the biggest gains, while medium and weighty hogs weakened after a stronger opening. Some late sales were slightly below last Thursday's level.

The price range reached the widest point since March, the top and general average being 75c apart. The general average at $9.25 shows a 15c advance and is 55c above the low day two weeks ago.

Most of the 6,000 left at the close consisted of medium and weighty stock. Some orders for 170 lb averages and lighter weights went over unfilled. Five western markets expect 65,000 today, against 59,800 the previous Tuesday.

Hog Futures Are Higher.

Advances of 25@30c were scored in the market for hog futures yesterday, September and July contracts showing most gain. September lightweights sold at $9.70, against $9.40 for similar contracts at the close last Thursday.

Mediums for next September delivery opened at $9.60, but closed at $9.75, comparing with $9.50 last Thursday. July heavy grades advanced 25c at $9.65. The price range is holding surprisingly narrow, contracts for 160@310 lb averages selling within a 15c "spread," the hogs to be delivered next September when range of prices on the cash trade is usually nearly the widest of the year.

One of the largest cattle supplies of the year, 24,000 head, forced prices down 25@50c on yesterday's session. Some classes dropped to new low levels for the year, considering the quality. The yards were full of well finished light and medium weight steers and the supply of prime weighty beeves was also larger than usual.

Buyers were well in control of prices on all but a few loads of steers of outstanding quality.

Prime 1,431 lb averages topped the market at $12.25. A string of 75 yearlings averaging 1,050 lbs reached $11.75. In the heavy class 1,730 lb averages sold at $11.00 and 1,561 lb averages at $11.65.

Cows and heifers were comparatively scarce, but met narrow demand at weak to 25c lower prices. Calves sold mostly steady. Stockers and feeders were weak to 25c lower.

Lambs Hold Firm.

Yesterday's meager supply of lambs cleared quickly at steady to strong prices, the supply being too small to put the trade to a fair test. Most natives were sorted around $10.75, although a few "hand picked" kinds reached $11.00.

"Tops" from 13 carloads of Idaho range lambs sold at $11.15, with one deck to a city butcher at $11.25. Aged sheep sold steady to strong, a band of 120 lb Idaho range ewes bringing $3.75. Yearlings were scare and firm.

Receipts at Chicago for today are estimated at 6,000 cattle, 26,000 hogs, and 8,000 sheep, against 5,254 cattle, 25,516 hogs, and 9,556 sheep the previous Tuesday, and 7,189 cattle, 25,321 hogs, and 17,962 sheep a year ago.

SUGAR.

NEW YORK, July 7.—(AP)—SUGAR—Raw, was quiet and unchanged today. No sales were reported, although sugars from store were available at last paid prices or 3.30c, duty paid, with buyers showing no interest. The inactivity in the spot market and the poor showing of the London cables over our holidays, seemed to check operations in raw futures and in absence of any important demand prices were a little easier under moderate liquidation and some selling by commission houses. Transactions aggregated only 9,050 tons, prices follow:

	Open.	High.	Low.	Close.	close.

1931	1.64	1.64	1.63	1.63	1.65

There was a better withdrawal demand following the three day holiday, but no new business in refined sugar, with prices unchanged at 4.70c for fine granulated.

COTTONSEED OIL.

NEW YORK, July 7.—(AP)—COTTONSEED OIL—Was fairly active today with an easier tone under selling by cotton and wire houses, promoted by the weakness in stocks, cotton, grains, and lard. Buying was confined largely to scale down covering. The old contracts closed from 3 to 17 points lower and the new from 10 to 20 points net lower. Sales were 7,350 brls, including 6,900 brls of old and 450 brls of new. Prime crude, nominal; prime summer yellow old, spot, 7.00c; July, 7.05c; September, 8.33c; December, 8.23c; new—December, 7.75c; January, 7.90c; March, 8.00c.

PRODUCE MARKETS

Business in butter and eggs was fair, with no change in the spot butter market, while eggs were ½c higher. An advance was made in live hens and broilers, while prices on other poultry were unchanged. Receipts light. Potatoes were in large supply, 234 cars arriving, against 135 cars last year. The market was weaker and lower.

A word to the man with $500 to invest

HOW would you like to sit down across the table from a multi-millionaire and get his honest, candid advice on how to invest your $500 or $5000... his advice on protecting your future ... his advice on securing financial independence?

This is what he would tell you:

Establish a backlog of good, safe bonds. Then buy seasoned dividend-paying stocks of the highest grade in established companies. Good bonds are safe and they bring in a regular income. A well diversified list of common stocks will enable you to share in the prosperity which everyone feels ljes ahead.

Diversify your investment. Own a number of different kinds of bonds, and stocks in 25 or 30 different companies.

Own your securities outright. Let the market go where it will. Hang on and wait.

But, you will say, that is advice for millionaires only. Even one share of stock in 30 great corporations costs a large amount of money.

Today, however, almost anyone can follow this advice. For good, safe bonds can be bought in denominations as low as $500 to yield as high as 6¼%.

And Super-Corporations of America Trust Shares, representing an interest in each of 30 of the most successful corporations whose stocks are listed on the New York Stock Exchange, can be purchased for as little as $100.

In addition to ready marketability, safety, wide diversification and convenience, the trust shares offer attractive possibilities of profit through appreciation in market value over a period of years. They make this millionaire's method of investing available to everyone

News and Gossip of Stock Marts

Gillette Disappointment.

The market action of Gillette since news of the company's intention to bring out new models of razors and blades, announced last year, has been one of the keen disappointments of the street. The price has gone down rather steadily, and the low touched yesterday was the poorest price paid since 1925. Last year Gillette sold as high as $143 a share.

Oil Stocks' Conduct.

Oil stocks have not done as well as predicted by many market analysts, but in the recent trading have appeared able to absorb selling with smaller declines than comparable issues of other groups. It is quite possible that the oils as a whole will end their readjustment stage sooner than the remainder of the market.

National Dairy Products.

One of the companies which has done well thus far in 1930 is National Dairy Products. Profits for the March quarter of this year were about $1,000,000 in excess of those of the corresponding quarter of 1929, in spite of the decline in commodities and poor business conditions.

American Superpower.

American Superpower, which already has extensive interests in a number of leading public utility corporations in this country, has recently increased its equity in companies wherein it has made substantial investments in the last few years. Principal holdings of Superpower, according to its last available balance sheet, include Electric Power and Light, United Gas Improvement, Consolidated Gas, United corporation, Commonwealth and Southern, Niagara Hudson Power, American and Foreign Power, and a number of other important units in the utility industry.

CORPORATION EARNINGS

GREAT NORTHERN IRON ORE PROPERTIES.

Reports for the year ended Dec. 31 last earnings of $3.10 on each of $1,500,000 certificates of beneficial interest, compared with $2.42 a certificate in 1928.

C. A. CRED.

Reports for the fiscal year ended April 30 net income of $156,234, compared with $103,157 for the previous year.

ATLANTIC SECURITIES.

SCOTT PAPER.

Net volume of business for June totaled $1,005,125.77, compared with $754,542.50 in June 1929, and represents an increase over the same month a year ago of 32.3 per cent. Net sales for the first six months totaled $4,421,574.54, as against $3,912,-284.21 for the first half of 1929.

no concerted effort to rally the list at any time. Stocks able to move against the trend with any show of consistency were few and far between.

Weakness in Steel.

Though there are times when other leaders temporarily wrest from Steel common the position of market leadership, the action of that stock and the general market today recalled intervals not long back when the speculative fraternity held rather rigidly to the axiom that "as Steel goes, so goes the market." It was the weakness in Steel today that tended to drag the general list downward.

Steel apparently was in the process of discounting another poor monthly report on unfilled orders when the figures appeared at noon on Thursday. Estimates today placed the probable decreases in the corporation's back log of business as high as 200,000 tons. This would compare with a drop of 294,993 tons in May and 45,257 tons in June last year.

The old leader, which closed last week at 157¾, dipped today to 153¾, but came back and sold for the greater part of the session around 155. The closing sale was at 154½, a net loss of 3⅝ points on the day.

Resists Pressure.

General Electric was active throughout the session and sold lower, but seemed to resist pressure better than most of the leading issues. General Motors also showed a disposition to dig in. New York Central opened higher, but later sold off. It was down 2½ points at the close.

Among the better known issues to record new lows for the year were Safeway Stores, Gillette, Columbia Graphophone, Du Pont, Simmons, American Locomotive, and Atlantic Coast Line.

Trading was at a snail's pace, the total amounting to only 1,480,640 shares, one of the smallest for a full trading day in years.

Kroger Grocery and Baking.

What seems to be wrong with Kroger Grocery and Baking company, bought at 52 last October? Has steadily declined. Shall I buy more or sell?—B. E. J.

Kroger Grocery and Baking company's revised earnings for 1929 show a reduction in profits of $458,692 and bring per share results down to $3.38. This compares with $3.64 per share originally reported for 1929 and $3.46 per share for 1928.

With the recent resignation of W. H. Albers as chairman of the board and the election of Charles Dupuis and G. D. Crabbs to the directorate and C. O. Sherrill as vice president, new interests have been added to the management.

Mr. Albers stated in April that the reduction in earnings, as shown, of $456,692 in 1929 and in the earned surplus as of Jan. 1, 1929, were mainly because of certain income amounting to $997,219 being credited to operating earnings when they should have been added to capital. The paid in capital of the published statement of Dec. 31, 1929, was $382,475, to which should be added the $997,219, making the corrected paid in capital $1,379,694.

The total paid in capital and earning surplus of the company at the end of 1929 was $50,549,295, compared to $50,768,769 reported in the annual statement.

Referring to his resignation as chairman of the board, Mr. Albers said his act resulted from his desire to "further the best interests of the company."

Although sales reached a new high level of $286,611,000, an increase of 28 per cent over 1928 sales, the ratio of net income to sales showed a decline from 2.5 per cent for 1928 to 2.06 per cent for 1929.

At the close of 1929 current assets were more than three times current liabilities, leaving a net working capital of $21,844,627.

For the 21 weeks and 4 days ended May 31, 1930, sales were $112,134,701, against $118,799,377 in the like period of 1929. On May 31, 1930, there were 5,279 stores in operation, against 5,368 a year before.

On May 1, 1930, the management stated that the smaller earnings reported for the first quarter of 1930 were due to the decline in commodity prices and unemployment conditions in the company's territory.

Dividends on the common are at the rate of $1 in cash plus 5 per cent in stock per annum.

The common stock deserves a fairly good rating.

Sears-Roebuck.

Could you please tell me from your files the quotation on the common stock of Sears, Roebuck & Co. as of the date of April 7, 1928?—B. W. W.

In the week ended April 7, 1928, Sears, Roebuck & Co. common stock reached a high of 124¼, a low of 99¾, and closed at 101⅝.

The New York Stock exchange was closed for a holiday on April 7, 1928.

RAW SILK FUTURES.

Transactions in raw silk futures on the National Raw Silk exchange during the first six months of 1930 totaled 121,970 bales, as compared with 75,770 bales for the same period of 1929. The volume for the month just ended was the largest since November, 1929.

CHICAGO MERCANTILE EXCH.

Bullish activity sent butter future prices higher on the Chicago Mercantile exchange yesterday, the November delivery closing at ¾c at 37½c. July shared the advance, closing at 33¾c, up ¼c. Egg trading was narrow, the close of the November delivery being off ¼c at 26¾c.

There was little activity in the cheese contract which opened on the exchange today. The bids and offers were too far apart for sales to be made.

DRY GOODS.

NEW YORK, July 7.—(AP)—Cotton goods opened steadily today. Sales of print cloths and sheetings over the week-end were fairly substantial. Raw silk declined further here and in Japan. Silk goods opened steady with the demand for new fall lines. Lines of tropical suiting for 1931 were opened by one Philadelphia producer at a reduction averaging 20c a yard from a year ago.

CASH·GRAIN N'EWS

Foreigners were moderate takers of North American wheat over the three day holiday and sales were disappointingly small; a little Manitobas and a small amount of hard winters being worked, but the total was rather insignificant up to the close of the session.

The feature of yesterday's cash wheat market was the sales of a dozen cars of new crop, originating in Illinois, Indiana, Missouri, and Iowa. Most of the run went on old contracts, but there was some on consignment. Bookings of new crop to arrive aggregated 100,000 bu. The trading basis was slightly lower, which along with the downturn in the basic future, brought about price levels from 1c to 2c lower than during the previous session. No. 2 red was quoted at 1@1¼c over July; No. 2 hard at July to ¼c over and No. 2 northern spring at ⅛@1¼c under. Shipping demand was light, with only 8,000 bu worked.

In corn, an easier trading basis, and the downturn in the July contributed to an easier situation in the spot market and prices were ⅛@1c lower. Shippers not particularly interested in offerings. To arrive bookings were heavier with industries booking the bulk of the 42,000 bu, which were taken during the session. The trading basis ran from unchanged to ⅛c lower, with No. 2 mixed quoted at 1@1¼c over July; yellow at 1@1¼c over, and white at 5@5½c over.

LARD AVERAGES LOWER

Higher prices for hogs failed to have any supporting effect on values of lard futures yesterday as trading was light with packers on both sides of the market. The close was at losses of 2½@7½c. July bellies were unchanged, and September nominally 15c higher. Liverpool lard was 3@6d lower and American hams 3s higher. Export clearances of lard from seaboard for the week were 9,779,000 lbs against 10,419,000 lbs last year. Of bacon there were 5,103,000 lbs against 5,432,000 lbs last year.

Lard stocks at leading western packing points at the end of June were 85,209,961 lbs instead of 35,209,961 lbs as recently printed. Hog supplies were larger than a week ago, but smaller than last year, and while prices were 10@25c higher early the market closed easy except on the best grades. Prices follow:

EQUAL TO 6 TIMES
our output of Electric Energy!

FEW, if any, industries have enjoyed the rapidity of development along sound business lines that the natural gas industry has experienced within recent years. The natural gas output of the United States in 1929 was about 2½ times that of 1922. It was equivalent to 527 billion kilowatt hours of electricity as usable energy, or almost six times the production of electric current in this country in the same year. Except for the electric light and power industry, the rate of growth, measured by both consumption and capital invested, has been practically without precedent.

The enlarged Appalachian Group of eight natural gas companies is fortunate in the location of its properties in the midst of both supply and demand, making distribution most economical. These companies have gas leases or certain gas rights in more than 600,000 acres in Ohio, Kentucky, West Virginia and Texas, and favorable long term contracts for the purchase of gas in the vast fields of Louisiana and Oklahoma. Existing pipe-lines and those under construction or projected (including distributing and gathering lines) total 843 miles, making adequate provision for demand from present and future markets. Through the pipe-lines of important public utility and industrial customers of the Appalachian companies, markets are also being extended.

Our publication "Appalachiana" contains timely information on the natural gas industry and the securities of this system. Your name will be placed on the regular mailing list upon request.

The Nine Hundred Block
BY KATHARINE HAVILAND TAYLOR

SYNOPSIS.

In the nine hundred block, with its sordid dwellings, moved gentle, lovely Theresa Ames and her divorced and remarried mother, Mrs. Colt, under the watchful eye of Mrs. Baum, neighborhood gossip. Theresa makes friends with Katie Warner, who lives upstairs.

INSTALLMENT II.

LIFE'S TAPESTRY.

For three days it had rained intermittently. Yellow leaves were pasted to the walks; tree boles had turned black, and housewives—of the nine-hundred block—scuttled to the butcher's wagon with aprons over heads to do their buying quickly instead of lingering for the latest news.

Behind her window Mrs. Baum saw "the Ames girl" going by. "Now where's she going?" she murmured. Then B. Jones crossed the street. Mrs. Baum hurried to her doorway to peer out and she was rewarded. The Ames girl asked something of B. Jones, who, hat off, in the drizzle, took a great deal of time about answering her, after which they went on together. "Her mother's daughter!" Mrs. Baum thought as her lips tightened upon an invisible drawing string. At that same moment Theresa said shyly, "I thought you lived in this neighborhood when we met so often at the Venetian restaurant."

B. Jones responded slowly and after a pause that was one of his characteristics. "I am not always sure about living in the neighborhood," he said, "although it may seem so." She laughed. He thought, "You are a pretty girl!" He said, "We certainly have had enough rain!"

"Haven't we?" she agreed, with the animation which grows of a little strain. "Pretty voice, too," he decided. She had asked the way to King street and how far it was to the Herald office. B. Jones had responded: "I am going there. What do you want at the office?" he added, "perhaps I can help you."

"I want a little printing job," she answered. "I'm going to do typewriting at home. I thought a little card would help—saying I could do it at home—you know?"

"Um——" B. Jones agreed.

"I—I don't want to pay very much," she faltered next, "I'm just starting, you see, and well—, I don't feel as if I ought to pay so very much!"

"Of course not," B. Jones agreed.

"I've always worked before in an office," she went on, "and sometimes there were things about that which weren't entirely pleasant——"

"I believe that," he conceded inside as he looked down and at a piquant

In the hall they looked for letters. He had two.

and clear-cut profile, fair skin, heavy dark lashes, and a fluff of curling yellow hair that escaped the small tan hat.

"And I thought," he heard next, "that this—might work out."

She wasn't very certain about it, he saw, and the uncertainty filled her with that which approached panic. He wondered how old she was, to decide, "about nineteen or twenty——"

"I'll have some work for you, if you'll take it," he stated, who could type in his sleep or—standing on his head. A pleasant warmth filled him as he saw her brighten.

"And if you want me to and—will let me—I'll help you get out your mailing list," he went on. "You'd probably waste a lot of stamps without a little direction. I take it—you're a newcomer——"

"In—a way," she agreed. She flushed. "I was born here," she added, clearly, a bit over-loudly, and her head went up, "but my mother left town when I was a baby."

"Ames——" B. Jones thought. Then he remembered Elsie Ames' running off with the teacher of English at the academy . . . a man named Colt, as he recalled. She had taken the baby. . . . Every body had known that Arnold Ames at that time paid violent attention to a woman who had come to the town to put on a benefit show . . . and rumor said Arnold had made no fight to keep the child, fearing dispute might liberate too much better left unsaid. Then the divorce had come and gossip whispered that she had married "that Colt man." For three years Arnold stayed single. Then he married one of "the Smith girls." . . . "A sensible marriage," every one had decided. But the son by Arnold Ames' marriage to an autumn blossom could not be taught to read or write. They had had him everywhere for "treatment" and he remained the same blank faced boy whose mouth would drop open to stay open if he were spoken to.

And by him—B. Jones again looked down—Arnold Ames' daughter!

This—one of the rough spots in the tapestry woven by shuttles made of human things—a tapestry called life.

"I'll do anything I can to help you start," said B. Jones gently. "I like energy. I have a great deal of admiration for it. Once when I was young—I had a little—myself."

Going home Theresa met Mr. Deane in the Lambert drug store where he was drinking a cocoa cola. He rose from a stool before the new fountain as she nodded to him. Then—somewhat uncertainly he again settled.

Mrs. Lambert, who had been sitting behind the toilet goods counter reading "The Strange Case of Miss Annie Spragg," laid her book on the box of cold creams which she should have unpacked, to come forward.

"A pint of vanilla ice cream, if you please," said Theresa in her shy way that held appeal. She stared fixedly then at a case of red rubber hot water bottles. She did hope Mr. Deane wouldn't think he had to ask her to have anything to drink because Katie had said that he wasn't "getting on so good——" Perhaps he would even think she had seen him inside and had come in for that. She flushed darkly and twirled her worn purse in her nervous fingers, jiggled it in a palm and it went on the floor to open and to disgorge its contents: two nickels, two quarters, a dime, three pennies, a small elephant crudely molded in tin, a vanity case, a red eraser, and a hairpin.

"O, mercy!" she murmured, flushing again and yet more thoroughly.

Mr. Deane salvaged the loot.

"Is that everything?" he asked and with such concern that she laughed suddenly, to learn that laughter can dissolve confusion. He was—a very tall, dark, ruggedly handsome young man—smiling down at her. He was entirely certain that he had never heard laughter that was more lovely and that she was "one wow" when she flushed and—anyway. "Have a drink?" he asked, still staring down at her and quite fixedly.

"No, thank you——" (she was a trifle confused again.) "I'm going home to my supper now, but—you're very kind——"

"O, quite the contrary. May I carry home the finish for your din—supper?"

"Why, if you like, but it isn't heavy——"

Mrs. Lambert had to call after him, apologetically, to say, "I'm sorry, but you haven't paid for your cocoa cola." And it made Theresa feel much better to see his lean cheeks grow warm.

"Getting settled?" he asked as they stepped into the open.

"Yes. Of course there are some things left to do."

"I suppose so. It takes a good while to settle, I imagine."

"I believe that old lady's always at her window," he ventured as they passed Mrs. Baum's house.

"It does seem so," Theresa agreed. She wondered what to say next. The kind of woman she wished to be had "poise" and this woman spoke easily when she liked and was silent—the harder task—as easily. He broke the silence.

"I got a job today," he announced.

"O, I'm so glad!" she said warmly. Again he was looking down at her.

"It isn't much," he said, "but it's a start."

"It may be a great deal, you simply can't tell," she contested, feeling wise and sounding young.

"Well, of course that's true. It's at the carriage works. They're putting me in the painting department."

"I think that's fine, really I do! Is it interesting?"

"Well, I don't know, you see I haven't done it—yet."

"O, I see. Well, I hope it'll be interesting. I wish you everything good, Mr. Deane," she ended.

"I—I appreciate that," he said.

In the hall they looked for letters. He had two. Theresa knew there would be none for her, so she looked a little harder. She didn't want him to know that she almost never had any letters. In the upper hall and before the Colt-Ames door they paused to transfer the pint of cream and for another word.

Good Morning!

"Back Pay" has been screenized from a story by Fannie Hurst. I suppose it was a good story—originally—that being the sort Miss Hurst usually writes. Corinne Griffith in the leading rôle is beautiful as a dream. Montagu Love as a sugar daddy is a human and convincing person. Some minor rôles are capably played and photography and sound stand up all right. BUT—the beautiful Corinne moves through the action wearing just one pair of expressions—the one with the smile and the one without it—and talking like an automaton. Grant Withers, fearfully made up as a blonde—because the story calls for a pure youth with yellow hair and blue, blue eyes, looks like a queer old white headed child. He is sweetly naive throughout and if you like your he-men thus—why, there's Grant for you. One WOULD think, though, that a blonde man might have been procured to play the part.

The story is about a village maiden who yearns for sables. She goes to the big city and gets them without benefit of clergy. Almost immediately she gets them, being picked up practically at once by a millionaire who from then on lives only to gratify her slightest whim. He even says, "All right, Hester," when Conscience knocks at the door of her heart and bids her wed the blonde with the blue, blue eyes who has come to New York to die, having been gassed in the war. He had been her village sweetheart, you see—the only man she had ever really loved. He is blind when he returns from France and so can't see the palatial apartment to which his weeping bride takes him.

He leaves for the hereafter, never having learned the truth about Hester, who renounces Mr. Wheeler as the picture ends. Knowing Hester, you feel you would have seen more of Mr. Wheeler had the picture lasted longer, for Hester has, to quote her, "a crêpe de chine soul." The first blast of the alarm clock will, you feel, send her scuttling back to her big, kind sugar daddy.

Summed up, this film is just about as starchless and inert as the heroine's "crêpe de chine soul." It is for aduits only—which might be regarded in the nature of a break for the children.

See you soon.

English Church Bishops Meet in Conference; First Discuss Doctrines

[Copyright: 1930: By the New York Times.]

LONDON, July 7.—On the centuries-old lawn of Lambeth palace 310 bishops from all over the world stood in the bright sunshine this morning awaiting a signal from the archbishop of Canterbury, Dr. Lang, to start their conference.

All through this month, from 11 o'clock in the morning to 5 in the evening, they will debate problems besetting the church in the old library of Lambeth palace. Each has his own new chair with his name carved on the back, and the bishops will purchase these as mementoes when the conference ends. But until the last item on the long agenda, including such vital subjects as marriage, sex, race, education, and war has been reached, the outside world will know little of the deliberations.

According to an official statement tonight, the archbishop of Canterbury opened its proceedings with an address of welcome and the bishops proceeded to discuss the first subject—the Christian doctrine of God.

Yvonne Gall Makes the Charms of Thais Real at Ravinia

BY EDWARD MOORE.

"Thais," Massenet's opera of high life in Alexandria and regeneration in the Theban desert, went on at Ravinia last night for the first time of the summer. It used to be an unfailing operatic best seller; it is still as much care and pains as though it was a complete novelty.

It is to the presence of Yvonne Gall in the opera company that the performance is due, a soprano of such charms of voice and face that she would have been an extra inspiration to Massenet, who wrote the music, and to Anatole France, who wove the story on which the opera is based. Mme. Gall is good looking and feminine rather than overwhelming in the rôle of Thais. At the same time she knows how to exercise many witcheries of enticement, and her lovely voice is sheer delight in this by no means easy music.

To her came Giuseppe Danise as Athanael, bearing promises of redemption and eternal happiness. Of all the baritones who have sung that part, Mr. Danise shows the signs of having given it the most careful study, with the result that no one equals him in the intensity of his representation.

Both in voice and manner it was a fiery performance. So Thais laid down the gauds and vanities of wordly life, abandoned the ornately decorated Niclas, played by Giuseppe Cavadore, and fared forth into the desert. And if the remainder of the opera seemed not quite as exciting as the first part, it probably is because on the stage unregenerate life has more of an appeal than saintliness

But there were several rewards for the audience even later. Among them was the solo violin performance of the famous "Meditation" by Concert Master John Weicher, another piece formerly classifying as a best seller, and played again this time with as much fervor and beauty as though it were entirely new.

David Wolf of Washington, D. C., won first prize. Ralph Collins of Edmonton, Alberta, Canada, was awarded second place, and Irving Schwartz of Milwaukee carried off third honors.

A report on boys' work was made by Daniel W. Hayes, chairman of the International Boys' Work council.

The Inquiring Reporter

Every Day He Asks Five Persons, Picked at Random, a Question.

The Question.

What effect do you think the elimination of prohibition would have on the gang wars and killings?

The Answers.

A. M. Nelson, 5860 Kenmore avenue, student.—I believe doing away with prohibition would remove the main source of revenue of the gangs, thus automatically reduce killings. In fact I think about 60 per cent of gang killings follow efforts to extort money that, in some way, is accumulated from the sale of liquor.

Archie H. Cohen, 11 South La Salle street, master in chancery.—Respect for government once more would be apparent. Racketeering of all kinds must be eliminated. Abolishing prohibition would be a short cut to that end.

Col. Nate De Lue, 188 West Randolph street, business manager. — I believe prohibition has led to a breakdown in government. That is evidenced by the great increase in gang killings. If prohibition is not replaced by some other system military force may be called upon to subdue the gunmen.

Dr. Samuel Sher, 2830 Cambridge avenue, physician. — Elimination of prohibition would solve the gangs problem by cutting out their profits, for which they now fight to the death. Prohibition has forced a murder régime upon us. While we have prohibition we will continue to have powerful gangs.

J. R. Carlson, 1424 West Erie street, ice cream salesman. — No sensible person can believe otherwise than that prohibition has caused the growth of the gangs, with subsequent murders. Of course there will always be gangs, with something to fight over, but doing away with prohibition would cut their power in half.

Edison's Wife Gives Home Talk on Radio

New York, July 7.—[Special.]—Mrs. Thomas A. Edison, wife of the inventor and daughter of Lewis Miller, co-founder of Chautauqua institution, in a radio talk this afternoon from station WJZ urged women to return to home making and to pay less heed to the allurements of professional and business careers of their own.

Because the art of home making has declined so much in recent years, due to the trend originating in woman suffrage and the world war, according to Mrs. Edison, the country is facing a situation of widespread restlessness. Men no longer find satisfaction in their homes, she explained.

"Unless the women of America make a decided effort to return to the business of home making the most vital institution of the country is threatened," she said. "America is essentially a nation of homes. The woman who doesn't want to make a home is undermining our nation."

There is an aversion to housekeeping, Mrs. Edison admitted, on the ground that there was too much drudgery connected with it, but "every business and everything in life is 98 per cent drudgery," she said.

As a matter of fact, she said, a good homemaker must have executive ability and be a good purchasing agent, an economist, something of a chemist to supervise the diet of her family, and a gracious hostess. She also should be versed in music, art, and literature to have a proper background and to be able to entertain herself, her husband, and her friends, according to Mrs. Edison.

A college education is invaluable for such a homemaker, she continued, adding that if the family finances make it necessary to choose between sending a boy or a girl to college, the girl should be the one elected. The boy can get his broadening contacts in business and elsewhere, Mrs. Edison declared.

The college woman, however, must realize that homemaking is her highest goal and that it is a full time proposition, which is as much of a business as running an office, she said. Her opinion was that in flocking into outside business women had lost their prestige in their own field without making up for it by accomplishment on a par with that of men in business.

WORLD POLITICS NOW SHAPES NEW WARS, PASTOR DECLARES

BOURNEMOUTH, England, July 7.—(AP)—A gloomy picture of the world situation of the Christian churches today was painted by Dr. Fred D. Smith of New York at the meeting of the International Congregational council.

Dr. Smith, moderator of the National Council of Congregational Churches of the United States, said the "political situation in the world is one of turmoil, while the economic situation is even more chaotic.

"The very philosophy," he said, "whereby the world was organized into nations is menaced." Dr. Smith added that the extreme nationalism which is being propagated in various countries, if carried to its ultimate conclusion, meant war.

Dr. Smith said he was not "faint-hearted," but that he "almost lost courage" when he observed the inefficiency of Christian churches in this eventful period of history.

The clergyman declared himself convinced that, if humanity really believed that the Christian churches meant business and would refuse to approve war, there would be an enormous rally to the standard of the churches.

Race prejudice in America was discussed earlier in the day during talks on "The Church and World Paganism." Dr. George L. Cady of New York was the principal speaker.

"On the one hand we profess brotherhood, and on the other we deny it," he challenged. "People will not believe in the Christianity which the church in practice repudiates."

British Prince Hopes for Wealthy Backer for Students' Homes

New York, July 7.—(AP)—Hope that a "British prototype of Mr. Rockefeller" could be found to assist the English National Union of Students financially was expressed today by the Prince of Wales in a radio speech at the Savoy hotel, in London. The address was received here and re-broadcast on nationwide hookups.

Speaking at a dinner given by the students' union, the prince said he personally was interested in the success of the organization's efforts to raise funds for a headquarters building and a hospitality fund.

"The National Union of Students provides an introductory channel which any student from abroad may easily use. Its office is a center attracting students from all parts of the world. No student, be he British or foreign, need feel friendless in London as long as that office exists," the prince said.

"I am thinking of those magnificent international houses for students erected in New York and elsewhere by the munificence of one to whom we in this country have great reason to be thankful. What a fine thing it would be if we could have in London a great house or residence for visiting students under the auspices of the representative society of our own students. It is possible the British prototype of Mr. Rockefeller is among us tonight. If he is not, I hope it will not be long before the National Union finds him."

The speech was received by the Columbia broadcasting sytem and the National Broadcasting company and was broadcast across the United States.

Why Dismiss Women over 40? Expert's Query

Survey to Determine Employers' Reasons.

BY KATHLEEN McLAUGHLIN.

Something is going to be done, by those whom it concerns most, to raise the "employment expectancy" of the woman over forty. One hundred leading business women of this country, in conclave yesterday at the Congress hotel, so voted on behalf of the other 55,000 members of the National Federation of Business and Professional Women. The 100 members of the national board of the organization have as their work the promotion of the welfare of the others.

Basis for future action will be evolved by Dr. Lillian Gilbreth, industrial engineer. She brought the problem before the board, obtaining consent to undertake a survey. She will seek causes of the frequently curtailed business careers of older women, with the economic waste resulting therefrom.

Even the youngest business women are affected by this tendency to dismiss the experienced worker in favor of youthful, inexperienced employés, Dr. Gilbreth declared. She pointed out that the trend is perceptibly toward a shorter working life for every woman.

The plan of procedure contemplates a survey, probably in conjunction with some university or foundation, as to the present and the possible business opportunities for older women; what constitutes sound training for the business women, what they require in technical and personal qualifications.

A definite program will follow completion of the survey, looking toward the extension of the older business woman's term of employment, much as the statistics compiled by life insurance companies have given rise to medical advice and increased life expectancy for the average man or woman.

The preservation of the best possible physical health of the employed woman was stressed by Dr. Olga Stasny of Omaha, national chairman of the health committee. For the last few years the federation has conducted a contest among its member clubs to determine which has the largest percentage of members "on the job" in any one month without absence on account of illness. Credit is given both for regular attendance and for the number of positive physical examinations passed by the members.

Miss Marion McClench of Ann Arbor, Michigan, national president, urged in her annual report that the membership insist on "equal pay and equal opportunity in business, in politics, in service."

Miss McClench, an air enthusiast, has traveled 1,000 miles by airplane. By other means she has gone 31,000 miles on federation business during the last twelve months.

Miss Lena M. Phillips, New York attorney and past president of the federation, who is attending the sessions, will lead one of three European tours to be made this summer by members of the organization. Her group will sail July 16 from New York, after being fêted with other national officers at the New York State federation's homemaking center there. In Russia, one of the countries to be visited, they will meet the widow of Lenin and other prominent women.

To discover to what extent the present wave of unemployment may have affected the economic situation of tubercular individuals, under the supervision of the Municipal Tuberculosis sanitarium, Dr. Benjamin Goldberg, medical director, has started a survey involving 19,000 adult patients with whom the institution maintains contact. The project has as its objective the maintaining of the present decreasing mortality rates from that disease in Chicago.

Lack of proper food, poor housing, and physical and mental fatigue create a lowered bodily resistance, Dr. Goldberg emphasizes.

"The world war taught public health workers a valuable lesson," Dr. Goldberg stated yesterday. "During the height of the war, when the central powers were unable to furnish their people with adequate rations, the death rate from tuberculosis rose. In Berlin, Warsaw, Vienna, and other cities, the mortality rate tripled and even quadrupled."

Are the Sod Widows Really So Superior to Our Divorcees?

BY DORIS BLAKE.

Honora M. resents the implication that widow [sod] are God's gift to man in their [the widow's] second matrimonial ventures.

She quotes the life history of a widow who buried a husband and was inwardly delighted that the divorce court was cheated of an applicant which she would have become shortly did fate not settle her martial difficulty otherwise. She was not a good wife nor a kind one. Nevertheless, with the injustice often meted out to the undeserving, she was left with a huge insurance fund and a considerable amount of property. Because she was a widow, there was no question about her eligibility as a desirable mate for some other man after the first one's death.

On the other hand, there was a close friend of Honora's, a woman of most excellent character, a perfect housekeeper, marvelous cook and a woman who for ten years at least proved that she could adjust her temperament to make life agreeable for a man. But the fates decreed that this one should be deserted for a ruthless young beauty. This woman, Honora observes, is not lauded as an "eligible" for some other man.

"So I ask," Honore protests, what about this other widow [and there are many of them] who is just as capable of making a man happy but under the shadow of the title of 'Divorcee' she does not get the break that the other woman gets. She may be, and often is, of finer texture and morals than the widow by death. It's no particular trick for a widow endowed with plenty and with a home already established to attract men. She can maintain a background that creates a certain halo for her. And her man is gone where he cannot protest at the wife and sweetheart reputation that is a widow's by popular right.

"A woman divorced may have more reasons for appreciation of a second mate. She is often forced to enter business and on a remuneration that does not permit her any sort of background. But she has a deep appreciation of home life and a good man. But where is the man who wants to marry her?"

Personally, it comes as a surprise that divorcees are rejected candidates. They do seem to remarry with ease and rapidity from my own observation. But aren't comparisons between widow chances and those widowed by court rather foolish? Isn't it the woman's own good salesmanship in either case that is what actually puts her over?

DORIS BLAKE ANSWERS

No Apologies Necessary.

"Dear Miss Blake: I have been going with a girl for eight months. Now I find she has had dates with other fellows. She says she is sorry. Should I trust her again? FRANK."

Your criticism of her is unfair. She had every right to make dates with others, and no apologies necessary, Frank.

Feed Youngsters Carefully When on Your Picnic

By GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

Information on "Sun Bathing for the Baby" will be sent by Mrs. Bevans on receipt of a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

The other day some one in the country said, "We've had so many cooking picnics lately—let's have a regular old fashioned picnic with boiled eggs and all kinds of sandwiches and bananas that smell up the sandwiches and tomatoes cut in half with salt on that drip all over your best sport stockings, and pickles and cake, and so forth and so on."

The word picnic still means that to lots of people—and they love it. Even people with young children will prepare a picnic basket according to that plan—which is not a good one for youngsters. If you do lots of picnicking in the summer and you have very small children, it is essential that you keep as much as possible to their regular diet. At least, for the foundation of their meals. If you want to add some of the grownups' decorations so they won't feel left out, you can.

Vegetables, of course, are the one food item that gets itself omitted from a picnic and is the one food item that shouldn't be omitted from young children's meals. On most picnics it is quite feasible to keep the children's meals pretty much in their routine. If you go picnicking by automobile anything is possible, because you don't have to think of the weight of the supplies.

If you live where a picnic spot is near by you can manage very well with the aid of a couple of baskets. Small market baskets are good, as are also the gay Chinese covered picnic basket, or the double handled ones built like a Boston bag.

We used to save small glass jars with tight covers—like mayonnaise jars—for vegetables, broth, milk, even cooked fruit. Vegetables can be kept quite warm if you cook them or reheat them at the last minute, put them in the jar hot, and wrap them with several thicknesses of napkin and then a layer of newspaper.

Some people can't digest sandwiches. A dietitian of a school lunchroom said to me one day, "If I had my way I wouldn't have a sandwich in the place."

Food Talk.

Okra is produced in abundance, especially in the south, and is shipped in baskets to all parts of the country. From April until June we get the southern product and from June until September the home grown. Okra is now in the height of its season. When it can be found the quality is excellent. But the question is to find it. Sixteen markets were visited yesterday before we found some.

There are so few calls for it that the dealers cannot afford to handle it. We can't blame the dealer. It would be poor business for him to invest in so useless a commodity. We women who are concerned about the three meals a day are the ones to be censured.

"Eat more okra! And learn how to cook it in more ways than one," is an excellent slogan. Its use would increase the consumption and reduce the enormous waste which must necessarily happen when the consumption is so out of proportion to the production. If the cooking of okra were pursued with more interest, it would not be long until its reputation would soar. It has a most savory odor when cooked, a pleasing flavor and an interesting texture.

Our best lessons in cooking this vegetable can be learned from the Creoles in the south. They use the pods while tender. When the pod is too tough to be easily cut with a dull knife it is not considered worth eating. Pods about 3 inches long are usually preferred. Okra is employed in the preparation of soup, stews, salads and as a main vegetable. In the soups and stews, meat forms an integral part. Okra combines especially well with tomatoes and onions and it is in such combinations that the flavor seems most agreeable to those just starting to eat it.

Okra offers many possibilities and interesting variations to our menus. Some experimenting on the part of housewives and the courage to try out all available recipes will convert them to a greater use of one more important food.

Tomato Stuffed with Okra Forms Part of Tomorrow's Dinner

6 tomatoes.
2 teaspoons chopped onion.
Salt.
Pepper.
2 tablespoons butter.
1 tablespoon flour.
1½ cups milk.
Bread crumbs.

Cut the okra into ½ inch slices and cook until tender in boiling salted water about 10 minutes. Drain. Cut a slice from the stem end of the tomato. Remove the pulp and seeds. Mix the pulp with the okra, chopped onion, and seasoning. Fill the cavity in the tomato with this mixture. Place tomatoes in a baking dish. Pour a little water in the bottom of the dish to keep the tomatoes from burning. Place in the oven. Bake at 375° F. for 15 minutes, or broil for 5 minutes.

Make a white sauce of the butter, flour, and milk. Season. Add the grated cheese and cook until it is melted. The sauce should be quite thick. Pour over the tomatoes. Sprinkle the top with bread crumbs. Return to oven just long enough for the crumbs and sauce to brown slightly.

Society Busy With Gayety in Berkshires

BY THALIA

Summer affairs in the Berkshires move on apace. Mr. and Mrs. E. Parmalee Prentice gave one of the important events of the season at Williamstown on Saturday evening, an organ recital at their Mount Hope farm, for 100 guests. Mrs. Frederick Sprague Coolidge's picturesque temple of music on South mountain at Pittsfield was opened on Sunday afternoon for the first of a series of 10 Sunday concerts to be given by the South Mountain String quartet, founded by Mrs. Coolidge in 1923, and the Elshuco quartet.

Mrs. Coolidge was not present for the opening, as she is traveling in Mexico. Her son and daughter-in-law, the Albert Sprague Coolidges of Cambridge, have gone for a summer trip to Honolulu. Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Frothingham Jr. [Mary Wegg] were with Mr. Frothingham's mother at Overlee, at Lenox for the holiday week-end. Fanny Ogden McPherson, daughter of the Donald F. McPhersons, was a member of a week-end house party given by Dr. and Mrs. John A. P. Millet at Stockbridge.

Dr. and Mrs. Arthur M. Walker of Philadelphia arrived yesterday to visit Dr. Walker's parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Ransom Walker, at Stockbridge. Mr. and Mrs. Robert Edwin Ross are visiting Mr. Ross' brother-in-law and sister, Dr. and Mrs. Robert Metz at Fernbrook, at Lenox. When they leave, they are to go to West Falmouth on Cape Cod to occupy their cottage there for the summer. Mr. and Mrs. John Stuart Coonley Jr. were at the Red Lion inn at Stockbridge last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Templeton of Hinsdale announce the engagement of their daughter, Constance, to Frederic William Rhinelander II., son of the Right Rev. and Mrs. Philip Mercer Rhinelander of New York and Washington, D. C.

The romance is of a decidedly academic tinge, as Miss Templeton and Mr. Rhinelander have known each other during several years. Both are of an exceptionally studious turn of mind. Miss Templeton attended the National Cathedral School for Girls at Washington, D. C., at the same time that Mr. Rhinelander was a student at the National Cathedral School for Boys. Then she studied for four years at Radcliffe college, while he went through Harvard. Followed more studies at Oxford, England, for both of them. Still they plan to go right on purusing degrees after their marriage. Their wedding is to take place next Tuesday at the cathedral of St. John the Divine in New York City. Then they will sail for England. Mr. Rhinelander's father is to read the wedding service. Mr. Rhinelander, who has been working for his master's degree, now is with his parents at their summer place at Gloucester, Mass. The Rhinelanders formerly lived in Philadelphia.

The marriage of Miss Lena Turnbull, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Dale Turnbull of Boston, to Huntly Gilbert of 223 East Delaware place is to be a quiet affair, and will take place on Saturday at Emanuel church. Miss Turnbull is to have no attendants, and Lawrence M. Viles is to be best man for Mr. Gilbert. No invitations are being issued for the wedding because of illness in the family of the bride-to-be.

Miss Betty Brown, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Edward Brown, landed in New York City on the S. S. Europa after a year's schooling in Europe. Her father met her at the boat and they have both returned to Chicago. Mrs. Brown, Miss Betty, and the new baby who has been named Townsend Brown II after a great-uncle, will go east in August for a visit with Mrs. Brown's mother, Mrs. William G. Deshler of Columbus, O., who has a place near Southampton on Long Island.

Down from Minneapolis for the Fourth of July week-end were kinsfolk and friends of Mr. and Mrs. George E. Van Hagen Jr. of Barrington. Mr. and Mrs. S. M. Ford, Miss Mary Lewis, and Mr. and Mrs. Chauncey Lamb were the visitors. The party attended the races at Arlington on the Fourth.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas J. O'Gara of 1350 North State parkway are at the Chateau at Lake Louise, Can., for a few weeks before sailing from Vancouver for a trip to Alaska.

These Follies Girls Seeking Cash for Tribune Ice Fund

Here's a chance for some youthful Chicagoans to become Follies chorus girls—and boys. Mrs. Edward G. Shore, 2842 North Francisco avenue, who is directing the Juvenile Follies that is to be presented for the benefit of THE TRIBUNE Free Ice Fund, probably on July 31, sent out an S O S last night for additional chorus members. Plenty of youngsters have already enrolled for the cast, she reported, but not enough of them can sing.

So if you're willing to help sing the ice fund for tenement babies into a state of comparative wealth Mrs. Shore asks that you report at her home, where rehearsals are in progress almost every morning.

Your help will be much appreciated, both by this newspaper, by the babies in the poor homes where the free ice means so much on hot days, and also by Mrs. Shore. The fund needs all the aid it can muster.

300 Attend Convention of the Theosophists in Wheaton Quarters

More than 300 Theosophists, traveling from every state in the union, gathered in Wheaton yesterday for the forty-fourth annual convention of their society.

Geoffrey Hodson of London, England, author of books on clairvoyance, spoke in the afternoon to an audience, mostly of women. Mr. Hodson, who told of discoursing with the angels and spirits, spoke regretfully of America's materialism, but thought in five years America would accept theosophy.

The theosophists' creed he explained by saying that man and God were one, in their belief. They also believe in evolution, and the eventual product of a superman. We are quite a little distance from the age of the superman, he said. Gandhi, Mr. Hodson added, however, is one superman of this age.

Sally Calls to Young Fans to Write on Coming Ball Game

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

Baseball fans, aren't you excited over the prospect of seeing a major league game, particularly since our own White Sox and the Athletics, the world's champion baseball team, are to be the contenders? I can tell you that I am, and I'm hoping that the boys will put on a good show for us Thursday, July 17, when we shall be with them at Comiskey park.

Perhaps Reynolds will knock a home run and I know we can depend upon Cochrane of the Athletics to do some fancy hitting. In Sunday's game with the Boston Red Sox, two of Mack's star players, Dukes and Webb, helped the score along with home runs. Wouldn't it be grand to see some action like that? I don't doubt one bit that we will, and that the game will be just as exciting as you want it to be. We'll see some of these players cr-rack the ball so hard it will go spinning over our heads to the outfield and we'll see them sliding into bases and socking doubles and triples so fast and furious that we'll be dizzy watching them.

Just write me a letter telling me all about it. Mr. Comiskey has invited me to bring one hundred of you to see his White Sox and Mr. Mack's Athletics from Philadelphia in this glorious game on July 17, a week from Thursday.

Remember, you must write to me before Thursday, because that's the day on which I shall select the hundred boys and girls who are to accompany me to the party.

Now, then, boys and girls, get to work on a good, topping, convincing baseball letter and I can promise you a marvelous afternoon!

EMBARRASSING MOMENTS

Soap Cake.

An embarrassing moment which I'll never forget has occurred to me. As I was expecting the "one and only" for dinner Sunday, I naturally took special care with everything, as he knew I was to bake it myself. His mother told me he was especially fond of icebox cakes, so I tried my hand at one Saturday night, and ordered ice so that I could keep the whipped cream in the cake from spoiling. Naturally, I wouldn't accept advice or instructions from any of the family.

Well, the memorable event occurred. The boy friend exclaimed the main course was "delicious." 'Twas then I sprung the "waited for" surprise, and presented my icebox cake. My mother said he should have the biggest piece, and I proudly submitted it to him for his approval. He took a huge bite and we were all astonished to note the look of agony on his face. Anticipating that something was wrong, I tasted one of the crumbs. Horrors of horrors! It tasted as if a box of soap had been dumped in it. After the "joke" passed over, I learned that my little sister had put a little soap doll in the icebox and the whipped cream soaked up the odor, thus giving the cakes quite an "original" taste. Of course, we all tried to laugh it off, but I'll never forget the look on the boy friend's face and my humiliation.

WASHINGTON SOCIETY

Washington, D. C., July 7.—[Special.]—Senator and Mrs. McNary of Oregon returned to Washington yesterday with Mrs. Herbert Hoover from the fishing camp on the Rapidan. Mrs. Stark McMullin of California also returned with Mrs. Hoover. She had been a guest for some weeks at the White House, and accompanied Mrs. Hoover to the camp. She will remain with Mrs. Hoover for some time.

Mrs. Thomas D. Schall, wife of the senator from Minnesota, gave a tea yesterday for young people, for her son Midshipman Richard Schall and his guest and classmate, Midshipman Coleman.

The assistant secretary of state and Mrs. Francis White have leased the Ross cottage at Narragansett Pier for the remainder of the season.

Representative Ruth Bryan Owen of Florida sailed tonight on the Aquitania for England, to attend as a delegate, the meeting of the Interparliamentary Union.

Service at Hospital to Cost Less with New Organization

In response to the demand for a lower financial scale of hospital service, radical changes are now under way at the Garfield Park hospital, it was announced yesterday by Dr. John D. Pflock, president. That institution is to be incorporated as one not for profit, and a number of charitable beds established. Funds for the charity service will be provided by a Garfield park auxiliary, which has been organized to raise the money.

As one step in the lowering of hospital costs, a school for nurses has been reopened there, and the students will comprise the majority of the nursing staff, with one graduate nurse to each unit of students. Asked whether the nursing service would be less efficient under those circumstances, Dr. Pflock declared it would not—that the student nurses had been found equally efficient and even more loyal to their duties than the graduates.

FORMERLY WRIGHT'S

NEBRASKA HEARS LEGGE ARGUE ON WHEAT CROP CUT

Claims Less Production Would Raise Price.

Hastings, Neb., July 7.—(AP)—Chairman Alexander Legge of the farm board today told hard wheat growers of the middle west that low prices were in part due to the general depression, that he doubted that low prices would be permanent, and that better times were coming, although he could not say just when.

Chairman Legge was here with Secretary of Agriculture Hyde to advocate reduction in wheat acreage as a relief from the record low prices for that grain.

"In the last analysis," Legge said, "the matter of what you are going to do about the situation must be left to the producer."

Farm Board Blamed.

Chairman Legge said the farm board had been "charged with a lot of things," and he had no doubt that "the fellows who always find trouble will find a way to charge us with the decline in prices of securities and other products in addition to those produced by the farmer," he added:

"We are going through a world-wide depression in business. I doubt if we ever will be able to eliminate these periods of ups and downs.

"I don't believe there is any justifications for the theory that we are facing a permanent period of lower prices. I believe there will be better times, but I am not prepared to say when they will come."

Would Slow Down Production.

Chairman Legge advocated a gradual slowing down of wheat production "with the object of eventually balancing domestic production with domestic consumption."

He discounted the proposed equalization fee and the debenture plan as solutions of the present troubles confronting agriculture.

"The fundamental trouble with all such plans," he said, "is that apparently they will not work."

"It is our conclusion that a net reduction in production is essential if you are going to obtain a reasonable price for that which you produce, and the program which I wish to recommend is a gradual slowing down with the object of eventually balancing domestic production with domestic consumption. If and when this is done, the tariff of 42 cents a bushel will become fully effective."

Criticize Legge Proposals.

Kansas City, Mo., July 7.—(AP)—Kansas grain dealers today severely criticized the statement made by Alexander Legge, chairman of the federal farm board, at Hastings, Neb., that farmers should reduce their wheat acreage.

Reviewing the farm board proposal that farmers curtail production to obtain higher prices, dealers in Wichita applied such terms as "illogical," "nonsense," and "ruin."

Edward Kelly of the Kelly Grain company, Wichita, said:

"To curtail production of wheat in Kansas would be to ruin a great many farmers who are unable to raise anything but wheat. I think Mr. Legge's proposition is nonsense."

Plan Increase Instead.

Officials of the Kansas Farmers' union at Salina said western Kansas wheat growers expected to increase, rather than reduce their acreage, contending wheat is their only sure cash crop.

S. P. Wallingford, also a Wichita grain dealer, suggested a systematic advertising campaign to increase the consumption of wheat.

Lon H. Powell, president of the Wichita Terminal Elevator company, said, "To carry out Mr. Legge's plan would be to ruin hundreds of small Kansas farmers."

G. O. P. FULFILLED FARM PLEDGES, CAPPER ASSERTS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 7.—[Special.]—Within its first 16 months, according to Senator Arthur Capper [Rep., Kas.], in a statement today, the Hoover administration has fulfilled the pledges made to agriculture in the Republican national party platform of 1928, and by the President in his campaign speeches.

In addition to passage of the farm relief bill, the creation of a farm board with a 500 million dollar revolving fund at its disposal and increased appropriations for inland waterways and federal aid for highway construction, the recently enacted tariff bill, the Kansas senator pointed out, increased agricultural tariffs from an average of 22.37 per cent to an average of 33.94 per cent, levying duties on many items formerly on the free list, and provided an improved flexible provision.

MRS. PRICE WINS DELAY IN FAKE ROBBERY CASE

Mrs. Laura B. Price, wife of Edwin Price, millionaire box manufacturer, was granted a continuance yesterday until the fall term of court. She is charged with conspiracy to defraud an insurance company of $18,000 by allowing herself to be the victim of a fake robbery.

Assistant State's Attorney Charles J. Mueller vigorously protested against the continuance, charging that Mrs Price has already had more continuances of her case than she is entitled to. Judge John J. Sullivan, however, granted the continuance in view of the fact that an affidavit was filed saying that Mrs. Price's main witness is in Europe.

Maurice A. Barnett, a jewelry salesman, and Max Krakow, a jewelry manufacturer, who were co-defendants with Mrs. Price, were tried and convicted during the winter. She was granted a separate trial.

ADVERTISEMENT ANSWERS LEGGE PLAN FOR WHEAT

Omaha, Neb., July 7.—[Special.]—As an indication of what Nebraska thinks of Chairman Legge's plans for wheat, the Central City Republican of Central City, Neb., is out with a page advertisement signed by E. S. Ogden of that city denouncing the federal farm board and asking the question: "How long shall agriculture and business be made to suffer the results of federal farm board hallucinations?"

"The entrance of the federal farm board into the domestic market last fall has been a confidence destroying factor," continues the advertisement.

Business Girl Takes a Hint from Constant Demand for Youth

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

One of the directors of the Business and Professional Women's clubs, Mrs. Lois Pierce Hughes, deplores the present tendency for "youth" as it is evinced by today's business executive.

"Unless a working girl is in her early twenties, as pretty as a Hollywood star, wearing a change of costume every day, she can't get a look-in in New York offices," Mrs. Hughes is quoted as complaining.

Slightly exaggerated—BUT Mrs. Hughes offers the help wanted column in any metropolitan newspaper to substantiate her charge that executives are extremists in the matter of requiring youth in workers. The majority of the ads define the age wanted [and young it is]; many of them frankly state that the girl must be of good appearance.

What business needs, according to Mrs. Hughes, are a few more Henry Fords with an appreciation of the value of mature judgment. However, that is not our issue, since we are primarily involved in this department with the business girl and her appearance.

While we believe, as already hinted, that Mrs. Hughes' statement is exaggerated a bit, still there is an object lesson for those already established in work to be gathered from the advertising demands in the help wanted columns. It is that they must be on the "qui vive." And there is no question that youth or its simulation is wanted in business.

"Pretty as a Hollywood star" is our objection to Mrs. Hughes' statement, also the inference that one must have an extensive wardrobe to get or hold down one's job. The Hollywood or Follies' beauties still are miles away from by executives, not perhaps because they couldn't bear that much beauty around the place, but because they are disrupting to the force, which is to the advantage of the usual looking girl honestly intent on and equipped for a successful business career.

But, as we've said before, the beauty standard requirement of the acceptable business girl is based on health, hygiene, cleanliness, grooming, and neat, attractive dressing, which, in turn, are attributes that almost any girl can subscribe to at nominal expense.

Couturiers Turn New Lingerie Inside Out

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special Correspondence.]—Paris couturiers are nothing if not thorough. Not only do they design for us charming exteriors, but they turn fashions inside out for our interiors, because they know that the most beautiful frock in the world will be a failure, if it is worn over foundations that ruffle up or show through.

New lingerie from Paris is built on the same graceful, easy lines as the new dresses. Undies are cut so as to fit smoothly round the waist and hips; above and below they flow into reduced fullness allowing perfect freedom of movement, but they are totally devoid of bulky folds and ornamentation that might make for bumps.

Our sketch shows three inside-out fashions that follow their frocks to a t. Mme. Alexandre makes the feminine sports undies above of pink crêpe satin. Both the semi-fitted brassière and the short panties, fitted into a little yoke or belt, turn their crêpe sides out—the smooth surface, soft as rose petals, caressing the skin. The shiny side is used for the bias pipings and the incrusted bows that form the only trimming.

The fitted slip from Malnelia in the lower left hand corner is made like the pinafore frocks so fashionable in the outer as well as the inner circles of Paris fashions. It wraps around and ties at the right side back. Its princess corsage of pink crêpe satin is simply décolleté in the back, making it safe for evening wear. The petal godets of the soft pink crêpe de chine skirt are attached together and to the bodice by fagot stitching. Incrusted motifs of écru lace adorn the top front.

The standing figure at the right is wearing a nightie from Annek, the house sponsored by Lady Abdy. It's of wild rose pleated mousseline. The drop shoulder yoke and the little puffs finishing the long sleeves are of fine pink lace to match.

Greater Beauty For Lovely Women

Beauty's first requisite—skin perfection. Thus, the fairest and smartest use MELLO-GLO Face Powder that spreads more smoothly and produces a youthful bloom," says Kae English, famous Ziegfeld star. Its new French process makes MELLO-GLO stay on longer and bans the shiny nose. Pure! Prevents pastiness, dullness, irritation and large pores. Use MELLO-GLO.
